RALPH McGILL

I Recall the Old Cookstoves

I am one of those persons who read ads. I look at a newspaper or magazine in a sort of over-all fashion, peering first at the lead stories or articles, noting the editorials and feature writers, and then the ads.

Now and then when I have an assignment for a story which requires me to learn and know a city, the first thing I do is buy all its newspapers and study the ads. I believe I can go from airport or rail station to a hotel blindfolded, and by studying the advertising in three or four days of newspaper editions, come very close to knowing just what sort of a town it is: its culture, its appearance, its thinking, and its degree of maturity. Advertisements, if well done, are good reading and reveal much more than prices and goods.

Now and then I hear critics decry advertising saying it is unnecessary and so on. Since I earn a living at a craft which sells advertising, I always try to listen to such critics with courtesy, though at times it wears thin. Very thin. They have no real argument.

Values

Now, however, from the pages of the February Harper's Magazine, comes an article on advertising whic is brand new, though the truth of it is so obvious I wonder it was not printed long ago. I like to do my own chores, but this is such good logic I lift it from Harpers:

"Because people shop to see what better values they can get for their money, advertising loves differentials. 'New single dial TV control' (Westinghouse) . . . 'The bewitching new color by Elizabeth Arden' (lipstick) . . . 'Now—the GE Clock that automatically re-sets the alarm' . . . so run the advertisements featuring the differentials of their respective products. What people buy, however, is the basic satisfaction in the product, plus the differential. As soon as each extra feature which shows merit appears, competitors seek to match or to surpass it; otherwise, they would lose sales. As a result of this rivalry for the buyer's favor, the degree of difference between products in that field closes up. The extra feature that is offered by one product today soon becomes taken for granted as the standard for all such products tomorrow, and serves as the base for future differentials.

"Many critics of advertising view these differentials as inconsequential, confusing, and trivial. 'All soaps are really alike.' 'All refrigerators are about equal.' 'All tires made by the leading companies are about the same,' we often hear, 'and there isn't enough difference between them to waste all that money advertising them.' Those critics take a still photograph of a living process and compare the size of plants standing in a row of flowerpots. They fail to picture the growth in values of all the products in a field today, compared with those of some years ago.

Improvement

"Toilet soap bars today are made from better fats with better control of alkalinity, with better preservatives, and with better wrappers than some years ago—not to say anything about the many improved synthetic detergents which have appeared. He who scoffs at the trivial differentials, or gadgets, which are advertised in electric refrigerators does not scoff nearly as haughtily as would a young housewife if she were offered as new today an unused model of twenty years ago. Today's average refrigerator has a far better refrigerant, a better motor, better insulation, and larger storage space than the costliest model of twenty years ago. Canned soups today have better enriched recipes than when you were a youngster, and are offered in greater variety. Today's tires give over four times the mileage per dollar (aside from excise taxes) of those of twenty years ago, in addition to giving you a smoother and safer ride.

"Advertising is the fastest way of telling many people about these developments at the lowest cost per message. Mass communication is as important to our economy as is mass production. That it is available on a nation-wide scale to anyone with the price of a one-inch advertisement, and not merely to government bureaus or state trusts, is evidence of democracy at work. The buyer must still decide for himself what he wishes to select. This is an adult responsibility and a small price to pay for the privilege and the opportunity of being able to make such choice. . . . In prisons, they don't ask you to choose from a menu; they dish out whatever they have decided is good enough for you."

As an old ad reader this pleased me. I remember the old ice boxes. I cut kindling and carried coal for a cookstove. I helped fill tubs on washday.

Stalin Asserts War Avoidable, Raps UN's Role

Predicts Defeat of Allies If China's Offer Is Spurned

By HARRISON E. SALISBURY
Special to The New York Times and The Atlanta Constitution

MOSCOW, Feb. 16—Generalissimo Joseph Stalin Friday night proclaimed his belief that war is not inevitable "at least for the present," but declared that the United Nations "is becoming a weapon of aggressive war" and "dooms itself to disintegration."

It was the generalissimo's first public pronouncement on the international situation in just under 25 months, and in many respects it was one of his most important declarations of recent years. It was made in the form of replies to questions submitted by a correspondent of the Communist Party newspaper Pravda.

Premier Stalin made the following paramount points:

First, that war is not inevitable for the present but may become inevitable if "warmongers manage to entangle the popular masses in lies, deceive them and drag them into a new world war."

Josef Stalin

Secondly, that the United Nations by condemnation of the Chinese action in Korea "is entering the inglorious road of the League of Nations, thus burying its moral prestige and dooming itself to disintegration."

Thirdly, that Anglo-American forces in Korea are doomed to defeat if the Chinese peace proposals "are finally rejected," because the troops have no faith in their cause.

Fourthly, that the Soviet Union has carried out extensive demobilization of its armed forces and has turned its economy to peaceful construction and civil betterment on such a scale that it would go bankrupt if it were maintaining a military establishment on the scale alleged by British Prime Minister Clement Attlee in a recent House of Commons address.

Stalin's criticism of the United Nations was in the sharpest terms. He made no suggestion that the Soviet Union contemplated abandonment of its United Nations membership, but he left no shadow of doubt that Soviet loss of confidence in the United Nations is profound and that the Soviet Union no longer regards the UN as a force capable of preserving peace.

Stalin left no doubt that in his view the world situation has undergone substantial deterioration

Could Need More Troops —Bradley

Acheson, General Press Europe Case

By WILLIAM S. WHITE
Special to The New York Times and The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—Sec. of State Dean Acheson declared Friday that this country's European Allies could be expected roughly to double their combat forces within the next year.

Gen. Bradley

"Real progress," he assured Congress, was being made all about the West toward its aim of building so strong a defensive force as, at best, genuinely to deter the Russians, or, at least, to engage and ultimately beat them if they advanced upon Europe.

General of the Army Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, made it plain for his part that the six-division ground force the United States intends to maintain on European station would not necessarily and in all circumstances be the end of the American contribution.

Sec. Acheson and Gen. Bradley testified before the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees, which are sitting together on the issue as to how much voice Congress should have in sending ground soldiers to Europe.

Acheson was sharply challenged on this issue by Sen. Hickenlooper, Republican of Iowa.

Sen. Hickenlooper accused the secretary in substance of having misled the Senate in 1949 into

Reds Crack Line North Of Chechon

Central Strong Points By-passed

By PHIL NEWSOM

TOKYO, Saturday, Feb. 17. (UP)—Three North Korean divisions smashed Saturday through United Nations defenses north of Chechon, central Korean gateway to the old Pusan beachhead, as other Allied troops to the northwest fell back from the key town of Pyongchang.

United Press Correspondent Joe Quinn reported from the central front that the Communist force made a "mass penetration" of the Allied front in that area, after the Reds were beaten back with staggering losses in their five-day drive against Chipyong and Wonju.

Eighth Army Headquarters reports said Allied troops withdrew late Friday from Pyongchang, eastern anchor of their central front defense line, and also moved back an undisclosed distance south of the 38th Parallel on the east coast. The move was made to shorten the UN lines, stretched by the Communist drive in the central sector.

It appeared that both Chinese and North Korean forces were giving up their frontal assaults on the strongpoints of Wonju and Chipyong and by-passing them to drive to the south.

Quinn reported that the last sizable Communist activity in the Chipyong-Wonju area ended when a French-American force unleashed mortar and artillery barrages on last-ditch banzai forces at Chipyong before dawn Friday.

In the five-day period through Thursday enemy losses were estimated at 26,962 killed, wounded or captured—mostly on the central front.

On the east coast a small Communist force was reported to have crossed the 38th Parallel southward to follow up the withdrawal by South Korean forces.

Chechon, a rail and road junction some 20 miles southeast of Wonju, was reported earlier to have been threatened by Communist columns thousands strong.

This meant the enemy was making a drive 16 miles behind the Allied front. Chechon is 21 miles southeast of Wonju. It was at Wonju and Chipyong, another 20 miles to the northeast, that American and Allied garrisons held their ground and then lashed back to stall the Red drive.

On the east coast a small Communist unit already has crossed the 38th Parallel southward in what appeared to be a move to maintain contact with South Korean forces in that area.

An Eighth Army communique said another relief column of 19 ambulances and armored elements late Friday reached the defense perimeter of Chipyong, where an American rescue column plunged through enemy fire Thursday to join an American-French combat team holding out in the town.

Six miles to the south, UN forces secured the town of Koksu without opposition, the communique reported. In the Chipyong area itself there was only sporadic small arms, mortar and artillery fire.

The communique said an estimated enemy regiment attacked the Allies early Saturday 10 miles north-northwest of Chechon, but later the assault was reported subsiding. Heavy artillery fire repulsed another enemy assault six miles north-northeast of the town Friday night.

In the Seoul area to the northwest, South Korean forces took Hill 96 nine miles northwest of Yongdungpo, a suburb across the Han just west of Seoul. Other Allied forces exchanged fire with a small enemy unit on the southwest outskirts of Seoul.

Prices Rise Despite Curbs

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—(AP)—Wholesale prices rose again during the week ending Feb. 13 despite price controls. It was the 14th straight week in which the prices have advanced to new peaks.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics, reporting this Friday, said its index of wholesale prices went up 0.5 percent putting it 2.6 percent above a month earlier and 16.8 percent higher than the level just prior to the outbreak of the Korean war.

Meyers Faces Apr. 16 Trial

BALTIMORE, Feb. 16—(AP)—Former Gen. Bennett E. Meyers, who recently got out of prison, pleaded innocent Friday to charges he evaded $61,400 of income taxes.

Federal Judge William C. Coleman set April 16 for start of the trial. Meyers will continue at liberty under $5,000 bond.

Maximum punishment on six counts in two indictments against Meyers adds up to 30 years in prison and $60,000 in fines.

Levy Retained On Trolley, Bus Fares

By M. L. ST. JOHN

The Georgia Legislature passed a 3 percent sales and use tax, with almost no exemptions, Friday night and recessed until Jan. 14, 1952.

The solons worked almost 4 hours beyond their scheduled adjournment hour, 6 p. m., while the Senate fought, in vain, to grant some exemptions.

The House stood fast. At one time, the House voted to remain in session until 6 p. m Monday. Finally, at 9:30 p. m., the Senate made the final concession and sent the bill to the Governor. Both branches adjourned a few minutes later.

The House turned back a Senate amendment to totally exempt trolley fares. The amendment would also have exempted fares up to 15 cents on inter-urban buses using coin fare boxes, and on telephone pay stations fare boxes, up to 15 cents.

All day Friday, the Senate-House conference committee was deadlocked on whether to apply the Georgia sales tax to the total purchases of common carriers engaged in interstate commerce.

The Senate wanted to apply a formula which would charge the carriers only on that portion of their equipment and rolling stock they purchased for Georgia trade. The House objected, stating that manufacturers would pay the sales tax on their total purchases of machinery to produce goods to be sold in other states.

A compromise was being worked out to tax the equipment in full but partially exempt the rolling stock, when the Senate decided just to take the tax bill as the House was insisting.

Since the original bill says its purpose is "not to interfere with interstate commerce," Senators said it would be up to the State Revenue Commissioner to determine where to stop applying the tax.

A Senate amendment to permit merchants to absorb the tax on purchases under 25 cents also died. The tax on coin-operated machines, trolleys, can be absorbed.

The sales tax, termed the most comprehensive in the United States and expected to raise more than $100,000,000 annually, received final approval with virtually no more exemptions than when it was introduced. Feed, seed, fertilizer and insecticides used to produce farm products were exempted. So were hospitals (Grady Hospital in Atlanta) supported entirely by taxation. Personal services are exempted, as are raw materials used in the manufacture of goods.

The sales tax, if signed by the Governor as anticipated, will go into effect April 1.

As the conferees remained at odds throughout the day, Gov. Talmadge came from his home in Lovejoy to the Capitol to appeal to the members for action on this tax measure vital to financing expansion of State services.

Wage Plan Stirs Labor Rebellion

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS
Special to The New York Times and The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—Labor converted its walk-out on wage controls Friday into a powerful bid for a "new deal" in the whole mobilization program.

The next step in unsnarling wage policy was up to Eric Johnston, Economic Stabilization Director. The basic wage formula adopted, 6 to 3, by the Wage Stabilization Board cannot go into effect unless he approves it. He will not act on it until next week.

In the meantime, Johnston is expected to work on the crux of the problem — a rapprochement between the labor leaders and the boss of the mobilization program. Charles E. Wilson. The labor leaders also hoped to take their case to President Truman Monday.

Labor can live with the formula, however reluctantly, if certain other concessions are made. The formula, designed as a substitute for the "freeze," would permit wage increases totaling 10 percent from a base period in the latter part of January, 1950, with a probable upward adjustment next June to cover cost of living increases. Still other adjustments to correct "abnormalities" and rare and unusual cases would be permitted under the formula.

It was believed unlikely Johnston would reject or modify the formula because that would place the public members of the Wage Stabilization Board in an untenable position and might mean the end of the tripartite system. That would be contrary to the philosophy of government often ex-

Head-on Crash Injures Solons

MACON, Feb. 16—Two Wayne County legislators in the Georgia General Assembly, enroute to Jesup from Atlanta, were admitted to a Macon hospital Friday night after being injured in a head-on collision with an automobile occupied by four Negroes.

They were Dr. J. T. McLaughlin, state senator, and Rep. Robert L. Harris. Their conditions were not announced. The driver of the other car, identified as George Waters, of Macon, also was hospitalized.

The accident occurred in Twiggs County on the Cochran-Short highway.

Atom Engine For Submarine Partly Built

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Feb. 16—(AP)—Commissioner Sumner T. Pike of the Atomic Energy Commission said Friday night the first atomic plant for U. S. Navy submarines is already "partly built."

Pike made the disclosure in reporting on the progress of the multi-billion-dollar atomic program and the quest to determine the feasibility of the hydrogen "hell" bomb.

He said briefly that research on the H-bomb is "an important part of our weapons program."

As to atom-powered underseas craft, Pike said:

"In an attempt to get useful power from atomic fission, we are engaged in the design and construction of a power plant for naval submarines.

"The design of two practical, though expensive, devices for submarine propulsion is practically completed, and one of them is partly built.

"It shouldn't be too many years before one or both will be operating in a true submarine."

Pike said that with the present "high emphasis" on weapons development, nearly three-quarters of the AEC's $1,000,000,000-a-year expenditure is going "for direct military application."

He said that if the need does not arise for using the weapons, the fissionable material itself can be regarded as "practically a permanent storehouse for peaceful power production."

"The power plants for the submarines involve features of design which can go a long way in solving the similar problems which will have to be met in setting up plants for industrial and other peaceful power," Pike said.

Fair, Warm Seen Sunday

Partially clearing skies and warmer temperatures are forecast for the Atlanta area Saturday afternoon replacing an occasional light rain or drizzle predicted during the morning. The weatherman at Atlanta's Municipal Airport says Sunday will be "fair and warm."

The mercury in Atlanta is expected to reach 52 following a predicted morning low reading of 40 degrees. Sunday the thermometer is expected to range between 36 and 60. Extremes recorded in the city Friday were 41 and 57.

Solon Blasts Editor of Statesman

By HOKE SMITH MAY

An antiadministration senator Friday blasted Walter O. Brooks, an aide to Gov. Talmadge, as a "Mussolini" and a "Goebbels."

Rising on a point of personal privilege, Sen. Osgood Williams, of Crawfordville, lambasted Brooks, described as editor of the Statesman, for his attack on senators who opposed the county unit amendment.

Terming the Statesman a "sheet," Williams noted that the paper listed the "people" as editor and Gov. Talmadge as associate editor, then added:

"But the people do not get in this paper and neither does Herman E. Talmadge. A guy named Brooks is editor and publisher of this sheet.'

"I did not intend to answer his charge," Williams continued, "but Brooks has strutted around corridors like Mussolini strutted around Italy, telling everyone about the great influence he exerts over the Governor."

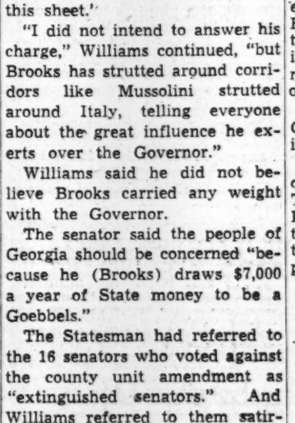

Williams said he did not believe Brooks carried any weight with the Governor.

The senator said the people of Georgia should be concerned "because he (Brooks) draws $7,000 a year of State money to be a Goebbels."

The Statesman had referred to the 16 senators who voted against the county unit amendment as "extinguished senators." And Williams referred to them satirically in the same manner.

But he concluded that Brooks should not have attacked the opponents of the county unit measure, "because they followed the path of duty, fearing nothing."

Senate members who spoke against the amendment and who were criticized in the Statesman besides Williams were Sen. Robert Stephens of Athens; Vincent Jones, of Jackson, R. F. Duncan, of Lawrenceville; Everett Millican, of Atlanta, and Peyton Hawes, of Elberton.

Bill Beaten To Cut Tax On Property

One of Governor Talmadge's tax revision proposals—virtual abolishment of the five-mill property tax—was defeated by the House Friday afternoon after a flurry of debate.

The proposed constitutional amendment cutting the tax to one-quarter of a mill failed to get the required constitutional majority of 137 votes. Only 125 representatives voted for it, and 41 voted against it.

Rep. Bill Freeman, of Forsyth County, who has opposed administration measures, said he would ask consideration of the measure at next January's session.

House Speaker Fred Hand, of Mitchell County, led the fight against the proposal, declaring it would give public utilities an outright gift of $1,225,000 which would not be reflected in any rate reduction to the people. Hand said he could not put a sales tax on the poor man's meat and bread and then give corporations such a gift.

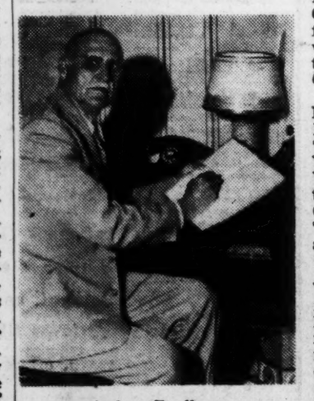

Freeman and Rep. Adie Durden, administration critic, said it was not "tax revision" to add a $100,000,000 sales tax without reducing the property tax.

Governor Talmadge previously announced he would slash the five-mill tax by executive order so it could go into effect this year.

U.S., British Views Differ On Parallel

Truman, Attlee In Disagreement

By RAYMOND DANIELL
Special to The New York Times and The Atlanta Constitution

LONDON, Feb. 16—Considerable disagreement still exists or seems to between Britain and the U. S. over what action should be taken if an opportunity presents itself again to cross the 38th parallel in Korea. This is reflected in the contradictory expressions of views by Prime Minister Clement Attlee and President Truman, which of course may be intended primarily for domestic consumption in their respective countries.

Nevertheless, if the difference in viewpoint is real, there is grave danger of a rift in public opinion in Britain and the U. S. if the military expediency of crossing the parallel ceases to be an academic question. The British people certainly have been led to believe that what is now regarded as the mistake of last October will not be repeated without consultation among all the Allies with forces in Korea.

That is why reports in British newspapers Friday quoting Mr. Truman as saying that Gen. Douglas MacArthur has full authority to proceed with a crossing of the parallel, if he wishes, caused some consternation here. An official spokesman for the government said a fuller explanation of what the President meant would be sought.

There is no question in official minds here that Gen. MacArthur is still operating under the resolution adopted by the UN on Oct. 7 authorizing him to proceed with the pacification and unification of Korea. But there is surprise that Mr. Truman should suggest that Gen. MacArthur is at liberty to act under it while presumably discussions are proceeding regarding the wisdom of acting on it.

Early this week Attlee declared in a debate on foreign affairs that his government entertained strong reservations which had been communicated to the U. S.

Most readers of the British Press know only the British government is opposed to another crossing of the parallel without consultation among the allies. To them it seems that Mr. Truman's reported statement is a flat rejection of what they regard as a reasonable request.

Rightly or wrongly, there is serious mistrust of Gen. MacArthur's judgement in this country, and the suggestion implied in Mr. Truman's statement as reported here that the decision whether to cross or not to cross the fateful line, with all its political implications, lies in his hands caused considerable misgiving in official as well as unofficial circles.

Woolen Mill Strike Idles 120 Plants

By JOHN H. FENTON
Special to The New York Times and The Atlanta Constitution

BOSTON Feb. 16 — Orderly picket lines were thrown across the gates of 120 New England woolen mills Friday as the Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, called its first industry-wide strike in 11 years. It was estimated that 23,880 of the region's 50,000 woolen workers were idle.

As the lines formed in front of all but a few of the region's sprawling plants, the New England Council issued one of its periodic reports on defense contracts, disclosing that the mills had been awarded some $50,000,000 in such orders since Sept. 23, 1950.

The American Woolen Company, considered the bellwether of the industry, had received nearly half the total—$21,182,214. Most of these orders were for uniform cloth, Army and Navy blankets and cartridge belts.

A breakdown of negotiations on a new contract with the American Woolen Company in New York brought on the strike, according to officials in this area. Virtually all queries for information on the situation, however, were referred to New York headquarters.

Lawrence Mass., was one of the hardest hit of the textile cities. The city only recently had begun to come back from the recession of 1949. New defense contracts and the attracting of diversified industries to occupy abandoned mills were just beginning to take hold.

Friday, however, workers were out in two of the city's largest mills, both owned by American Woolen. At the Wood mill, 5,500 were on strike, and at the Ayer mill, 1,500 were out.

It was expected the work stoppage would affect American Woolen's Shawsheen Mill in nearby Andover Mass., within a few days. Although the plant is under contract to the Textile Workers of America, United, AFL, and not concerned in the present strike, many of its departments are dependent on preliminary work done at the Wood plant.

The Pacific and Arlington Mills, at Lawrence both of whose workers are members of the AFL union, were operating and there was no indication the strike would spread there.

Sergeant-Major Marriage Mixes Martial and Marital Courtesies

SALT LAKE CITY, Feb. 16—(INS)—At least one Army sergeant has a major taking orders from him—but strictly on a part-time basis.

The definitely nonGI situation exists in Salt Lake City where Sgt. Kenneth Kuhn married Major Elizabeth Wilbern. He is a personnel clerk in the organized reserve section and she is adjutant of the Utah Military District.

The couple revealed they were married Feb. 2 at Elko, Nev., after "going steady" for nine months.

Now, they claim, they keep everything according to Hoyle by separating their homelife from Army business. At home—from 4:30 p. m. until 8 a. m. the next day—the sergeant is the ranking man of the house. But during office hours, the major gives the commands.

Crime Probers Threaten Punchboard Shipping Ban

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—(AP)—Senate crime investigators threatened an interstate ban on punchboards Friday after being told that between $100,000,000 and $1,000,000,000 may be gambled on them yearly.

John W. Brookfield, a lottery expert of the Federal Trade Commission, testified that the lowly punchboard had blossomed into a big-time gambling racket. He was the first witness before resumed hearings of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee.

Brookfield reported punchboards are moving in rapidly as slot machines move out. He estimated that manufacture of the boards alone had become a $10,000,000-a-year business, and that sometimes the boards are fixed so the player can't possibly win a prize.

Sen. Kefauver, Democrat, Tennessee, chairman of the committee, stated punchboards might well be placed in the same category as slot machines and banned from shipment across State lines. The idea was supported by Sen. Tobey, Republican, New Hampshire, another member of the commitee. Both said they thought an amendment to the slot machine law could be worked out.

Brookfield testified a firm known as "Sportsman's Supply House," Box 887, Long Beach, Calif., distributes punchboards with a ky to all the willing numbers so that these may be punched out before the public gets access to them.

He turned over to the committee advertising matter offering the boards for "$4.98 straight" or "$14.98 with a key" to the location of the winning numbers.

Brookfield said the buyer would take a profit of $102 if all the winners were left on the board or a $300 profit by punching them out beforehand.

Kefauver promptly ordered investigators to find the officers of the firm.

With the aid of figures supplied by the committee, Brookfield made a quick calculation and said he would not be surprised in anywhere between $100,000,000 and $1,000,000,000 was gambled on the boards annually.

From 30 to 40 companies now manufacture punchboards, he said, with most of them specializing in boards that pay off in cash. "Nine out of 10 are strictly gambling boards," he said. He described a board that takes in $120 when completely punched and pays out just under $80.

George Robinson, associate committee counsel, asked if it were a common practice to throw away a board after $80 or $90 had been taken in and only $5 or $10 paid out.

Brookfield said he did not know, but that he imagined such a practice would appeal to certain operators.

Transparent Dice 'No Guarantee'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—(AP)—Charles O'Neil, Chicago manufacturer of gambling equioment, told a Senate crime investigating committee Friday that transparency of dice is no guarantee they aren't "loaded."

O'Neil, who testified he never manufactured "crooked dice," said they are oddly shaped so certain numbers will or won't turn up, and sometimes even transparent ones are cleverly "filled" or loaded with weights.

They're known, he added, as "magical" or "percentage" dice.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16—(INS)—Mrs. Dorothy Mae Stevens, Chicago's "Deep Freeze Woman," said Friday she is tired of Chicago and is going back to Tennessee where she was born.

In her first news conference since she was found frozen stiff in an alley Feb. 8, Mrs. Stevens said:

"It was a miracle. The Lord saved me."

The woman astounded medical science by surviving after her body temperature dropped to 64 degrees following a night spent exposed to 11 degrees below zero cold.

Asked how she felt after the ordeal, Mrs. Stevens smiled and replied:

"I'm sick of the city. I want to go back to the small town in Tennessee where I was born and raise some chickens. My husband wants to go with me. He's tired of Chicago too."

Questioned about how she regarded her experience, she said:

"The Lord saved me. I'm through with alcohol. I just want some peace and quiet."

Asked if she remembered falling, Mrs. Stevens answered:

"I remember falling down twice. I don't remember anything else until I woke up in the hospital, and felt like I was being stuck with pins, especially in my arms and legs."

East Point Youth Shot; Man Held

Joseph Samuel Bostwick, Jr., 15-year-old East Point youth, late Friday was admitted to Grady Hospital in critical condition with a gunshot wound in the stomach, while an East Point man was held in technical custody in connection with the case, police reported.

G. H. Hatcher, of 600 Hillcrest Drive, East Point, called East Point police headquarters and said he fired a .22 caliber rifle through a window at a prowler, Ptl. H. A. Rickerson and Kenneth Stephens related.

A few seconds later, patrolmen said a youth knocked at 608 Hillcrest Drive, and told residents that he fell down and injured his stomach and asked to be driven home. Patrolmen said an ambulance was called after the youth arrived at home.

Hatcher said he began looking for a prowler after a neighbor telephone and said that someone was on the porch of his home looking through a window. He told officers he fired once and the person fled.

Rickerson and Stephens said Hatcher would be placed under technical arrest pending a hearing.

Wage Board Policy Hit By CIO Official Here

South Described as 'Dumb,' Getting Only 'Butt of Butt'

David J. McDonald, secretary and treasurer of United Steelworkers of America-CIO, Friday condemned the Wage Stabilization Board's proposed wage policy as "the fake of all fakes" and at the same time called for greater support of the CIO's political action committee "to combat the deplorable labor situation in Washington at present."

McDonald, in a fiery address to the Political Action Conference of the United Steelworkers of America at the Municipal Auditorium, said the three labor members of the Wage Stabilization Board did exactly right when they left the Wage Stabilization Board meeting in protest of a wage policy plan granting labor a 10 percent increase in the future.

The 10 percent pattern which the three industry and three public members approved would include wage increases plus cost of living adjustments based on the next government index.

Angrily the CIO official declared "there is no limit on profits, no limits on increasing efficiency, no effective controls on farm prices—only controls on the workers' wages."

McDonald termed the present setup in Washington "backdoor communism and fascism" and labeled Charles Wilson an "economic dictator" rather than a defense mobilizer.

"The United Steelworkers will not give up the right to strike and the right to bargain collectively for anybody and we are against communism and fascism in the form of big business creeping into government," said McDonald. "Surely we'll use our strength if the Wage Stabilization Board turns us down."

He laid the lack of effective farm price controls to "a coalition of Republican and Southern congressmen and said further he doubts there will ever be effective controls.

"It shall be our determined purpose to rip big business from power in 1952," he said in urging stronger support for the CIO's political action committee.

Earlier in the day the Rev. William Holmes Borders, pastor of the Wheat Street Baptist Church, told the group of steelworker delegates from Southern states that the South "politically is the dumbest area in the world" and that as a result of her one-party system tradition, "the South gets only the butt end of what the Democratic party has left and the Southern Negro gets only the butt of that butt."

In urging CIO members, both Negro and white, to register and vote in all elections, the minister said that Mayor Hartsfield, who had welcomed the Conference delegates, and other Atlanta officials had used dilatory tactics in stalling the Negroes' request for Negro police "until we had 26,000 registered voters. Then the election came along and we got what we were after."

He condemned the Talmadge administration as "stupid" because "any administration which plays race against race is stupid."

With but one dissenting vote, Borders was voted an official delegate to the Political Action Conference. The conference had nearly as many Negro delegates as white.

Another speaker, Gene Wells, PAC representative of CIO District 36 in Birmingham, reported that his committee had been successful in 1950 in electing and re-electing five out of nine representatives and two Senators to the U. S. Congress from Alabama.

"If all States could do as well, we could repeal the Taft-Hartley act," he said.

The closing session of the Conference will be held Saturday morning.

Wed To Escape Draft, Wife Accuses Mate

MIAMI, Feb. 16—(INS)—A young Miami wife charged Friday her husband married her to "enrich himself and escape the draft."

Mrs. Patricia Lyons Ellis made the accusation in Dade County Circuit Court as she filed a divorce suit against 22-year-old Gene Ellis.

Ellis' address was listed as the U. S. Army Base at Fort Jackson, S. C.

Textile War Looms, CIO Warns

The strike of 70,000 woolen workers in New England is merely an indication of what's going to happen in the South when the contracts of the cotton textile workers expire next March 15, according to James W. Bamford of Atlanta, Southern Director for the CIO Textile Workers Union of America.

This Union has served on the mills whose employees it represents a demand for a 15 percent increase in pay and for numerous "fringe" benefits, including a seven percent annual "improvement factor" payment.

Bamford said the woolen workers' strike in New England "represents the general dissatisfaction of workers everywhere with the recent wage thaw." This 10 percent limit wage thaw, announced this week in Washington, puts Southern textile workers "right behind the eight ball," Bamford said.

The only woolen mill in Georgia with a CIO contract is the Bachman-Uxbridge plant, at Cedartown. The majority of the textile mills of the State are unorganized.

4-State English Group To Meet

Some 100 college professors will converge upon Georgia Tech Saturday to attend the first meeting of the newly formed Georgia-Alabama-Florida-South Carolina branch of the College English Association.

Sir Richard W. Livingstone, vice chancellor of Oxford University, who is visiting lecturer at Emory University, will be the principal speaker at luncheon, according to A. J. Walker, Georgia Tech professor and regional director.

The afternoon will be devoted to a discussion of the Humanities and the problems of college sophomores.

Speakers will include Edward Foster, of Georgia Tech; Paul Haines, of Auburn; Edgar E. Stanton, of Converse College; F. W. Conner, of the University of Florida; and N. C. Starr, of Rollins College.

German Firm Caught Sending Trucks to Reds

By BRACK CURRY

FRANKFURT, Germany, Feb. 16—(AP)—A secret deal for the shipment of German trucks and technicians to Communist China has been uncovered by Allied and German officials.

Disclosing this Friday, German authorities said Mao Tze-tung's Government ordered 2,000 three-and-a-half ton diesel trucks from a West German firm.

The Communists agreed to pay in Swiss francs.

The West German firm contracted to deliver the trucks in Tientsin, which is linked by rail with the principal supply points for the Communist armies in Korea, the authorities said.

The firm also agreed to send technicians to China to assemble the trucks and later to repair any breakdowns.

Before allied or West German authorities learned of the deal, 150 of the trucks arrieved in Tientsin. About 350 others were packed and ready for shipment when German authorities stepped in and ordered the shipment held up and notified the Allied High Commission.

German sources said the Allies then issued instructions that trucks of this type—although not primarily for military use—could not be shipped to Red China "due to the International situation."

The trucks would be of great value to the Communists in ferrying supplies to the Red armies battling United Nations troops in Central Korea, the informants said.

German and Allied officials also reported Communist agents are swarming over Western Germany in search of war potential goods for the Peiping Government.

The Red agents are offering dollars or Swiss francs for Rhur steel, machinery, steel rails, trucks and finished goods, the sources said.

Dummy trading companies set up in the Rhur by the Russians to siphon strategic materials from West Germany are believed to be diverting some of these commodities to Red China.

In addition, officials suspect that also through direct deals with certain Rhur firms Red China is getting some trucks and steel rails.

The procedure, it is believed, is for the Rhur firms to "sell" strategic materials to Swiss, Swedish, Dutch or Belgian firms which then tranship them to China.

Parliament Member's Plea To U. S. Flayed by Nehru

Special to The New York Times and The Atlanta Constitution

NEW DELHI, Feb. 16—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru strongly condemned Friday the action of 43 members of Parliament in having directly appealed to the United States Congress to approve legislation for a grant of 2,000,000 tons of food to this country.

Faced with acute famine conditions in this country and encouraged by President Truman's outlining of the food plan, these members jointly cabled Thursday to the presiding officers of Congress for favorable consideration of the proposal pending in Washington.

Nehru, who has taken a serious view of the matter, said it appeared to him a "novel precedent" for a number of members of the House to take a step in a matter concerning foreign policy and in addressing officers of a foreign government without consideration of larger issues.

"This message was sent without any kind of reference to any member of the Government and I was considerably surprised to read it," he declared.

If such practices were to continue, the Prime Minister went on, different members of the House might send contradictory messages advocating different policies by telegrams addressed to foreign governments.

He said such practices were bound to create an embarrassing situation, not only to Parliament but to the Government. While conceding the freedom of members to address any message they like to any individual or government, Nehru frankly disapproved the present move, saying it could only lead to "confusion and embarrassment."

Some of the signers felt that the Prime Minister's remarks were unreasonable.

They pointed out that the message was addressed, not to the U. S. Government, but to fellow legislators in that country and that there was nothing unconstitutional or unparliamentary about it.

They maintained that correspondence between legislators of democratic countries was a normal feature and declared they would stand by their message.

Art Exhibits' Panel Chosen

Five outstanding Southern art authorities will select winners of the Regional Scholastic Art Awards Exhibit.

The exhibit for high school students is sponsored by Rich's Inc. in co-operation with Scholastic Magazine. White schools' exhibit—including 11 art media from oil painting to ceramics—will be on view at Rich's from Feb. 24 through March 10. Negro school entries will be shown on the same dates at the West Hunter Street Library.

Winning pieces will be forwarded to the Carnegie Institute at Pittsburgh to compete in the national exhibit.

Mrs. Mary Leath Thomas, art supervisor of Athens city schools, is chairman of the Georgia program. Judges will include: Gregory D. Ivey, head of the department of art at the Woman's college of the University of North Carolina; Miss Elizabeth Mack, art director of the Charlotte, N. C., schools; Harold E. Sutton, of the art department at Florida State University; E. R. Hunter, director of the Atlanta Art Association; and Hugh L. Wallace, of the art department of West Georgia College at Carrollton.

UN Considers Sanctions Against Communist China

3-Man Committee Set for Problem

By A. M. ROSENTHAL
Special to The New York Times and The Atlanta Constitution

LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 16—Three delegates—Turkish, Belgian and Australian—were handed the job Friday of planning the work of the new committee set up to consider possible UN sanctions against Communist China.

The General Assembly set up the committee as part of the resolution condemning Peiping for taking part in aggression in Korea. Under the resolution, the "Sanctions Committee" is to take into consideration the work of another UN outfit in Korea—the three-man Good Offices Committee.

Peiping has already served notice it would boycott the Good Offices Committee and its task of trying to bring about a peaceful settlement in Korea. Members of the three-man group were reported to be considering ways of establishing contact with Communist China without inviting another public rebuff from Peiping.

The "Sanctions Committee's" first meeting was held behind closed doors and was opened by Secretary Gen. Trygve Lie, who later issued a statement denying the UN had been guilty of "wasting time" on the Korean crisis.

The twelve delegations to the committee unanimously elected Selim Sarper, of Turkey, as Chairman; Joseph Nisot, of Belgium, Vice Chairman, and Keith C. O. Shann, of Australia, rapporteur. In another unanimous decision, the Committee asked its three officers to draft a plan of work—the job is expected to take about ten days—and to keep in touch with the Good Offices group.

The U. S. has been discussing with other delegations a plan for "selective" trade embargo against Peiping, a ban on new recognitions of the Chinese Communist Government, and refusal to recognize any territorial changes resulting from the Chinese march into Korea. Several members have made it plain they want to go as slowly as possible.

The Korean crisis came in for comment at a press conference held by Lie. The Secretary General said that the UN was following two parallel lines of action on Korea—the fight against armed aggression and the effort at a peaceful settlement of all Far Eastern problems.

Lie said it was not "fair or correct" to accuse the UN of just standing by on the Korean case.

"Actually, the UN forces in Korea all this time have been imposing the most severe and effective military sanctions against the Chinese and North Korean forces out of the general desire to keep the conflict localized in Korea," he said. "These sanctions have been imposed by a truly International Army, almost half of whose members are Americans, it is true. But at least 52 percent of them are from Korea and a dozen member countries."

The Secretary General came prepared to make a short statement on the 38th Parallel and he would not budge from it:

"I have been informed that constant consultations are taking place between the unified command and all member nations participating in UN action in Korea with regard to matters of military policy, including any questions regarding the 38th Parallel."

Lie flatly refused to expand that statement, or to say whether he saw any difference in Pres. Truman's comment yesterday that the crossing of the Parallel was a military matter up to the Commander. Opinion here was there was little doubt that the UN would make small-scale crossings of the Parallel on a purely military basis but a decision to make a general crossing would come only after political consultations.

12 Nations Send Troops Into Korea

Special to The New York Times and The Atlanta Constitution

LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 16—The United Nations made public Friday a list of 12 countries that have sent ground forces into action alongside United States troops in Korea.

According to information from the United States, these countries have supplied ground troops: Australia, Belgium, Canada, France, Greece, Luxembourg, Netherlands, New Zealand, Philippines, Thailand, Turkey and the United Kingdom.

Countries that have sent naval units are: Australia, Canada, Colombia, Britain, Netherlands, New Zealand, Thailand, United States and Republic of Korea. Air units have come from Australia, Belgium, Canada, Britain, Greece, Union of South Africa, United St ates and Republic of Korea.

The following 12 countries have contributed material to the fight, according to the list: Costa Rica, Denmark, India, Iran, Italy, Lebanon, Norway, Panama, Philippines, Sweden, United States, Republic of Korea.

New Orleans Hit By $100,000 Fire

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 16—(INS)—A fire did an estimated $100,000 damages Friday in the heart of New Orleans business district.

Firemen fought the blaze for three hours before bringing it under control.

CAR WRECK, BLACK OUT

In Coma 4 Years, Vet Hints Music Stirs Him

FRAMINGHAM, Mass., Feb. 16. (AP)—Does consciousness still linger in the brain of Ralph C. Abbott who, for four years, has lain in a coma at Cushing Veterans Hospital?

Only "a medical miracle," his doctors say, can awaken the 34-year-old former army sergeant whose car plunged from a highway into a tree in the early morning darkness of Feb. 17, 1947, and hurled him headlong against a stone wall.

And yet, his nurses say they sometimes wonder if he doesn't understand what they are doing for him although unable to express himself. They say they get at times impressions of awareness on his part.

And his mother, Mrs. Isaac Abbott, of Norwood, relates that once as she sat at her son's bedside, she saw a tear trickle from his closed eye, although he made no outward response to her attempts to speak to him. His nurses think the sound of music stimulates him.

His case strangely parallels that of the anonymous patient at Cincinnati's Bethesda Hospital who likewise suffered brain injury in a February accident four years before Abbott was hurt.

Abbott, chief ward attendant at Cushing, was driving to his work from another veterans' hospital in Waltham when his car swerved from the Boston Post Road.

Operations, treatment, failed to restore outward evidence of consciousness. He became the object of prolonged research on the part of physicians and brain specialists. They finally concluded his brain had been so severely damaged that he might never awaken again—unless by a medical miracle.

During the years, his father has journeyed regularly the 15 miles from the family's Norwood home to visit his son. After three years of daily visits, Isaac Abbott (now 64) reduced his visits to thrice weekly, a schedule he still maintains. Neighbors in Norwood joined in helping the Abbotts in their efforts to get additional medical care aimed at bringing about recovery of their son.

Abbott is fed a concentrated diet through a tube. So expertly has he been cared for that he shows no blemish. He maintains, unchanged, his weight which dropped about 20 pounds after the accident. He gets daily shaves, frequent haircuts.

Doctors say he may live indefinitely unless stricken by a kidney, liver or bronchial infection.

When his parents come to sit at his bedside, the doctors say: "Still unconscious . . . no change."

But the nurses say, "He seems to hear the music. He sometimes seems to know we are helping him."

Truman's Burden Greatest Of All Presidents—Mrs. FDR

Special to The New York Times and The Atlanta Constitution

CHICAGO, Feb. 16—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt said Friday that President Truman carried a greater burden of responsibility as Chief Executive than her late husband did.

At a press conference, Mrs. Roosevelt was asked for a comment on criticism of President Truman for his recent impulsive utterances and letters. She replied that it was unfortunate when anyone felt the strain of his responsibilities so greatly that he lost the ability to think through the effects of what he said, and added:

"But when you talk about the President, remember that he is carrying the greatest load in the history of this country."

When a reporter asked if she meant President Truman was faced with more problems than any previous American president, Mrs. Roosevelt replied:

"Definitely, I do."

Improvised Checks Puzzle Tellers As Bank Strike Ends in Ireland

DUBLIN, Ireland, Feb. 16—(AP)—Ireland's seven-week-old bank strike came to an end Friday, but no one paid much attention.

The banks' officers had been working overtime since Monday—when they accepted an arbitration tribunal award upping salaries for employees—to bring their books up to date. They put on extra help and evolved plans for handling lengthy queues. They had expected a big rush of Irishmen and their accumulated checks when the doors opened for the first time since Christmas Eve, but the rush failed to materialize.

The day's biggest headache for the banks was the job of trying to dope out hieroglyphics scrawled on improvised checks made out during the strike. Some were on the backs of envelopes, others were on sheets of notepaper or on paper bags or beer bottle labels. One was on the back of a losing lottery ticket.

Two of Dublin's biggest firms, the Guinness Brewery and the Electricity Supply Board, sent their accumulations of checks—reported to total nearly a million pounds ($2,800,000)—to the banks in kitbags and a wicker wash basket.

FORMER RED TELLS FACTS

Korea War Said Starter For Soviet To Grab World

NEW YORK, Feb. 16—(UP)—Former Communist Luis F. Budenz said Friday night the situation in Korea and the Far East was part of the Soviet master plan for conquering the world and he had "documentary evidence" to prove it.

"Soviet Russia always has planned that China shall be the jumping-off place for world conquest," Budenz, former editor of the Communist paper, the Daily Worker, said in a lecture sponsored by the Friends of Fordham Library.

Budenz, now an economics professor at Fordham University, said "the whole plan" has been described in Cominform publications and statements of Communists themselves.

Budenz urged that Gen. MacArthur be permitted to order air attacks on Communist supply lines in Manchuria, and co-operate with Chiang Kai-shek in attacking the China mainland and blockade China.

He also recommended this three-point program for Americans:

1. Study critical books of Soviet Communism in order to learn "the true character of the foe."
2. Exercise citizenship by letting Congress and the President "know what you want done."
3. Join a crusade of prayer "because the battle against Communism is more than an economic and political problem."

Budenz denounced Owen J. Lattimore, former State Department adviser on Far Eastern affairs, and "writers associated with him," charging they are "responsible for what is happening in Korea."

"In saying the Chinese Communists were harmless and merely agrarian reformers they persuaded Americans that China was harmless."

He said Lattimore's "advice to the State Department was what the Kremlin wanted to be given.

"And we see many of Stalin's great victories are won in the United States and not in China."

Budenz also charged Harry Bridges, West Coast longshoremen's leader, with furthering the Communist master plan.

Conservatives Renew Attack On Laborites

Special to The New York Times and The Atlanta Constitution

LONDON, Feb. 16—Undeterred by their failure Thursday night to unseat the government on the issue of rearmament, the British Conservatives introduced Friday what amounts to a motion of censure over peanuts. It was the fourth challenge in 13 days in an apparent all-out effort to defeat the government at every opportunity.

Winston Churchill and other opposition leaders ask for a rejection, when it is debated next Tuesday, of a bill that would permit the Colonial office to go ahead with a modified version of the vast plan for growing peanuts in East Africa to meet the shortage of fats and oils.

It was announced last month that the original plan had proved a failure and that the 36,000,500 pounds put into it would be written off. The bill to be debated calls for a further expenditure of 6,000,000 pounds for an experimental development project.

Prayer Is Suggested For Jacquelyn Marre

Prayer was suggested Friday for the recovery of 12-year-old Jacquelyn Marre, of Atlanta, who is believed to be incurably ill.

Earnest H. Gill, of Oklahoma City, has written Mayor Hartsfield saying: "If all the people who have sent little Jacquelyn Marre valentines will pray for her full recovery, God will restore her health."

Gill asked Hartsfield to call the proposal to the attention of "your papers and the papers of the nation."

A Sound Decision in the House

The decision in the House of Representatives yesterday not to call up the so-called antimonopoly bill and the newspaper libel bill is a victory for common sense and fair play.

It showed sentiment in the House is strong against punitive legislation, which is contrary to the American concept of justice.

The people can rejoice that this is true. The House has shown itself a bulwark for democratic principles and a press free to discuss issues.

It was the second time the House had demonstrated its immunity to intense political pressure for punitive legislation. The first was when that body rejected a measure which would have placed newspapers under regulation of the State.

The falsely labeled "antimonopoly" bill is aimed primarily at newspapers but in reality it would gravely affect the industrial development of Georgia. Word that it was being considered already had caused unfavorable reaction among industrialists reportedly considering locating plants in the State.

The proposed libel law would be injurious to every daily newspaper in Georgia. It would allow libel suits to be filed in any county where circulation is more than 100, thus violating the principle of common law that a man must be sued where he lives.

Both bills are bad because they are punitive measures, aimed at satisfying a personal grudge. Neither would be of any benefit to the State, but, rather, they would retard Georgia's progress.

House members are to be commended for seeing through the purpose behind these bills. Yesterday's was but another demonstration of the House's independence and progressiveness which, with few exceptions, has characterized its acts during the sessions.

Destroying A Soviet Myth

Moscow carefully has fostered the fiction the Communists are the real lovers of peace.

It was to nurture that lie that the Kremlin some time ago suggested a four-power conference on the Western proposal to rearm Western Germany as part of the North Atlantic defense organization.

Moscow had thought to get great propaganda value from the "peace conference," not only in Communist countries and in Asia—where the masses generally are illiterate and readily believe what they are told—but also, to a degree, in West Germany.

Russia moved on the premise that projected rearmament of Western Germany by the Allies is the sole cause for world tension. It is not, of course.

Not to be taken in by a typical propaganda trick, the West—Britain, France and the United States—replied in effect they would be glad to talk peace, but that peace involved far more than the distant prospect of rearming free Germany. The West, these nations said, would like to go a great deal further and solve all the difficulties causing tension between Moscow and the free governments of the world. The Far Eastern issue, in the hands of the United Nations, would be excluded.

Being thus hoisted by its own petard, the Kremlin replied evasively, the substance being that while West German rearmament still was considered the major issue, there might be some possibility of discussing other matters. Deputy foreign ministers of the four nations will meet in Paris sometime in March to set up an agenda—which is to say, to outline just what the foreign ministers themselves will discuss.

Nobody in this country expects to come to the talks. The Russian proposal aroused some hope in Britain at first. The French were cautious but felt there was enough substance there to warrant going ahead.

If Moscow genuinely desires peace, the governments at Washington, London and Paris are more than willing to negotiate. But rearmament of West Germany is merely a possibility for the future. What does Russia have to say about the creation in Soviet-controlled East Germany of an army of at least 110,000 men, fully trained and equipped for war? What action is Russia ready to take to reduce the satellite armies of Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary? Under World War II treaties, in which Russia joined, Bulgaria was restricted to an army of 55,000, Romania to 120,000 and Hungary to 65,000, for a total of about 240,000. Reliable estimates place present combined strength of these armies at more than 600,000. Russia has caused them to be expanded.

Then comes the question of the Austrian peace treaty, which Russia consistently has sabotaged.

There is, further, the fact of Russian occupation armies in the Balkans under the guise of "protecting communications lines."

These, of course, are merely the immediate questions. They do not take in the Russian coup in Czechoslovakia in 1948, the murders and the terror of Soviet tactics everywhere the Communist hand is felt.

Russia will not, of course, readily discuss these matters. About all that will come of the conference is the deflation of Moscow's propaganda scheme.

Give Generously To the Heart Campaign

Georgians ought to give generously to the support of the Georgia Heart Association.

To enable Georgians with heart trouble to lead normal, productive lives, the Association maintains clinics at Albany, Athens, Atlanta, Augusta, Brunswick, Savannah, Columbus and Macon, the last two having been opened this month. Last year more than 8,000 patients were handled at these clinics alone.

Contributions to the Association go to support of these clinics, to studies of rheumatic heart disease resulting from rheumatic fever and for general heart disease research on a national scale.

The increase in heart trouble makes the Association's work a critical one. It deserves our support and assistance.

Let the UN Make Up Its Mind

Whether or not United Nations troops again will cross the 38th parallel is, as Gen. MacArthur says, strictly an academic question.

That is especially true in light of the new Communist offensive.

But it is well that the question is being discussed in Washington, London and other capitals. It ought to be resolved before the time comes.

If the UN troops stay in Korea, and unless an utter stalemate develops, the decision must be made. When the UN decided to intervene after the North Korean invasion, the objective was to repel the aggressor and reunite the nation. That objective did not contemplate the entry of the Chinese Communists into the fighting. Nevertheless, if crossing the parallel now is ruled out the UN must formally eliminate a united Korea from its mission.

Though it is by no means certain our forces can push the Communists back, the UN ought to agree on a policy and issue explicit instructions to Gen. MacArthur.

(Quitman Free Press)

One poem you don't meet up with in the anthologies any more is "Over the Hills to the Poorhouse." We don't have poorhouses now.

Weapons for Truth

(Cedartown Standard)

Publicity and freedom of the press are the greatest weapons of truth. The Administration or any other public official need not have fear of the press as long as conscientious efforts to serve the public are made, regardless of disagreement and criticism of the press.

Through the columns of the editorial page of The Cedartown Standard, our opinions will be published. Those same columns will always be open to the public.

And we will fight to the finish against the Legislature or any other group who threatens to destroy the right of The Standard or of citizens of this great land to enjoy the constitutional privileges of free speech, free worship, and free press.

Basis for Dictatorship

(Dalton News)

It is gratifying to Whitfield County residents to know that our Representatives to the State Legislature, Reps. Britton and Carr, voted against extending the county unit system to the general election.

This had a close call, but it passed in the House, and with every solon there knowing the people voted against it last November.

Word was passed around, we understand, that a vote against it by the legislators was a vote against the Administration.

In other words, vote for the Administration, and to heck with what the people want! Dictatorships are operated on the same basis.

Cause for Pride

(Carroll County Georgian)

Some 400 individuals of Carrollton and Carroll County can well be proud of themselves. For last week, through their efforts, some 267 pints of blood were collected by the Red Cross bloodmobile during its visit here.

Many of those who gave blood this time were the "repeaters"—the people who go back to the bloodmobile on every visit, and give their blood. Many have contributed gallons.

More are learning with each visit of the mobile unit here that it is little trouble and no pain to give blood that others may live.

And there is a satisfaction in knowing a human life has been saved with that blood, that only those who have donated can realize.

It's that spirit of free giving of even their own blood that has made America the nation it is today—and that will keep it that way in years to come.

GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

Dick Russell For Vice President

WASHINGTON—The groundwork for a boom to have Sen. Richard B. Russell named as Vice Presidential candidate on the Democratic ticket next year is being laid by influential members of the Georgia delegation in Congress, led by Rep. Eugene Cox, of Camilla.

Judge Cox, one of the most highly respected members of the lower House and the dominant figure on the powerful House Rules Committee, has already felt the Georgia Junior Senator out on the move and has gained his tacit consent to go ahead. Sen. Russell's position is that he is not seeking the nomination but could not decline it if it came his way.

The move by Judge Cox is based on the premise that President Truman will not be a candidate for re-election in 1952 and hence an entirely new ticket will have to be selected by the Democrats in their next national convention. In that event, he is prepared to cast his lot with a boom for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as the Democratic Presidential nominee, with Sen. Russell as his running mate.

Needless to say, the Georgia delegation to a man would be expected to give wholehearted support to such a program.

A Voice Gov. Herman Talmadge, who will have the chief voice in naming the Georgia delegation to the next national convention, may be counted on to go along with the move, it is believed. He and Sen. Russell are on the most friendly terms. For another thing, the Georgia Senator's election to the Vice Presidency would open the way for Talmadge to succeed him in Washington, if he has Senatorial ambitions.

"An Eisenhower-Russell ticket would be the strongest the Democrats could offer in 1952," Judge Cox told The Constitution. "It would sweep the country. Sen. Russell's name on the ticket would insure against any defection among the Southern States such as we had the last time. From the standpoint of the South's continued interest in Democratic Party affairs, he would be the most desirable man who could be named for second place on the ticket.

"I propose to see that a full-fledged boom is launched in his behalf at the proper time. If the Democrats can persuade Gen. Eisenhower to be the Presidential nominee next year, then with Sen. Russell as his running mate the party would be assured of another indefinite period of national control."

Service Cited By way of background for Sen. Russell's eligibility for the Vice Presidential nomination, Judge Cox cites the Georgia Senator's service as floor leader for Southern Democrats in the upper chamber during the past several sessions of Congress. Also he reminds that Russell, now the chairman of the great Armed Services Committee of the Senate, could have had the majority leadership of the Senate without lifting a finger, if he had desired. Democrats wanted to elect him to succeed former Sen. Scott Lucas of Illinois, who was defeated in November, but he declined to stand for the highly important post, feeling that his opposition to the Administration's controversial civil rights program would have been embarrassing to the President.

At the last Democratic national convention in Philadelphia in 1948 Sen. Russell was the candidate of Southern forces for the Presidential nomination, polling the next highest number of votes to Mr. Truman. Later he was offered the nomination of the Southern Dixiecrats as head of the splinter party ticket put forward in opposition to the President, but refused to leave the party in that ill-fated enterprise.

During the 18 years he has been a member of the Senate the Georgia Junior Senator has grown in stature to be one of the most influential members of that body. The fact that he was offered the majority leadership on a silver platter, as it were, back at the opening of the new session in January attests to his standing and popularity. He has a host of friends in Congress who would be ready to align themselves with a movement to have him placed on the Democratic Presidential ticket.

All for It Judge Cox is all for the idea. Convinced that President Truman will be ready to step aside at the end of his present term, he has already mapped out a program for putting Russell forward in a well-organized campaign for the vice presidency. Gen. Eisenhower, he believes, is the logical man for the Democrats to name as head of the ticket.

If the boom goes through as planned, Rep. Cox has only one request to make of Sen. Russell. He wants to have the privilege of either placing his name in nomination before the convention or seconding the nomination.

History may be in the making in the Cox move. It has the ingredients of producing a new national administration in 1953, headed by President Dwight Eisenhower and Vice President Dick Russell, of Georgia, suh, if you please!

AUGUSTA HERALD

Chiseling and Conniving

The mounting costs of taking care of indigent people is posing a problem that is putting wrinkles not only in the brows of economists but also in the pocketbooks of the taxpayers.

As an example of how these costs have grown, last year welfare payments in Richmond County were approximately $1,000,000. A few years ago these payments were less than half a million annually.

It is almost incomprehensible that such a large sum should be necessary to take care of the poor of Augusta and Richmond County.

It is preposterous that, in such prosperous times as have existed in this area for the past several years, there are so many who must be assisted from public funds. We have no doubt that the same condition exists in Richmond County as has been disclosed in other parts of the State, where parents of well-to-do people are drawing old-age assistance from welfare funds.

On the surface, this turning out of elderly fathers and mothers to graze on the public pastures of welfare funds appears heartless.

But we are inclined to believe that these sons and daughters of means do not refuse to assist their aged parents, but work in collusion with them to obtain welfare funds. The parents in the majority of cases do receive assistance from their children, but see no reason why they should not receive additional welfare funds.

Thus the children and the parents connive to cash in on these payments.

This chiseling is not only unmoral, it is unfair to the taxpayers who must furnish the funds.

Provisions should be made to open the welfare lists to investigation and some method set up whereby public pressure could be brought to force children to take care of their parents.

We believe that if all this chiseling could be brought to light that the welfare expense of the State could well be cut in half.

Hats Off!

The Editors: Hats off to VFW Post No. 7404 in Carrollton for having adopted the kind of plan it adopted for awarding scholarships to Carroll County youth. They seem to be affirmative Americans—those who not only believe in but have the courage to live by the American Creed.

I know of no better way to sell democracy to the world than to live it. All Georgians and all Americans can be proud of this VFW unit and we sincerely hope these are true "signs of our times." W. S. M. BANKS, II.

The Basic Question

The Editors: There seems to be an enormous amount of debate and resentment concerning the admission of Negroes to Georgia's white institutions of learning. Possibly the question, "How long will we jeopardize our democracy—basically a government wherein the people rule?" has never penetrated the static minds of those who so fervently oppose this issue.

It is with great bravery and valor that the Negro defends the nation in times of war and emergency only to return to find himself a victim of somewhat the same principles and policies that he fought so hard to demolish. Is it human decency to share the same responsibilities and hardships only to be denied the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness? Man, with disregard to race or creed, was made by the Creator. But, neither to suppress nor be suppressed.

We speak of the betterment of worldly conditions and peace when, in reality, we fail to promote a peace and fellowship among the people of our own nation. To claim the title of "Liberator," we must primarily be void of animosity, greed and the disregard of humanity.

No Marble Palace

The Editors: I want to thank you for presenting a daily digest of laws introduced in the Georgia Legislature, their sponsors and a short explanation of said law. It takes the passing laws out of the secret class and gives constituents a chance to bounce on a lawmaker who tries to sneak through a foolish law. Reference is made to the firearms law and its $1,500 bond.

Some criticism is in order, too, especially against your brilliant but soft-hearted writer, Celestine Sibley, who incensed me with her article—on the front page, no less—slanted deliberately in favor of that zany bill for research on alcoholics. I refer to her statistical data on the exact number of drunken drivers hailed before the court in 1950. The impression left with the reader was that all the drunken drivers were alcoholics. Even Celestine knows that is not true.

Taxes being what they are and going higher, it would seem the newspapers would echo the people and endeavor to cut out nonessential spending. Certainly a research hospital for alcoholics in this day of inflation, hot and cold wars and high prices would certainly not be a necessity. Alcoholics could be handled more effectively anyway by Alcoholics Anonymous, just as welfare cases by the Community Chest.

What with the Federal Government killing all incentive by confiscatory taxes, zany legislation aiding mistresses, illegitimate children and research hospitals for alcoholics, the overburdened taxpayer begins to wonder whether it is worth while to struggle any more. Why limit his family so he can raise them properly; carefully pay all bills and taxes, when the Government lets the chiselers live the life of Riley—on my tax money?

It's about reached the point when I am seriously considering throwing all ethics and morals overboard; stop paying taxes; buy a barrel of "white lightning;" produce 18 illegitimate children and by hitting the barrel consistently get a permanent room in the Research Marble Palace for Alcoholics provided by the second Welfare State of the Union—Georgia.

Atlanta. WALTER J. SHAFFER.

Editor's Note—The cost of putting alcoholics in jail and keeping them there is at least as expensive as a clinic would be. There has been no idea of a palace—just a hospital clinic.

Will They Be More Persuasive?

JOHN MARVIN RAST

"Seek the Lord, and ye shall live. . . . Seek him that maketh the seven stars and Orion, and turneth the shadow of death into the morning." (Amos, 5:6, 8.)

Why are we admonished in the Scriptures to seek God? One might suppose that He would be the primary possession of all people.

We think of the Psalmist's cry, "The heavens declare the glory of God," and his graphic description of the heavenly processes which speak so plainly of God.

Yet, it is possible to live in God's world, with God at work in atom and star, and miss Him.

We need the call to seek Him who has brought us into being. We need to harken to Him at every turn of the day and of the night.

In a myriad way the Eternal speaks, but only those who look up and listen fulfill His divine mission.

Slow our pace, O God. Arrest our frenzied desire for that which holds not Thee in awe. May we walk with Thee now and ever.

Far-Reaching Legislation Passed by '51 Assembly

Doubled Budget, Sales Tax, School Foundation Highlights

By DUPONT WRIGHT

Far-reaching legislation was passed by the 1951 session of the General Assembly.

The lawmakers passed a money bill appropriating $208,000,000, as compared to that of $108,000,000 last year.

To raise this money it passed a three percent sales tax virtually without exemptions.

It financed the Minimum Foundation Program for education.

Talmadge leaders were jubilant that practically the whole of the young Governor's program passed.

However, one opposition leader, Sen. Osgood Williams, of Crawfordsville, saw the work of the Assembly in another light.

"This session failed," he said, "to accomplish most of the things promised to Georgia, and has been a disappointment to most of our people. The Administration has forced on it a punitive pattern of political prejudice."

Only a few bills which the Administration leaders thought important failed of passage. One of these was the reduction to a quarter of a mill from five mills of the advalorem tax. The resolution proposing a constitutional amendment to effect this was put over to the session next January. However, Gov. Talmadge has stated he will make the cut by executive order.

One of his supporters, Speaker Fred Hand, took the floor to oppose the reduction. He said it meant making a present of $250,000 to the Georgia Power Company, $100,000 to the Soutuhern Railway, and $27,000 to the Central of Georgia. He exhibited a list of other corporations whose payments would be cut deep.

"I don't feel it's right," he said, "to reduce the taxes of these corporations, while taxing the bread and meat of the workman."

The three ant-newspaper bills sponsored by the Governor also failed of passage. The anti-monopoly bill, aimed at the Atlanta Journal-Constitution merger, passed the Senate, as did the venue bill permitting libel suits in counties other than that where the newspaper is located.

They were not called up in the House, but put over to the session next January.

The bill compelling newspapers to give equal space for replies by persons who charge they have been maligned was beaten in the House.

Talmadge-sponsored bills enacted follow:

1. The measure calling for a referendum on the question of extending the county unit system into the general election.

2. The three percent sales tax.

3. Tax revision and repeal of 127 nuisance taxes and the emergency taxes.

4. Home rule for municipalities which vote to have it.

5. The bill prohibiting the wearing of masks.

6. The $207,000,000 appropriations bill.

7. Creation of the School Building Authority in addition to the Minimum Foundation Program under which it is estimated $180,000,000 may be invested in new schools.

8. Provision of $12,000,000 for a general hospital at Augusta and $8,000,000 additional for the hospital at Milledgeville.

9. Provision of $6,000,000 for a court building on Capitol Square.

10. Expansion of the University of Georgia building program from $8,000,000 to $12,000,000.

"Our principal achievement," said Sen. Grady Rawls, of Albany, Senate floor leader, "was financing the Minimum Foundation, which was paramount in the minds of Georgians. Secondly, we provided ample funds for a program of highway improvements. We provided for the unfortunates in the hospital at Milledgeville and at Battey. Another achievement was passage of the Home Rule bill."

Opposition Senate Leader Williams summed up the session thus:

"On the credit side were the laws tightening up on welfare regulations, the anti-mask bill, the somewhat reluctantly provided financing of the Minimum Foundation Program, and some of CEKLOR's election measures, which, however, do less to improve the confused election pattern in Georgia than the people desire.

"It is significant that the measures to require the majority political party in our state to hold a primary were suppressed.

"On the debit side are badly drawn tax measures that are accompanied by no real tax revision, the resubmission of the defeated County Unit Amendment in a very bad form that can but prove ultimately a political disaster to rural Georgia, and the introduction of punitive legislation threatening the freedom and dignity of our citizens, the threat of complete dissipation of the properties of the schools and colleges, the attack on a free press, and the creating of a political dynasty of dictators.

"To convert the Assembly both into a rubber stamp for the Executive Department and a sounding board for appeals to hate, fear, unreason and disunity. Georgia, especially rural Georgia where I live, may be called to pay in full the cost of inordinate taxes on the means of production and of the ill-will that the Governor and his spokesmen have vented against a majority of the citizens of our State."

House Floor Leader Frank Twitty, of Mitchell County, thought differently.

"When the final chapter is written, this will be one of the most constructive Legislatures that ever met in Georgia because for the first time in many years we've given Georgia real tax revision by enactment of the sales tax and the income tax and the elimination of nuisance and emergency taxes.

"We now have a tax system second to none in the United States. Although we enacted a three percent sales tax, we passed one of the most liberal income tax laws of any state in the union, because for the first time in Georgia we have increased the exemptions for dependents from $400 to $500; we have allowed deductions for medical expenses, provided for the standard 10 percent deductions and for capital gains and losses.

"We have not changed the rate on corporations at all; it remains at five percent, and none of the rates for individuals is changed except in the over $50,000 income bracket, which was raised one percent. As a result Georgia should become more attractive to industry.

"For the first time in the history of Georgia, the Legislature has provided every dollar asked for school, authorizing for financing the schools. We provided $300 for current expenses per teacher per year and $200 per teacher for capital outlay. It means many cities and counties already bonded to the limit may borrow money under the School Building Authority act and pay it back without additional tax levies.

"In my opinion," Twitty concluded, "this School Building Authority, will do more for all, including the colored people, than has been done ever before for schools by any other state to my knowledge."

Opposition House Leader John Greer, of Lanier County, was less critical of the session than his Senate colleague. Greer considered financing of the Minimum Foundation by means of the sales tax the most important legislation enacted.

Though he expressed regret at the assault on newspapers, Greer said:

"I am well pleased at the outcome in most respects. I am sorry we didn't defeat the county unit proposal, but am delighted that we fully financed the schools, that we passed the antimask bill, tightened up on election laws and provided for the School Building Authority.

"The independent spirit of the Representatives, including many fine new members, also gratified me."

Georgia Sales Tax Exempt on U. S. Form

Georgia's new three percent sales tax will be a deductible item in making out Federal income-tax returns.

Federal income tax officials explained Friday that state sales taxes levied directly on the consumer are an exempt item in making out federal returns. However, in states that levy the sales tax on the wholesaler or retailer, the tax is not deductible from federal income tax returns.

The Federal Government sets no specific maximum sum that can be claimed by an individual for state sales tax payments.

And the individual is not required to produce receipts showing payment of state sales taxes.

House Puts Off Bills Against Newspapers

Two restrictive newspaper bills sponsored by the administration of Gov. Talmadge will not be called up at the current session of the Georgia Legislature, House Speaker Fred Hand said Friday.

The speaker gave no reason for sidetracking the bills which were pushed through the Senate. Earlier he said the bills would be called up for action at Friday's closing session. The next session is in January, 1952.

One of the bills would make larger newspapers subject to libel suits in any county in which they have 100 subscribers. Under present law, suits must be filed in the home county of the newspaper.

The other bill prohibits monopolies and names newspapers specifically.

A third bill aimed at newspapers was killed in the House Tuesday. It would have made papers subject to State regulation. This measure would have required newspapers to give equal space and prominence for answers to criticism or charges of misconduct against public officials or individuals.

NAACP Vows To Test Bill on Segregation

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People Friday night threatened a court fight against Georgia legislation designed to keep Negroes from attending white schools.

Walter White, executive secretary of the NCAAP, wired Georgia's Gov. Herman Talmadge:

"The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People urges you to veto the bill passed by the Georgia Legislature permitting the withdrawal of State funds from any white public school to which Negroes may be admitted pursuant to a court order.

"You may be sure that if this measure becomes a law our organization will take appropriate legal action to challenge its constitutionality."

Gov. Talmadge is a "white supremacy" advocate. He has admitted the bill is designed to void any federal court order to admit a Negro to a white school.

Negro Boy Scout Saves White Child

DECATUR, Ala., Feb. 16—(AP)—A 12-year-old Negro Boy Scout Friday swept a 4-year-old white boy from certain death beneath the wheels of an approaching train.

Afterwards the scout, Nathan Tate, commented surprisedly, "Why I saved that little boy's life."

Mrs. Brent Reece said she, her husband and children had gone to the station to see relatives off on a train when her son, Lowell, wandered onto the track.

Mrs. Reece said she looked up to see Lowell standing in the train's path but before anyone else could act, Tate had the child to safety.

AFL Fights Increases in Excise Taxes

By JOHN D. MORRIS

Special to The New York Times and The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—The American Federation of Labor registered strong opposition Friday to proposed increases in excise taxes but indorsed with modifications other recommendations of the Truman Administration for producing new revenue.

The organization's position was outlined to the House Ways and Means Committee by Arthur A. Elder, tax consultant.

Instead of $3,000,000,000 increased excise taxes on automobiles, household appliances, gasoline, tobacco and other products, as requested by the administration, Elder proposed elimination of income-splitting advantages for married couples under the individual income tax laws.

He pointed out the administration program called for a 35 percent increase in excises as contrasted to a rise in individual income tax rates to only one percentage point above the highest World War II level. At the same time, he noted, married persons in middle-income brackets benefitting from income-splitting provisions would still pay substantially less than during the war.

Calling the proposed excise tax increases "discriminatory and unnecessary," Elder said they would result in price increases, and "workers will therefore expect an increase in wages."

Elder asked "immediate action" to capture $2,500,000,000 of prospective tax savings which he said would accrue annually to married persons in the middle and upper income brackets under the 1948 provision allowing husbands and wives to divide their combined income and thus pay lower income tax rates.

LOCAL BILLS

Richmond Measures Pass Senate

By DUPONT WRIGHT

The Senate Friday passed several local bills affecting Augusta and Richmond County.

They authorize an assistant solicitor for the Augusta City Court, fix salaries of members of the staff of the Augusta City Court and place a number of Richmond officials on salaries in lieu of fees.

Among other officials, the Solicitor-General of Richmond County was put on a salary of $6,810 per year in lieu of fees. Other bills authorized Richmond County to supplement the salary of the judge of the Augusta Judicial Circuit by $3,400 per year and provided for abolition of the office of Augusta Public Safety Commissioner.

Still other Senate-passed bills authorized the old Augusta and Waynesboro Railroad to surrender its charter, and permitted creation in Richmond County of a boys' farm adventure camp.

Senate bills affecting Richmond County passed Thursday by the House increased the probationary period of Augusta firemen and policemen, extended the city limits of Augusta, and fixed the date for the election of the Mayor and Council of Augusta as the second Wednesday in September.

The House also passed Senate bills affecting Clarke County which provide for fire, sanitation and sewage districts and for a county pension system. The Senate passed a House bill requiring Clarke County candidates for the General Assembly to name their incumbent opponents.

Other bills passed in the House permit the judge of the City Court of Gwinnett County to conduct nonjury trials and increase the salaries of the judge and solicitor of the City Court of Metter.

Other bills passed in the Senate would create a new charter for Girard in Burke County, redefine the city limits of Dublin, authorize closing of certain streets in Cochran, give the Coroner of Jenkins County a salary of $800 in lieu of fees, and permit Gainesville to establish a civil service board.

An old dispute among members of the Chatham County legislative delegation flared again over a bill to create a civil service system for Chatham County employees.

Sen. Spence Grayson and Rep. Harold McGee took one side and Rep. John Hood and Owen Page took the other.

The bill wound up in a conference committee.

Earlier in the session, Rep. McGee withdrew his objection to the bill to allow it to pass the House. In the Senate, Grayson amended the measure to provide that county employees could come under the civil service plan at their discretion rather than be forced under it. When the bill was returned to the House, Page and Hood struck out Grayson's amendment. Grayson, however, refused to retreat, and the Senate declined to accept the House change. That sent the bill back to the House Friday and Hood and Page asked that a conference committee be set up to try and reach an agreement.

Speaker Fred Hand appointed the three Chatham House members to serve on the committee. Hood objected to McGee being given a committee post, but Hand refused to name anyone else.

McGee said he and Grayson wanted the discretionary clause left in because about 98 percent of the Chatham County employees who would be affected have signed a petition opposing the bill in its present form.

Talmadge, in Pop Calls, Thanks Tired Solons

By CELESTINE SIBLEY

While session-weary leaders fought to hold together enough members of the General Assembly to pass the sales tax bill—when and if a joint conference committee agreed on amendments—Governor Talmadge paid both houses pop-calls aimed at cheering them up.

The Chief Executive, who had been reported out of town for a couple of days, dropped informally into the House and Senate to congratulate the members for the job of lawmaking they have done and to thank them for their "spirit of co-operation and harmony."

Drousy members who were packed up and all but ready to pull out for home got to their feet and applauded happily as Talmadge told them, "I think you have done more than any single General Assembly the State has ever had."

He said when the General Assembly convened 40 days ago the world and the State "perhaps had never been in a more disrupted state." He said the legislators had worked harmoniously for the education, health, welfare and roads of the State.

"During this 40 days," the Governor said, "I got to know most of you as very personal friends. That friendship I shall always cherish. Thank you for the excellent job you have done and I congratulate you."

Mayor Hartsfield earlier paid a visit to the Senate. He thanked members of both Houses for their part in passing the Plan of Improvement.

"Atlanta is not only our city but it is yours," he told the legislators. "It is the capital of Georgia and it will assume its rightful place as a regional capital in the nation as this Plan of Improvement goes into operation."

Members of both Houses, eager to be done with lawmaking, wandered about the halls and visited the refreshment stands while waiting to hear that a joint conference committee had reached an agreement on amendments to the three percent sales tax bill. The committee reported at the noon recess that it could not agree and Speaker Fred Hand was reminded of a former session when legislators could not agree on the appropriations bill.

"We stuck a wad of paper under the hands of the clock when they reached five minutes of midnight and stopped them," Hand said. "Then we worked on until the sun was shining Sunday morning."

As the evening progressed and the session lengthened the Senate chamber took on the aroma of hot dogs and onions, hauled in by the carton, and the House chamber had a distinct ham sandwich-and-doughnut flavor. Members sent out for food and enlivened the long wait with impromptu variety shows and gag resolutions and bills offered in mock solemnity from the floor.

Quartets sprang up like mushrooms over the floor of both houses. Rep. Lawton Ursery, of Jeff Davis County, was discovered to have a tenor voice and groups gathered to harmonize "Sweet Adeline," "Down by the River Side," and then—with perhaps more fervor than anything else—"Show Me the Way to Go Home."

In the balcony, Mrs. Beulah Waller, self-styled "Wool Hat Woman," grabbed up an umbrella and conducted. Rep. Clifford Cranford, of Coweta, a vocal standby in House shows, sang "St. Louis Blues" and "Old Man River," replete with encores.

Over in the Senate President Marvin Griffin had musical ideas of his own. After the sales tax bill had been successfully sent on its way, and President Pro Tem had presented Griffin a silver service on behalf of the Senate, the President made his own good-bye gesture. He had his secretary open up a portable record player and play "So Long, So Nice to Have Known You" on which he had interposed a little speech expressing his appreciation for "your co-operation, your fidelity, your trust, your integrity and your painstaking devotion to duty."

2-Term Amendment Gets Georgia's Okay

Georgia Friday became the 31st state to ratify the twenty-second amendment to the U. S. Constitution, limiting the President to two full terms.

The amendment must be ratified by 36 states before becoming law. The Arkansas legislature approved the proposal Thursday. Georgia's House completed action on the measure Friday.

Two Members Quit Sumter Welfare Unit

AMERICUS, Feb. 16—(AP)—Two members of the Sumter County Welfare Board, one of whom is chairman, have resigned because they are not in sympathy with the present welfare program as set up by the Federal and State Governments, according to George Mathews, chairman of the Sumter County Board of Commissioners.

W. E. Smith, of Americus, and Oscar Williams, of Plains, contend that many applications for assistance which the local Board was asked to investigate and which were denied by the local Board, later were ordered granted by the State Department of Public Welfare.

The resigning members thus say they feel that they had very little official function to perform and were divested of any authority as far as cases regarding public assistance in their own county are concerned.

In his letter of resignation, Smith, who is a prominent young Americus attorney, said, "I have continued to serve as chairman of the Sumter County Welfare Board for some little time now, against my better judgment, with the idea that possibly my convictions concerning the present program were wrong. However, I am now firmly convinced that I will never be able to reconcile myself to the program as it presently exists and since I am not in sympathy with its objectives, I feel that I am no longer adequately qualified to serve."

Home Rule Put to People

If the people of Georgia approve in 1952 a constitutional amendment passed Friday by the General Assembly, there will be no more king-size ballots in the State.

The Legislature passed a constitutional amendment which would require a vote on local constitutional amendments only in the cities or counties affected—not on a Statewide basis. In event the local amendment affects more than one county, the vote would be counted separately in each county affected.

The proposal, known as the "home rule" constitutional amendment, was sponsored by Fulton Sen. Everett Millican.

Georgians had to vote last November on 33 purely local amendments.

Linder Trial DelayedAgain

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—(AP). Trial of Georgia Agriculture Commissioner Tom Linder and others on charges of violating the Federal Lobbyist law has been postponed for the eighth time.

It now is set for May 14. Attaches of Federal District Court here have said the trial is being delayed pending outcome of another case in which the National Manufacturers Association challenges validity of the law.

Former Texas Agriculture Commission J. E. McDonald, Ralph W. Moore, Washington, D. C.; Robert M. Harris, New York, and the National Farm Committee are accused along with Linder of lobbying for higher farm prices without registering as lobbyists as required by the law.

China Reds Irk Envoy From India

Special to The New York Times and The Atlanta Constitution

LONDON, Feb. 16—(AP)—Sardar K. M. Panikkar, Indian ambassador to Peiping who has been the principal diplomatic link between the western democracies and the Chinese Communist government, has written to friends in London expressing a desire to resign from his post this year.

Panikkar has been quoted as saying he has had enough both of his job and the situation in Peiping. He is supposed to have reported that the Chinese Communists have "taken the bit in their teeth" and are not amenable to advice and persuasion on the acute issues of the war in Korea and their relations with the west.

Health Bill, Commission Cut Passed

Last enabling bill for the Greater Atlanta Plan of Improvement—one transferring the Atlanta Health Department to Fulton County—was passed by the House Friday.

A Fulton County bill slashing membership of the County Commission from five to three members also was approved.

The health proposal provides that DeKalb County's Health Department serve that portion of DeKalb lying within Atlanta's City limits Atlanta will pay one-half the cost of operating the DeKalb department.

The Commission-cutting measure will become effective in 1954. The bill provides that the posts of Commissioners I. Gloer Hailey and Jack Towns will expire in 1952 along with other Commission posts. Candidates for the Towns and Hailey seats will run for two-year terms in 1952.

OUT OF HIS HANDS

Gas Tax Act 'Bad Business' To Talmadge

Governor Talmadge commented Friday that it looked like the General Assembly knocked him down on his request for authority to control the Highway Department's gasoline tax fund in wartime.

But he stuck to his stand that it was "bad business" to allow the funds to stockpile during such emergencies at the expense of other departments.

Both the House and Senate passed the administration-sponsored amendment earmarking the gasoline tax funds for highways, but ignored the Governor's personal request for wartime authority over the fund.

"I guess it is all right," the Governor declared. "But it still seems to me to be bad business to stockpile money for one department in time of war while other departments that could use the money might be starving.

"The people will get a crack at the amendment in November, 1952."

Relief Probe To Continue

A Legislative Committee investigation of the State Department of Public Welfare will be resumed Feb. 26, Rep. Bush Mims, of Miller County, said Friday.

Two welfare bills approved by the Legislature now are in the hands of Gov. Talmadge. One would permit the state to recover assistance paid to old-age recipients if it were found their children were financially able to support them.

The other would allow the state to take liens on property held by welfare recipients in excess of $250.

FCC Rules Against Use of Hush-A-Phone

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—(AP)—The Federal Communications Commission Friday ruled against use of the hush-a-phone by telephone subscribers.

The device is a cup-like gadget which can be snapped over a telephone transmitter to permit whispered conversation.

It has been widely employed for many years, despite phone company objections, to afford privacy for such conversations in public places.

World Peace Theme Of Ex-Chaplain's Talk

Arthur C. Whitney of Chicago will speak at Peachtree Road Methodist Church at 3:30 p. m. Sunday. His message will be on the theme, "A Christian Basis for World Peace."

Formerly an Army chaplain, Whitney now is a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship. He is on an extended tour which will carry him into major cities of the nation.

During World War I, Whitney served in the front lines in the Allied offensive in Belgium. He had been educated for machine designing but almost lost his sight. He then began a study of Christian Science and subsequently entered the practice of Christian Science healing. He has lectured in England, Canada and in Europe as well as throughout the United States.

Cherub Choir To Sing

The Cherub Choir of the Druid Hills Baptist Church will be featured in 7:30 p. m. services Sunday. The chorus of 50 voices will be under the direction of Haskell Boyter, Minister of Music.

Soloists, instrumental and vocal, will participate in the special concert.

Swilley League Speaker

Dr. Monroe F. Swilley will be speaker at the Salvation Army League of Mercy luncheon at the Men's Social Service Center, 746 Marietta St., Thursday. The League of Mercy is a group of Atlanta Salvationists who weekly visit some 12 hospitals, institutions and prisons, bringing comfort to inmates. More than 48,000 persons were reached last year through this ministry. Mrs. Major W. Kenneth Howarth, Divisional League Secretary, will preside.

Bowen Scheduled

Dr. B. M. Bowen, professor of Old Testament, Candler School of Theology at Emory, will address the Church Night dinner meeting of the Peachtree Road Methodist Church at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday.

The Rev. Nat G. Long, pastor of the Peachtree Road Church, will speak during both services at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday. His topics will be "Hope In Time of Trouble" and "What Shall I Do With Jesus?"

Psalm and Anthem

Dr. Robert W. Burns, minister of the Peachtree Christian Church, will speak on "A Psalm For Patriots" during services at 11 a. m. Sunday. Theme of the 5 p. m. Evening Bells Service, one of the most popular musical devotional services in Atlanta, will be "Heroism." The Chancel and Antiphonal Choirs, under the direction of Dr. Oliver Herbert, will sing anthems based on that theme. Dr. Herbert will feature as his organ work, "Finlandia."

Dean Walthour to Talk

The Very Rev. John B. Walthour, Dean of the Cathedral of St. Philip, will speak at 8 p. m. Wednesday during special Choral Evensong services. This will be the third in a series of Lenten programs. Topic will be "What Makes Life Worth Living?" The Choir, under the direction of Tom Brumby, will sing.

Planning Session

Dr. Glenn F. Sanford of New York and the Rev. James W. Sells of Atlanta Friday will conduct a planning session of the Commission on Town and Country Work of the North Georgia Methodist Conference at Emory University.

Mission Emphasis

Mission Emphasis Week will be observed at Moreland Avenue Baptist Church beginning Sunday. Dr. H. Cornell Goerner, Professor of Missions at Southern Baptist Seminary, Louisville, Ky., will speak at both 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. services Sunday. He will talk about mission work in Africa and South America.

Bishop at St. Luke's

The Rt. Rev. John Moore Walker, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Atlanta, will be the Lenten preacher at 8 p. m. Tuesday at St. Luke's Episcopal Church. He will discuss "The Christian and Today's Christ."

Regional Conventions

More than 10,000 Presbyterian men will attend four regional men's conventions to be held in different areas of the South on successive week-ends during 1951. Men from the synods of Florida, South Carolina and Georgia will meet Nov. 2-4 at Jacksonville, Fla. The meetings will acquaint men with goals of the Presbyterian Church, U. S., in each phase of its work.

Brotherhood Drive

A goal of $1,500 has been set in a fund drive commemorating Brotherhood Week at Emory University. Joining in the observance is the National Conference of Christians and Jews. Funds will be given to three institutions, one of which is in the South. To aid in the drive, "fellowship-of-sharing" meals will be served in the panel dining room of the cafeteria Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Students and faculty members will be asked to limit eating expenses in order that money can be contributed to the Chest. Two showings of "Gentleman's Agreement" will be held at 4 p. m. and 7 p. m. Wednesday. Another feature of the drive will be a poster display.

Your Stars Today

Sun in Aquarius

General Tendencies—With the moon in the sign Cancer today there is much stir and excitement about home affairs, food or entertainment and also money matters. All these things are favorable—don't think that they will turn out badly merely because they are usually lively. There is a likelihood of unexpected company or news toward the afternoon, followed by some profit or expansion in your affairs. People most apt to respond quickly to this are those born in early July.

If It's Your Birthday—Your new year ought to bring you definite advances in money matters. Promises or prospects will not be enough at this time and you should feel some renewed benefit within two months after the time of your birthdate. The Fall period may not be quite as active but things will pick up again as Winter comes on and you approach the time of your next birthday. February is always your most important month with March a close second in opportunities.

BISHER

The AAC Isn't Dead Yet, Or, Embroglio at Lunch

Since they took the pledge last Winter, it was to be assumed that the war was off between the National League and the All-America Conference, a couple of professional football fraternities that nearly rushed each other out of business.

A likely assumption, utterly without foundation, as I found out at lunch the other day. They hate each other just as beautifully as ever. It was a refreshing sort of little skit that took place around the table at the Athletic Club. Featured players were Chicago Cardinal Charley Trippi, four-year man in the old ivy-covered National League, and New York Yank Dan Edwards, steeped in the AAC tradition, but converted along with what remained of his league last year

The curtain rises and we find M. Trippi and M. Edwards nose to nose in subdued debate:

EDWARDS—After a year in the National League, I can't say that I saw anything so holy about it. The football they use is shaped just like ours and so are the behinds of the guys who sit on the bench.

TRIPPI—The National is better balanced all around. There were too many weaklings in the All-America. Where'd they ever get that name for such a league?

EDWARDS—Weakling, my eye. You must have forgot who won the championship this year. Ever hear of the Cleveland Browns, of the All-America Conference?

TRIPPI—Yeah, luckiest team I ever saw. They were just lucky, Dan, and you know it.

EDWARDS—Yeah, but their luck lasts longer than any I ever saw before. It's been running for five seasons now. Somewhere, somebody's bound to be good.

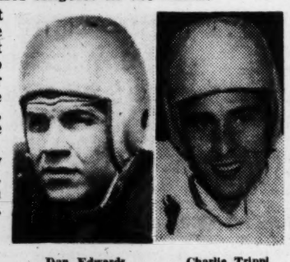

Bears Hit Hard, But Browns Win

TRIPPI—They shouldn't have been the champions. The Giants should have been. The Browns never should have beat the Giants.

EDWARDS—But they beat 'em.

TRIPPI—They beat the Giants without scoring a touchdown. They never should have beat Los Angeles in the finals.

EDWARDS—But they beat 'em. You got to go by the record, old buddy. They didn't hit near as hard as the Chicago Bears. I always said I'd rather play against Cleveland than the Bears. The Bears hit harder, and they're rougher. But the Browns'll beat you.

Dan Edwards

Charlie Trippi

TRIPPI—You don't know what it is to get hit hard, Dan. You should play the Bears in a Cardinal uniform. It's murder.

EDWARDS—Well, don't get any idea these All-Americans are panty-waists. Ever hear of the guy named Marion Motley? Let me tell you about him. First time I ever tackled Motley, I got him just as he got to the line, before he had a chance to get started. I racked him up and started wondering who the soft guy was who had told me how hard he hit.

The next time, I saw him coming around my end. I was still playing defense then. Well, I went for him like a rooster goes after a turkey. I'm not sure whether he hit me or I hit him, but I landed six rows up in the 30-yard seats. He hits harder than any man alive.

TRIPPI—What about Pat Harder, of the Cards? He hits harder than anybody I ever saw.

EDWARDS—He did before Motley came along. That Harder is just second hardest now.

TRIPPI—Still soft-hearted about your old league, eh kid?

There Was Character on the Hornets

EDWARDS—Man, listen to me. All the good players in the National last year came out of the All-America Conference. Look at that Cleveland team. They had two of the three best ends in the league, Lavelli and Speedie. Edwards is modest, or he'd name the other one. They had the two best guards in the league, Willis and Humble. They had the best pass-catching halfback in the league, Dub Jones. And they had Motley, and Otto Graham.

TRIPPI—Yeah, but the Giants shoulda beat 'em. Graham can't throw short. You know he's strictly a long passer. You just don't find any weak teams in our league like you had in the All-America.

EDWARDS—I wouldn't call Green Bay a good team. Detroit wasn't a good team. You know who had the best team in the league?

TRIPPI—I know what you're gonna say—Los Angeles.

EDWARDS—That's right. The Rams had the best team in the league, I thought. You know what league they came from, Trippi—the All-America. C'mon, Trippi, admit it. I got yuh whipped.

WAITER—Would you care to order, sir?

TRIPPI—An isolated case, Dan, just an isolated case.

EDWARDS—I tell you, Charley, we didn't win many ball games when I was with the (Chicago) Hornets the year before, but that was the finest bunch of fellows I was ever associated with. We went first-class, too. We were losing money like a drunk gambler, but we went first-class. A real fine bunch of boys in our league, I'm—

WAITER—Orders, please?

TRIPPI—All right, come off it, Dan. You sound like a coach giving his character talk at a banquet. Now tell us it's not whether you win or lose, but how you play the game.

EDWARDS—You have no soul, Trippi.

WAITER—I'm sorry, sir, we're out of filet of sole. We have some lovely perch, mackerel. . . .

Chuck Klein Captures Lead in Rio Grande

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

HARLINGEN, Texas, Feb. 16—(AP)—Charles (Chuck) Klein, stocky, talkative professional from San Antonio, got his first taste of golf glory Friday as he shot into the lead in the $10,000 Rio Grande Valley Open with a four-under par 67 that gave him a 36-hole total of 133.

The 33-year-old Texan, on the golf tour since last May and in the money in 14 tournaments, never had been in front until this cold, dreary afternoon when he was the only one of Thursday's leaders not to falter down the stretch of the second round.

Moving into a tie for second place with the first-round leader, Marty Furgol, of Long Beach, Calif., was dapper Lloyd Mangrum, of Chicago, the tournament favorite, who did a blazing 64 Friday to make his total 135.

Furgol, who had a 65 Thursday, shot one-under-par 70 Friday afternoon.

In fourth place came Henry Ransom, of St. Andrews, Ill., who was tied for second with Klein in the first round. He took a 70 and had 136.

The leaders: Chuck Klein, 66-67—133; Lloyd Mangrum, 71-64—135; Marty Furgol 65-70—135, Henry Ransom, 66-70—136; John Barnum, 70-67—137; Max Evans, 68-69—137; Larry Glosser, 73-64—137; Al Broach, 72-66—138; E. J. Harrison, 71-67—138; Jack Burke, Jr., 69-69—138; Glenn Teal, 68-71—139; Mal Galietta, 70-69—139; Bob Toski, 71-68—139; Ted Kroll, 71-68—139; Lew Worsham, 71-68—139; Wally Ulrich, 71-68—139; Jimmy Clark, 74-66—140; Ed Furgol, 68-72—140; John Palmer, 71-69—140; Doug Ford, 70-70—140.

Kennedy Signs

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 16 —(AP)— Pitcher Bill Kennedy, who won 16 and lost nine last year with Baltimore of the International League, has signed his 1951 contract with the St. Louis Browns, the club announced Friday.

Southern Meet Set Mar. 14

Twenty girls' teams from Southern States are expected to begin play March 14 at the new Sacred Heart gym in the third annual Southern Open Girls' Basketball Tournament.

Play is in two classes, Class A teams using AAU rules, and Class B teams, using high school rules. The tournament is open to all amateur and high school teams in the South. Atlanta's Lorelei Ladies are defending champs.

Information concerning entry can be secured by contacting S. T. Waggoner, tourney chairman, at P. O. Box 928, Atlanta, Ga. Entries must be received no later than March 4.

Amateur Umpires To Meet Sunday

All amateur baseball umpires interested in working in games in Atlanta this season are asked to be present at an umpires' meeting scheduled for 2 p. m. Sunday at American Legion Post 1 on Piedmont.

Applications for the National Umpires Association are to be completed. Local President J. B. Spearman will conduct a clinic.

Miss. State Battles Georgia

Schloss, Jordan Out With Illness

ATHENS, Feb. 16—Regulars Joe Jordan and Bob Schloss will be missing when Georgia begins its final home game Saturday against Mississippi State at 8 p. m.

Schloss, who missed the Alabama game Thursday, is recovering from flu and Jordan is in Athens General Hospital with a stomach disorder.

Coach Jim Whatley says he will start Earl Davis and Bill Shain at forwards, Jim Umbricht at center and Zippy Morocco and Kermith Hall at guards. That's the same five that opened against Alabama.

A victory will give the Bulldogs a 6-5 conference record, 13-7 over all. The Maroons have won two and lost eight in the conference and have a 3-11 season mark.

The Bulldogs finish their regular schedule with three road games, meeting Kentucky Feb. 23, Tennessee Feb. 24 and Vandy Feb. 26.

Maroon Coach Paul Gregory will start 6' 5" Elmore Branch and Hoyt Vance at forwards, Hoyt at center, and Herbert Hargett, who has averaged more than 15 points per game, and Bill Edwards at guards.

Irish Seek To Clinch Tourney Slot

Brown, Roosevelt and Smith High quintets already have clinched three of Region 3-AA's berths in the state high school basketball tournament here Feb. 28-March 3, and O'Keefe, having made a sensational late-season comeback, can assure itself of the fourth shot with a victory in Saturday night's round of City League play.

Jim Hinson's Irish, now with a 7-5 record after losing their first three loop games of the year, need a victory over Murphy (3-9) at the Bass gym to send Sylvan's last chance a-glimmering.

Sylvan (5-7) meets Roosevelt, tied for second place with Smith at 8-4, at the Brown gym, and must win to "stay alive" even if the Irish lose.

Brown (12-0) goes against Smith on Smithie hardwood in this next-to-last round of league play, and Grady (4-8) will play host to Bass (1-11). All are twin bills and will open with B team games at 7:30.

College Grid Blasted as Frankenstein

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Feb. 16—(AP)—Big-time football Friday drew a blast from Athletic Director Dick Larkins of Ohio State University—a school which last year drew $1,112,000 for five home games.

Larkins declared "football is being ruined. It's getting completely out of hand. It's a Frankenstein, a monster. Football is killing itself."

The Buckeye chief, taking cognizance of a resolution passed by state representatives asking that all Ohio State games be televised, said he thought saturation of the airways with football might be a good thing for the game.

"Maybe television is the answer," he said. "Maybe it will kill off football as we have it today and we can start all over and build it up again without all this overemphasis. This might be the best thing that could happen to college athletics. Amputation is sometimes worth the cure.

"Even disregarding television, college athletics are ill, really sick," he declared. "And the big canker is football. College football is too big for its breeches. It's a Frankenstein, a monster. These 80,000-90,000 Roman holidays are not good for college athletics. Football is killing itself."

Erskine Win Over Wofford Worries GTC

COLLEGEBORO, Ga., Feb. 16—A 77-75 victory by Erskine College over Wofford College Tuesday intensified interest Friday in torrid basketball rivalry between Erskine and the Georgia Teachers, to be resumed here Saturday night.

With Wofford having upset the Teachers, 101-83, at Spartanburg, S. C., last Friday, local fans are looking for an even contest or possibly another defeat. A previous game with Erskine ended 57-49 in favor of the Professors, but pulled down an 83-point scoring average.

The Teachers regained some favor by outscoring a good Naval Air Station quintet at Jacksonville, Fla., 67-41, Tuesday, but it was hardly enough to offset the sting of losses to Wofford and Mercer University last week and to Spring Hill College and the Quantico Marines previously.

The Teachers College Laboratory School boys and Waynesboro High will meet in a preliminary game at 6:45 p. m. Saturday.

GMA Swimmers In Carolina Meet

The GMA swimming team, winner of the GIAA meet for five straight years, will compete in the Southern Interscholastic meet at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill Saturday. Coach Les Fouts' team is undefeated so far this season.

SCREENING COMMITTEE MEETS AT AUBURN—The committee selected to help choose a new football coach for Auburn meets in the athletic office in Tigertown. Ken Lott (seated), of Mobile, is chairman of the group. Members (standing, l. to r.) are: Bobby Blake, Auburn; Bo Russell, Birmingham; Marion Talley, Atlanta, and Jimmy Hitchcock, Montgomery.

Surging Alabama Tide Meets Jackets Tonight

Capstoners on 5-Game Victory Streak, Now Hold Third Place in SEC Race

By JESSE OUTLAR

Before the Southeastern Conference season started, Alabama Coach Floyd Burdette labeled his Alabama entry as his finest team at the Capstone.

At the outset, it looked as if Burdette had been misquoted. It took the Tide attack some time to jell. But as the Crimsons pulled into town for a Saturday night stand against Georgia Tech, they were perched in third place in the standings and riding a five-game winning streak. Georgia was stamped as the eighth conference victim Thursday night.

Center Paul Sullivan, The Constitution's latest player of the week selection; Forward Bryant Ivey and Guard Bob Schneider have provided the spark in the Tide turnabout.

The late rush has enabled Alabama to post an 8-4 conference record and a 13-7 overall mark.

Tech, in the midst of a dismal season, has a 5-7 chart in the SEC and a 6-16 total against all comers.

The Jackets' chances of snapping Alabama's string hinge heavily on Bill Cline's ability to cope with Sullivan and the sharpshooting of Pete Silas.

Although he won't equal Jim Nolan's all-time Tech point total of 1,136, Guard Mel Dold will be out to take over the runner-up spot. Dold, who needed an 11 point per game average to erase Nolan's mark, dropped out of the running when he collected only three markers against Auburn last Wednesday.

Mel has scored 184 this season and has a four-year chart of 1,045.

This will be the season's semi-final for Alabama, which winds up its regular schedule against Florida next week. Tech has three games remaining after the Alabama tussle.

Grady Rifle Squad Wins City Title

Grady High's rifle team accounted for the top score of 872 and Bass the high individual, John Deans, Thursday as the eight local high schools fired in Intra-city matches.

Grady defeated Sylvan in their match at the Brown High range. Deans scored 187 as Bass defeated O'Keefe.

Score by matches:

Grady 872, Roy McCollum 179, and Sylvan 800, William Stallings 169; Bass 870, John Deans 187, and O'Keefe 700, Elliott Fuller 147; Murphy 829, Charles Forrester 179, and Roosevelt 819 and Roy McCollom 170; Brown 791, Bobby Farmer 165 and Smith 764, William Martin 158.

Hairston Gets TKO Over Paddy Young

NEW YORK, Feb. 16—(U.P.)—Flooring his opponent five times, Eugene (Silent) Hairston, New York Negro deaf mute middleweight, increased his prestige Friday night by scoring a technical knockout over Paddy Young, of New York, at 2:57 of the second round in Madison Square Garden.

Hairston, No. 6 ranking middleweight, had Young on the floor for the fifth time when Referee Ruby Goldstein stopped the bout.

Goldstein intervened because of New York State's three-knockdown rule.

As the second round opened Paddy slipped to the canvas without being hit. It was not a knockdown. After Paddy's fourth knockdown, Goldstein asked him if he was hurt or if he was trying to quit. Paddy said, "I'm hurt."

Betting on the bout had favored Hairston at only 13-5 at 9 p. m. (EST). By the time the bout went on at 10 p. m., the price had skyrocketed to 4-1 in favor of the 21-year-old Negro.

Sporting News Honors Spivey

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 16—(AP). The Sporting News Friday designated Sherman White of Long Island U. as basketball player of the year in selecting an eight-man cage squad for 1951.

The baseball weekly explained it picked eight men instead of the customary five because five men no longer "can keep pace in the major college cage whirl."

With White as forwards are Bill Garrett of Indiana and Bob Zawoluk, of St. Johns.

At center are seven-foot Bill Spivey of Kentucky and Clyde Lovellette, Kansas' six-foot-nine ace.

The guard posts are manned by Mel Hutchins of Brigham Young, Gal McArthur of Oklahoma Aggies and Ernie Barrett of Kansas State.

COACH GIVES 'EM THE DOPE

Milledgeville TD Club Honors Its Wally Butts

By FURMAN BISHER

MILLEDGEVILLE, Feb. 17—Wallace Butts, a Georgia football institution, born here on Feb. 7, 1905, came home Friday night to preside at the first of another football institution, the Milledgeville Touchdown Club.

The University of Georgia head coach observed his home town's "Wally Butts Night" with a brief and characteristically conservative advance view of the football Bulldogs, model 1951

"Speed that might come from Lauren Hargrove, Zippy Morocco and Conrad Manisera, and an improved fullback situation should make our T-formation work all right," he told an audience that came for the fourth year to pay tribute to Milledgeville's most distinguished athletic citizen.

"The worst sentence you can put on a boy in the Southeastern Conference is to make him quarterback. You have 50,000 people second guessing, and when you have to face 11 men like the SEC teams field, it takes a lot of determination. We expect Mal Cook to be improved. We also look to Bratkowski, a sophomore we have brought along slowly to avoid pressure; Billy Grant, who might play a lot; Billy Burt, a sophomore, and a boy from South Georgia who just registered, Leon Houston.

"Our ends should be better after Coach (Perron) Shoemaker gets through with them. John Carson should be good. We are shifting Art DeCarlo from linebacker, where he was all-conference, to right end. We have Harry Babcock, a boy who never played high school ball, at left end. We probably will have Dexter Poss at left end and Robert West at right end on defense."

Too, questioned from the floor, Butts offered these evaluations: "Hurley Jones (ex-Georgia Military College center from Jesup) is one of the best boys we have ever had at Georgia . . . I'm doubtful that Richard Steele will be as effective after his operation . . . We have a great tackle over there, we think, in Marion Campbell.

"If we don't have a good squad, it won't be for lack of effort. We have, I think, excepting the head coach, the finest staff at Georgia we have ever had."

Sharing the feature billing with Butts was another returned native, Georgia Backfield Coach Bill Hartman, once a GMC tailback for Butts.

The embryo TD club employed the evening to honor Norris Mullis, voted by his teammates as GMC's most valuable player last season. He is a halfback from Fort Valley, who may land at Wofford College next year. The GMC squad and Coach Lew Cordell, also of the Butts school, were honored at the dinner in GMC's dining hall.

BRIEFCASE—It was the old campus revisited also for Georgia assistant Sterling Dupree, who is remembered here for swimming the nearby Oconee River here as a cadet. It was reunion for Quinton Lumpkin, resigned Georgia aide who came up from Jesup where he is in the lumber business with Hurley Jones, Sr. . . . The senior Jones was a high school football teammate of Johnny Mack Brown at Dothan, Ala. . . . Other Georgia staff members on hand were Ralph Jordan, Perron Shoemaker and Dan Edwards.

A small, select group of Milledgeville citizens, who several years ago organized what they called a Saturday Afternoon Quarterback Club, formed a nucleus for the new TD club. Leader and presiding Jere Moore, publisher of the local newspaper and a member of the State Board of Regents. Dr. Edwin Allen and Ed Robinson. A fourth member Charles Whitfield, is dead . . . Proudest guest of all were J. W. Butts, Sr., and W. C. Hartman, fathers of the two central figures . . . "No Auburn for me," says Sterling Dupree, "Even if I should be offered a job. I'm staying where I am."

THE SPORTS TRAIL

Kids' Baseball Comes of Age

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, Feb. 16—(AP)—If you don't like kids, just skip this. It concerns Little League Baseball, for boys 12 years old or under, and we only wish it had been in operation some 40 or more years ago.

Those were the days when kids' baseball was about as organized as a riot. Sure, you remember them. The days when you kicked away the tin cans from a corner lot, chose up sides, with anywhere from four to 12 on a side, and were ready to go. When your baseball was a nickel "rocket" which soon became egg-shaped and eventually was covered with tire tape, and the game ended when the kid who owned the bat had to go home and sift ashes.

Anyway, the Little League is dressing up kids' baseball in top hat and tails, you might say, with the youngsters playing with first-class equipment, including uniforms in games conducted as efficiently as professional games.

The project is the brain-child of Carl E. Stotz of Williamsport, Pa., who in 1939 decided to do something for the kids who had no chance to play in regular games. His enthusiasm was catching, and that year, at Williamsport, the first league, of three teams, was organized. Today there are 2,034 teams in an undetermined number of leagues in 37 states.

Cappy Wells, retired Army colonel who, as public relations director at West Point a dozen or more years ago set a high standard for such work, is handling the publicity for the organization, and he sketched its operation for us briefly.

"Once a group has decided to form a league, or leagues," he explained, "A call is issued for candidates. Say they tell the boys to report at Elm and Maple Sts. at such-and-such a time. Anywhere from 100 to 1,000 kids might show up.

"The boys then undergo a month's training under the supervision of managers and coaches previously selected, and at the end of that time the lads who show sufficient ability are retained as league material.

"The teams are selected through bidding, to avoid one-sided competition. That is, each manager is allowed 36,000 points, and he can use these points to bid in players he wants. For instance, if he wants a certain pitcher he might have to bid so high he won't have many points left for other players. That's his lookout.

"It cost about $200 to equip a team, with team sponsors or civic groups or other organizations footing the bill. Leagues usually are made up of four or six teams, which play on slightly abbreviated fields, with the baselines shorter and the fences close enough so the kids can get the thrill of hitting home runs.

"Every safety precaution is taken. The batters must wear protective helmets, for one thing, and games are limited to six innings.

"It's truly American in spirit. A boy's background means nothing. All that is asked is: Can he hit? Can he field? And the games foster the truly democratic spirit among the parents, bringing the rich and poor, the boss and the employe, together side-by-side in the grandstand, all with a common interest—to watch their sons play.

North Fulton Tops West Fulton, 66-58

Hapeville Trips Russell To Enter Fulton Finals

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

North Fulton's Bulldogs and Hapeville's Hornets, two high-geared quintets that have beaten each other once each this year, will battle for the Fulton County championship in the 1951 tournament finals at North Fulton's new basketball palace Saturday night.

Bill Bryce's host Bulldogs got even for a pair of one and two-point beatings the West Fulton Owls had administered by coming from behind to trim Coach Jack Hogg's five, 66-58, in one semifinal fray before a full house Friday night. Bill Campbell's Hornets shaded Charlie Aldridge's Russell quint, 59-57, despite a brilliant comeback by the losers.

Wade Mitchell, who is not yet 16 years old, exhibited the marvelous "finger-tip control" advertised by an auto firm to rack up 22 points for the Bulldogs and run his two-game tourney total to 50. Almost all of the nine fielders rung up by the six-two blond were tip-ins. He also dumped in four of five foul tries.

Brother Billy, other half of the Mitchell brothers combine, swished net for 15 counters, and Guard Tom Boden accounted for 13.

The Owls' sparkling Leroy Thompson zipped cord for 17 tallies, ten in a torrid third quarter, before fouling out as the fourth stanza started. Paul Martin hit for 15, including seven out of seven charity tosses. Tall Jackie Sexton hooped eight of ten free throws and totalled 12 points. Billy Driskell, a sawed-off jet job, sank four fielders from near mid-court in the first quarter and wound up with 11.

Hapeville forged ahead of Russell at 29-28 and never again was headed. But the Wildcats, who have lost three games to the Hornets by a total of ten points, were breathing on the winners' necks all through the late stages.

Bobby Peek, firing from close; Tommy Bentley, firing long, and Carlton Swicegood rang up 17, 16 and 11 that counted for the Hornets in their 23rd victory in 26 starts. Jimmy Holcomb, slim Russellite, took scoring honors at 18, and Billy Underwood was good for 14. Ronald Wilson, tallest of the smaller East Pointers, was good for 10 and did an exceptional job of hawking the ball off the backboards. Billy Moran, with 9, found the nets when the situation was most critical.

The lead swapped possession seven times in the Owl-Bulldog tracas, and the count was stalemated nine times, the last time it 54-54. When Thompson fouled out, the Owls were ahead at 51-49. When Sexton felt the referee's ax, the invaders had fallen behind, 56-54. Ed Hamilton and Wade Mitchell were hot Bulldogs in the fading stages, and their points sent the homelings winging to the final eight-point spread.

The game was rough as 50 fouls, 25 on each team, testify.

Russell out-field goaled Hapeville, 27-25, but the Hornets won at the foul line. They dumped in only nine of 20 efforts, but the Wildcats managed only three in 13 flips.

Russell and West Fulton will play for third place in Saturday's 7:30 curtain-raiser.

Hearn Shoots 77 In Players' Meet

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 16—New York Giant Pitcher Jim Hearn, of Atlanta, fired a 77 to tie for second place in the 18-hole qualifying round of the annual Baseball Players golf tournament here Friday.

Hearn was four strokes back of Medalist Ken Yount, Niagara Falls hurler. Bob Kennedy of the Cleveland Indians also had a 77, while Commissioner A. B. "Happy" Chandler soared to 82.

Calumet Entry Tops San Antonio

By BOB MYERS

ARCADIA, Calif., Feb. 16—(AP). The task will be difficult and the field large, but Coaltown and Ponder will be favored to change the racing luck of the famed Calumet stable at Santa Anita this year when the $50,000 San Antonio handicap is run Saturday.

The once mighty Coaltown, if he's right, or Ponder, who is overdue, could well tame the field. A third Calumet, All Blue, will get into the fray for sharpshooting duty if called on.

Seventeen candidates are entered in the mile and one-eighth feature, which often gives an excellent line on the chances of the rivals for the ensuing big race, the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap March 3.

Arrayed against Coaltown, Ponder and All Blue, unless bad weather sets in, will be:

Alfred G. Vanderbilt's filly, Next Move; William Goetz' Australian invader, Bernbrook; I. J. Collins' Vulcan's Forge; Clifford Mooers' entry of Sudan and Mocopo; the King Ranch's Beau Max; Moonrush, racing for Miss Anita King and Gus Luellwitz; Frank Frankel's Franky, and Bullreigh, Jr., Vino Fino, Rupeluz, Last Round, Sturdy One and Be Fleet.

Southern Tech Triumphs, 67-60

Southern Tech, led by Charlie McDaniel, broke out of a tight Georgia Southwestern defense three minutes before the final whistle Friday night and toppled the visitors, 67-60.

McDaniel accounted for 22 of the winning points and split individual honors with Southwestern's Richard Johnson, who also tallied 22. Second place was also divided, Tech's Bubber Hodges and Southwestern's Mike Jenverino each grabbing 18.

The AAC Isn't Dead Yet, Or, Embroglio at Lunch

Since they took the pledge last Winter, it was to be assumed that the war was off between the National League and the All-America Conference, a couple of professional football fraternities that nearly rushed each other out of business.

A likely assumption, utterly without foundation, as I found out at lunch the other day. They hate each other just as beautifully as ever. It was a refreshing sort of little skit that took place around the table at the Athletic Club. Featured players were Chicago Cardinal Charley Trippi, four-year man in the old ivy-covered National League, and New York Yank Dan Edwards, steeped in the AAC tradition, but converted along with what remained of his league last year

The curtain rises and we find M. Trippi and M. Edwards nose to nose in subdued debate:

EDWARDS—After a year in the National League, I can't say that I saw anything so holy about it. The football they use is shaped just like ours and so are the behinds of the guys who sit on the bench.

TRIPPI—The National is better balanced all around. There were too many weaklings in the All-America. Where'd they ever get that name for such a league?

EDWARDS—Weakling, my eye. You must have forgot who won the championship this year. Ever hear of the Cleveland Browns, of the All-America Conference?

TRIPPI—Yeah, luckiest team I ever saw. They were just lucky, Dan, and you know it.

EDWARDS—Yeah, but their luck lasts longer than any I ever saw before. It's been running for five seasons now. Somewhere, somebody's bound to be good.

Bears Hit Hard, But Browns Win

TRIPPI—They shouldn't have been the champions. The Giants should have been. The Browns never should have beat the Giants.

EDWARDS—But they beat 'em.

TRIPPI—They beat the Giants without scoring a touchdown. They never should have beat Los Angeles in the finals.

EDWARDS—But they beat 'em. You got to go by the record, old buddy. They didn't hit near as hard as the Chicago Bears. I always said I'd rather play against Cleveland than the Bears. The Bears hit harder, and they're rougher. But the Browns'll beat you.

Dan Edwards

Charlie Trippi

TRIPPI—You don't know what it is to get hit hard, Dan. You should play the Bears in a Cardinal uniform. It's murder.

EDWARDS—Well, don't get any idea these All-Americans are panty-waists. Ever hear of the guy named Marion Motley? Let me tell you about him. First time I ever tackled Motley, I got him just as he got to the line, before he had a chance to get started. I racked him up and started wondering who the soft guy was who had told me how hard he hit.

The next time, I saw him coming around my end. I was still playing defense then. Well, I went for him like a rooster goes after a turkey. I'm not sure whether he hit me or I hit him, but I landed six rows up in the 30-yard seats. He hits harder than any man alive.

TRIPPI—What about Pat Harder, of the Cards? He hits harder than anybody I ever saw.

EDWARDS—He did before Motley came along. That Harder is just second hardest now.

TRIPPI—Still soft-hearted about your old league, eh kid?

There Was Character on the Hornets

EDWARDS—Man, listen to me. All the good players in the National last year came out of the All-America Conference. Look at that Cleveland team. They had two of the three best ends in the league, Lavelli and Speedie. Edwards is modest, or he'd name the other one. They had the two best guards in the league, Willis and Humble. They had the best pass-catching halfback in the league, Dub Jones. And they had Motley, and Otto Graham.

TRIPPI—Yeah, but the Giants shoulda beat 'em. Graham can't throw short. You know he's strictly a long passer. You just don't find any weak teams in our league like you had in the All-America.

EDWARDS—I wouldn't call Green Bay a good team. Detroit wasn't a good team. You know who had the best team in the league?

TRIPPI—I know what you're gonna say—Los Angeles.

EDWARDS—That's right. The Rams had the best team in the league, I thought. You know what league they came from, Trippi—the All-America. C'mon, Trippi, admit it. I got yuh whipped.

WAITER—Would you care to order, sir?

TRIPPI—An isolated case, Dan, just an isolated case.

EDWARDS—I tell you, Charley, we didn't win many ball games when I was with the (Chicago) Hornets the year before, but that was the finest bunch of fellows I was ever associated with. We went first-class, too. We were losing money like a drunk gambler, but we went first-class. A real fine bunch of boys in our league, I'm—

WAITER—Orders, please?

TRIPPI—All right, come off it, Dan. You sound like a coach giving his character talk at a banquet. Now tell us it's not whether you win or lose, but how you play the game.

EDWARDS—You have no soul, Trippi.

WAITER—I'm sorry, sir, we're out of filet of sole. We have some lovely perch, mackerel. . . .

Chuck Klein Captures Lead in Rio Grande

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

HARLINGEN, Texas, Feb. 16—(AP)—Charles (Chuck) Klein, stocky, talkative professional from San Antonio, got his first taste of golf glory Friday as he shot into the lead in the $10,000 Rio Grande Valley Open with a four-under par 67 that gave him a 36-hole total of 133.

The 33-year-old Texan, on the golf tour since last May and in the money in 14 tournaments, never had been in front until this cold, dreary afternoon when he was the only one of Thursday's leaders not to falter down the stretch of the second round.

Moving into a tie for second place with the first-round leader, Marty Furgol, of Long Beach, Calif., was dapper Lloyd Mangrum, of Chicago, the tournament favorite, who did a blazing 64 Friday to make his total 135.

Furgol, who had a 65 Thursday, shot one-under-par 70 Friday afternoon.

In fourth place came Henry Ransom, of St. Andrews, Ill., who was tied for second with Klein in the first round. He took a 70 and had 136.

The leaders: Chuck Klein, 66-67—133; Lloyd Mangrum, 71-64—135; Marty Furgol, 65-70—135; Henry Ransom, 66-70—136; John Barnum, 70-67—137; Max Evans, 68-69—137; Larry Glosser, 73-64—137; Al Brosch, 72-66—138; E. J. Harrison, 71-67—138; Jack Burke, Jr., 69-69—138; Glenn Teal, 68-71—139; Mal Galletta, 70-69—139; Bob Toski, 71-68—139; Ted Kroll, 71-68—139; Lew Worsham, 71-68—139; Wally Ulrich, 71-68—139; Jimmy Clark, 74-66—140; Ed Furgol, 68-72—140; John Palmer, 71-69—140; Doug Ford, 70-70—140.

Kennedy Signs

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 16—(AP)—Pitcher Bill Kennedy, who won 16 and lost nine last year with Baltimore of the International League, has signed his 1951 contract with the St. Louis Browns, the club announced Friday.

Southern Meet Set Mar. 14

Twenty girls' teams from Southern States are expected to begin play March 14 at the new Sacred Heart gym in the third annual Southern Open Girls' Basketball Tournament.

Play is in two classes, Class A teams using AAU rules, and Class B teams, using high school rules. The tournament is open to all amateur and high school teams in the South. Atlanta's Lorelei Ladies are defending champs.

Information concerning entry can be secured by contacting S. T. Waggoner, tourney chairman, at P. O. Box 928, Atlanta, Ga. Entries must be received no later than March 4.

Amateur Umpires To Meet Sunday

All amateur baseball umpires interested in working in games in Atlanta this season are asked to be present at an umpires' meeting scheduled for 2 p. m. Sunday at American Legion Post 1 on Piedmont.

Applications for the National Umpires Association are to be completed. Local President J. B. Spearman will conduct a clinic.

Miss. State Battles Georgia

Schloss, Jordan Out With Illness

ATHENS, Feb. 16—Regulars Joe Jordan and Bob Schloss will be missing when Georgia begins its final home game Saturday against Mississippi State at 8 p. m.

Schloss, who missed the Alabama game Thursday, is recovering from flu and Jordan is in Athens General Hospital with a stomach disorder.

Coach Jim Whatley says he will start Earl Davis and Bill Shain at forwards, Jim Umbricht at center and Zippy Morocco and Kermith Hall at guards. That's the same five that opened against Alabama.

A victory will give the Bulldogs a 6-5 conference record, 13-7 over all. The Maroons have won two and lost eight in the conference and have a 3-11 season mark.

The Bulldogs finish their regular schedule with three road games, meeting Kentucky Feb. 23, Tennessee Feb. 24 and Vandy Feb. 26.

Maroon Coach Paul Gregory will start 6' 5" Elmore Branch and Hoyt Vance at forwards, Hoyt at center, and Herbert Hargett, who has averaged more than 15 points per game, and Bill Edwards at guards.

Irish Seek To Clinch Tourney Slot

Brown, Roosevelt and Smith High quintets already have clinched three of Region 3-AA's berths in the state high school basketball tournament here Feb. 28-March 3, and O'Keefe, having made a sensational late-season comeback, can assure itself of the fourth shot with a victory in Saturday night's round of City League play.

Jim Hinson's Irish, now with a 7-5 record after losing their first three loop games of the year, need a victory over Murphy (3-9) at the Bass gym to send Sylvan's last chance a-glimmering.

Sylvan (5-7) meets Roosevelt, tied for second place with Smith at 8-4, at the Brown gym, and must win to "stay alive" even if the Irish lose.

Brown (12-0) goes against Smith on Smithie hardwood in this next-to-last round of league play, and Grady (4-8) will play host to Bass (1-11). All are twin bills and will open with B team games at 7:30.

College Grid Blasted as Frankenstein

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Feb. 16—(AP)—Big-time football Friday drew a blast from Athletic Director Dick Larkins of Ohio State University—a school which last year drew $1,112,000 for five home games.

Larkins declared "football is being ruined. It's getting completely out of hand. It's a Frankenstein, a monster. Football is killing itself."

The Buckeye chief, taking cognizance of a resolution passed by state representatives asking that all Ohio State games be televised, said he thought saturation of the airways with football might be a good thing for the game.

"Maybe television is the answer," he said. "Maybe it will kill off football as we have it today and we can start all over and build it up again without all this overemphasis. This might be the best thing that could happen to college athletics. Amputation is sometimes worth the cure.

"Even disregarding television, college athletics are ill, really sick," he declared. "And the big canker is football. College football is too big for its breeches. It's a Frankenstein, a monster. These 80,000-90,000 Roman holidays are not good for college athletics. Football is killing itself."

Erskine Win Over Wofford Worries GTC

COLLEGEBORO, Ga., Feb. 16—A 77-75 victory by Erskine College over Wofford College Tuesday intensified interest Friday in torrid basketball rivalry between Erskine and the Georgia Teachers, to be resumed here Saturday night.

With Wofford having upset the Teachers, 101-83, at Spartanburg, S. C., last Friday, local fans are looking for an even contest or possibly another defeat. A previous game with Erskine ended 57-49 in favor of the Professors, but pulled down an 83-point scoring average.

The Teachers regained some favor by outscoring a good Naval Air Station quintet at Jacksonville, Fla., 67-41, Tuesday, but it was hardly enough to offset the sting of losses to Wofford and Mercer University last week and to Spring Hill College and the Quantico Marines previously.

The Teachers College Laboratory School boys and Waynesboro High will meet in a preliminary game at 6:45 p. m. Saturday.

GMA Swimmers In Carolina Meet

The GMA swimming team, winner of the GIAA meet for five straight years, will compete in the Southern Interscholastic meet at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill Saturday. Coach Les Fouts' team is undefeated so far this season.

SCREENING COMMITTEE MEETS AT AUBURN—The committee selected to help choose a new football coach for Auburn meets in the athletic office in Tigertown. Ken Lott (seated), of Mobile, is chairman of the group. Members (standing, l. to r.) are: Bobby Blake, Auburn; Bo Russell, Birmingham; Marion Talley, Atlanta, and Jimmy Hitchcock, Montgomery.

Surging Alabama Tide Meets Jackets Tonight

Capstoners on 5-Game Victory Streak, Now Hold Third Place in SEC Race

By JESSE OUTLAR

Before the Southeastern Conference season started, Alabama Coach Floyd Burdette labeled his Alabama entry as his finest team at the Capstone.

At the outset, it looked as if Burdette had been misquoted. It took the Tide attack some time to jell. But as the Crimsons pulled into town for a Saturday night stand against Georgia Tech, they were perched in third place in the standings and riding a five-game winning streak. Georgia was stamped as the eighth conference victim Thursday night.

Center Paul Sullivan, The Constitution's latest player of the week selection; Forward Bryant Ivey and Guard Bob Schneider have provided the spark in the Tide turnabout.

The late rush has enabled Alabama to post an 8-4 conference record and a 13-7 overall mark.

Tech, in the midst of a dismal season, has a 5-7 chart in the SEC and a 6-16 total against all comers.

The Jackets' chances of snapping Alabama's string hinge heavily on Bill Cline's ability to cope with Sullivan and the sharpshooting of Pete Silas.

Although he won't equal Jim Nolan's all-time Tech point total of 1,136, Guard Mel Dold will be out to take over the runner-up spot. Dold, who needed an 11 point per game average to erase Nolan's mark, dropped out of the running when he collected only three markers against Auburn last Wednesday.

Mel has scored 184 this season and has a four-year chart of 1,045.

This will be the season's semi-final for Alabama, which winds up its regular schedule against Florida next week. Tech has three games remaining after the Alabama tussle.

Grady Rifle Squad Wins City Title

Grady High's rifle team accounted for the top score of 872 and Bass the high individual, John Deans, Thursday as the eight local high schools fired in Intra-city matches.

Grady defeated Sylvan in their match at the Brown High range. Deans scored 187 as Bass defeated O'Keefe.

Score by matches:

Grady 872, Roy McCollum 179, and Sylvan 800, William Stallings 169; Bass 870, John Deans 187, and O'Keefe 700, Elliott Fuller 147; Murphy 829, Charles Forrester 179, and Roosevelt 819 and Roy McCollom 170; Brown 791, Bobby Farmer 165 and Smith 764, William Martin 158.

Hairston Gets TKO Over Paddy Young

NEW YORK, Feb. 16—(U.P.)—Flooring his opponent five times, Eugene (Silent) Hairston, New York Negro deaf mute middleweight, increased his prestige Friday night by scoring a technical knockout over Paddy Young, of New York, at 2:57 of the second round in Madison Square Garden.

Hairston, No. 6 ranking middleweight, had Young on the floor for the fifth time when Referee Ruby Goldstein stopped the bout.

Goldstein intervened because of New York State's three-knockdown rule.

As the second round opened Paddy slipped to the canvas without being hit. It was not a knockdown. After Paddy's fourth knockdown, Goldstein asked him if he was hurt or if he was trying to quit. Paddy said, "I'm hurt."

Betting on the bout had favored Hairston at only 13-5 at 9 p. m. (EST). By the time the bout went on at 10 p. m., the price had skyrocketed to 4-1 in favor of the 21-year-old Negro.

Sporting News Honors Spivey

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 16—(AP). The Sporting News Friday designated Sherman White of Long Island U. as basketball player of the year in selecting an eight-man cage squad for 1951.

The baseball weekly explained it picked eight men instead of the customary five because five men no longer "can keep pace in the major college cage whirl."

With White as forwards are Bill Garrett of Indiana and Bob Zawoluk, of St. Johns.

At center are seven-foot Bill Spivey of Kentucky and Clyde Lovellette, Kansas' six-foot-nine ace.

COACH GIVES 'EM THE DOPE

Milledgeville TD Club Honors Its Wally Butts

By FURMAN BISHER

MILLEDGEVILLE, Feb. 17—Wallace Butts, a Georgia football institution, born here on Feb. 7, 1905, came home Friday night to preside at the first of another football institution, the Milledgeville Touchdown Club.

The University of Georgia head coach observed his home town's "Wally Butts Night" with a brief and characteristically conservative advance view of the football Bulldogs, model 1951

"Speed that might come from Lauren Hargrove, Zippy Morocco and Conrad Manisera, and an improved fullback situation should make our T-formation work all right," he told an audience that came for the fourth year to pay tribute to Milledgeville's most distinguished athletic citizen.

"The worst sentence you can put on a boy in the Southeastern Conference is to make him quarterback. You have 50,000 people second guessing, and when you have to face 11 men like the SEC teams field, it takes a lot of determination. We expect Mal Cook to be improved. We also look to Bratkowski, a sophomore we have brought along slowly to avoid pressure; Billy Grant, who might play a lot; Billy Burt, a sophomore, and a boy from South Georgia who just registered, Leon Houston.

"Our ends should be better after Coach (Perron) Shoemaker gets through with them. John Carson should be good. We are shifting Art DeCarlo from linebacker, where he was all-conference, to right end. We have Harry Babcock, a boy who never played high school ball, at left end. We probably will have Dexter Poss at left end and Robert West at right end on defense."

Too, questioned from the floor, Butts offered these evaluations: "Hurley Jones (ex-Georgia Military College center from Jesup) is one of the best boys we have ever had at Georgia . . . I'm doubtful that Richard Steele will be as effective after his operation . . . We have a great tackle over there, we think, in Marion Campbell.

"If we don't have a good squad, it won't be for lack of effort. We have, I think, excepting the head coach, the finest staff at Georgia we have ever had."

Sharing the feature billing with Butts was another returned native, Georgia Backfield Coach Bill Hartman, once a GMC tailback for Butts.

The embryo TD club employed the evening to honor Norris Mullis, voted by his teammates as GMC's most valuable player last season. He is a halfback from Fort Valley, who may land at Wofford College next year. The GMC squad and Coach Lew Cordell, also of the Butts school, were honored at the dinner in GMC's dining hall.

BRIEFCASE—It was the old campus revisited also for Georgia assistant Sterling Dupree, who is remembered here for swimming the nearby Oconee River here as a cadet. It was reunion for Quinton Lumpkin, resigned Georgia aide who came up from Jesup where he is in the lumber business with Hurley Jones, Sr. . . . The senior Jones was a high school football teammate of Johnny Mack Brown at Dothan, Ala. . . . Other Georgia staff members on hand were Ralph Jordan, Perron Shoemaker and Dan Edwards.

A small, select group of Milledgeville citizens, who several years ago organized what they called a Saturday Afternoon Quarterback Club, formed a nucleus for the new TD club. Leader and presiding Jere Moore, publisher of the local newspaper and a member of the State Board of Regents. Dr. Edwin Allen and Ed Robinson. A fourth member Charles Whitfield, is dead . . . Proudest guest of all were J. W. Butts, Sr., and W. C. Hartman, fathers of the two central figures . . . "No Auburn for me," says Sterling Dupree. "Even if I should be offered a job. I'm staying where I am."

Auburn Matmen Meet Vanderbilt

AUBURN, Ala., Feb. 16—Auburn's most powerful representatives, the varsity wrestlers and the freshman basketballers, will collide in a double-header with Vanderbilt and Alabama, respectively, Saturday night, in the Auburn sports arena, at 7:30.

Coach Swede Umbach's matmen go first for the Plainsmen, as they meet Vanderbilt for the second time this year. The Plainsmen won the first match in Nashville, 29-5.

THE SPORTS TRAIL

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, Feb. 16—(AP)—If you don't like kids, just skip this. It concerns Little League Baseball, for boys 12 years old or under, and we only wish it had been in operation some 40 or more years ago.

Those were the days when kids' baseball was about as organized as a riot. Sure, you remember them. The days when you kicked away the tin cans from a corner lot, chose up sides, with anywhere from four to 12 on a side, and were ready to go. When your baseball was a nickel "rocket" which soon became egg-shaped and eventually was covered with tire tape, and the game ended when the kid who owned the bat had to go home and sift ashes.

Anyway, the Little League is dressing up kids' baseball in top hat and tails, you might say, with the youngsters playing with first-class equipment, including uniforms in games conducted as efficiently as professional games.

The project is the brain-child of Carl E. Stotz of Williamsport, Pa., who in 1939 decided to do something for the kids who had no chance to play in regular games. His enthusiasm was catching, and that year, at Williamsport, the first league, of three teams, was organized. Today there are 2,034 teams in an undetermined number of leagues in 37 states.

Cappy Wells, retired Army colonel who, as public relations director at West Point a dozen or more years ago set a high standard for such work, is handling the publicity for the organization, and he sketched its operation for us briefly.

"Once a group has decided to form a league, or leagues," he explained, "A call is issued for candidates. Say they tell the boys to report at Elm and Maple Sts. at such-and-such a time. Anywhere from 100 to 1,000 kids might show up.

"The boys then undergo a month's training under the supervision of managers and coaches previously selected, and at the end of that time the lads who show sufficient ability are retained as league material.

"The teams are selected through bidding, to avoid one-sided competition. That is, each manager is allowed 36,000 points, and he can use these points to bid in players he wants. For instance, if he wants a certain pitcher he might have to bid so high he won't have many points left for other players. That's his lookout.

"It cost about $200 to equip a team, with team sponsors or civic groups or other organizations footing the bill. Leagues usually are made up of four or six teams, which play on slightly abbreviated fields, with the baselines shorter and the fences close enough so the kids can get the thrill of hitting home runs.

"Every safety precaution is taken. The batters must wear protective helmets, for one thing, and games are limited to six innings.

"It's truly American in spirit. A boy's background means nothing. All that is asked is: Can he hit? Can he field? And the games foster the truly democratic spinrit among the parents, bringing the rich and poor, the boss and the employe, together side-by-side in the grandstand, all with a common interest—to watch their sons play.

North Fulton Tops West Fulton, 66-58

Hapeville Trips Russell To Enter Fulton Finals

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

North Fulton's Bulldogs and Hapeville's Hornets, two high-geared quintets that have beaten each other once each this year, will battle for the Fulton County championship in the 1951 tournament finals at North Fulton's new basketball palace Saturday night.

Bill Bryce's host Bulldogs got even for a pair of one and two-point beatings the West Fulton Owls had administered by coming from behind to trim Coach Jack Hogg's five, 66-58, in one semifinal fray before a full house Friday night. Bill Campbell's Hornets shaded Charlie Aldridge's Russell quint, 59-57, despite a brilliant comeback by the losers.

Wade Mitchell, who is not yet 16 years old, exhibited the marvelous "finger-tip control" advertised by an auto firm to rack up 22 points for the Bulldogs and run his two-game tourney total to 50. Almost all of the nine fielders rung up by the six-two blond were tip-ins. He also dumped in four of five foul tries.

Brother Billy, other half of the Mitchell brothers combine, swished net for 15 counters, and Guard Tom Boden accounted for 13.

The Owls' sparkling Leroy Thompson zipped cord for 17 tallies, ten in a torrid third quarter, before fouling out as the fourth stanza started. Paul Martin hit for 15, including seven out of seven charity tosses. Tall Jackie Sexton hooped eight of ten free throws and totalled 12 points. Billy Driskell, a sawed-off jet job, sank four fielders from near mid-court in the first quarter and wound up with 11.

Hapeville forged ahead of Russell at 29-28 and never again was headed. But the Wildcats, who have lost three games to the Hornets by a total of ten points, were breathing on the winners' necks all through the late stages.

Bobby Peek, firing from close; Tommy Bentley, firing long, and Carlton Swicegood rang up 17, 16 and 11 that counted for the Hornets in their 23rd victory in 26 starts; Jimmy Holcomb, slim Russellite, took scoring honors at 18, and Billy Underwood was good for 14. Ronald Wilson, tallest of the smaller East Pointers, was good for 10 and did an exceptional job of hawking the ball off the backboards. Billy Moran, with 9, found the nets when the situation was most critical.

The lead swapped possession seven times in the Owl-Bulldog tracas, and the count was stalemated nine times, the last time at 54-54. When Thompson fouled out, the Owls were ahead at 51-49. When Sexton felt the referee's ax, the invaders had fallen behind, 56-54. Ed Hamilton and Wade Mitchell were hot Bulldogs in the fading stages, and their points sent the homelings winging to the final eight-point spread.

The game was rough as 50 fouls, 25 on each team, testify.

Russell out-field goaled Hapeville, 27-25, but the Hornets won at the foul line. They dumped in only nine of 20 efforts, but the Wildcats managed only three in 13 flips.

Russell and West Fulton will play for third place in Saturday's 7:30 curtain-raiser.

Hearn Shoots 77 In Players' Meet

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 16—New York Giant Pitcher Jim Hearn, of Atlanta, fired a 77 to tie for second place in the 18-hole qualifying round of the annual Baseball Players golf tournament here Friday.

Hearn was four strokes back of Medalist Ken Yount, Niagara Falls hurler. Bob Kennedy of the Cleveland Indians also had a 77, while Commissioner A. B. "Happy" Chandler soared to 82.

Calumet Entry Tops San Antonio

By BOB MYERS

ARCADIA, Calif., Feb. 16—(AP). The task will be difficult and the field large, but Coaltown and Ponder will be favored to change the racing luck of the famed Calumet stable at Santa Anita this year when the $50,000 San Antonio handicap is run Saturday.

The once mighty Coaltown, if he's right, or Ponder, who is overdue, could well tame the field. A third Calumet, All Blue, will get into the fray for sharpshooting duty if called on.

Seventeen candidates are entered in the mile and one-eighth feature, which often gives an excellent line on the chances of the rivals for the ensuing big race, the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap March 3.

Arrayed against Coaltown, Ponder and All Blue, unless bad weather sets in, will be:

Alfred G. Vanderbilt's filly, Next Move; William Goetz' Australian invader, Bernbrook; I. J. Collins' Vulcan's Forge; Clifford Moores' entry of Sudan and Mocopo; the King Ranch's Beau Max; Moonrush, racing for Miss Anita King and Gus Luellwitz; Frank Frankel's Franky, and Bullreigh, Jr., Vino Fino, Rupeluz, Last Round, Sturdy One and Be Fleet.

Southern Tech Triumphs, 67-60

Southern Tech, led by Charlie McDaniel, broke out of a tight Georgia Southwestern defense three minutes before the final whistle Friday night and toppled the visitors, 67-60.

McDaniel accounted for 22 of the winning points and split individual honors with Southwestern's Richard Johnson, who also tallied 22. Second place was also divided, Tech's Bubber Hodges and Southwestern's Mike Jenverino each grabbing 18.

Urzetta Defeats Delmar at Houston

Paul Brown Said Returning As Ohio State Grid Coach

Condensed From Constitution Wire Reports

National Amateur Champion Sam Urzetta of Rochester, N. Y., was still having troubles around the greens, but managed a 3-and-2 triumph over Jack Delmar of Houston and reached the quarter-final round of the Houston Country Club Invitational golf tournament Friday afternoon.

Sam is scheduled to play in a charity exhibition at North Fulton on April 1 before teeing off in his first Augusta Masters on April 5.

NBC Sportscaster Arthur J. (Dutch) Bergman said Friday night that Paul Brown, coach of the Cleveland Browns, will return to Ohio State as head football coach barring "a last-minute shift." He said six of the seven members of the Ohio State University Board of Trustees favored Brown.

Don Gehrmann, the invincible miler, will leave the mile to his "shadow," FBI flyer Fred Wilt and seek the 1,000-yard title in Saturday night's National AAU indoor track and field championships at Madison Square Garden.

Buddy Fowlkes, Georgia Tech ace, who won the National AAU broad jump title last year, will not defend hic crown due to a lame leg suffered in the recent Washington Evening Star indoor games.

Another baseball club is about to bite the dust. Hopewell of the Class D Virginia League voted to call it quits unless new support is found.

Outfielder Gene Woodling, Catcher Clint Courtney and Shortstop Jerry Snyder signed their New York Yankee baseball contracts Friday, bringing the total Yanks signed to 28.

Federal Judge W. J. Barker, of Tampa, Fla., ordered the $105,000 damage suit against Detroit Pitcher Art Houtteman set for March 14. Houtteman is now in the Army.

Stan Musial returned from an overseas Army tour and said he would get into a salary huddle with St. Louis Cardinal officials within 72 hours.

Don McNeill of Searingtown, N. Y., will start his bid for a second National Indoor Tennis Championship Saturday in New York. Keenest competition is expected from Billy Talbert, Vic Seixas. Fancy Nancy Chaffee of Ventura, Calif., is the No. 1 women's entry.

The Arkansas House approved a proposed racetrack for West Memphis, Ark.

Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt was sued for $50,000 damages by C. H. Jackson, Jr., and his wife, who claim the millionaire turfman sold them a broken-down racehorse. The horse was named Boner.

Oklahoma's Sooners will have the chance to pull another "giant-killing act" Saturday when they meet the redhot Kansas State quintet at Norman, Okla.

Columbia's undefeated basketeers will be out to clinch at least a tie for the Ivy League title when they meet Harvard Saturday night. The Lions have a 16-0 record, only undefeated major college team.

Dave Sands, Australian holder of the British Empire middleweight boxing championship, will defend his title against Randolph Turpin, British 160-pound king, in London next June.

Gov. Gordon Persons of Alabama was both praised and censured by Montgomery County's grand jury. He was praised for abolishing the lash in state prisons, but frowned on by the body for his stand on the Auburn football situation.

4 SEC Swim Marks Topped By Bulldogs

ATHENS, Feb. 16 — Georgia's swimming team bested four Southeastern Conference records in a 51-24 rout of Florida here Friday afternoon.

Coach Bump Gabrielsen did not swim three Georgia stars who were out with influenza: Co-captains

Georgia Tech's Jackets will play host to the Gators Saturday afternoon.

Bob Hirshberg, diver, and Hal Morris, breaststroker; and Aubrey Whelchel, free style sprints.

Georgia sophomore breaststroker Charley Guyer of Savannah did 2:29.6 for 200 yards to clip the SEC mark of 2:31.9 set by Tommy Towles of Georgia Tech in 1950. Georgia's Chuck Henninger, another soph, was a close runnerup and also bettered the old record. Guyer, in the 100 yard breaststroke leg of the medley relay, was clocked by three watches in in 1:02.0 to better the SEC record of 1:03.7 set last year by Georgia's Bill Volk.

Georgia's Charley Cooper of Augusta defeated the SEC 50 yard free style champion of the past two years, Florida's Lou Brown, in the fast time of 23.6 seconds, then came back to trounce Brown in the 100 yard free style in 53 seconds flat—better than the SEC mark of 53.6 set by LSU's Bob Percy in 1940.

The Bulldogs' 300-yard medley relay team of backstroker Charley Sligh of Athens, breaststroker Guyer and Free Styler Bill Fisch of Atlanta did 3:04.6 to beat the SEC mark of 3:07.3 set by Georgia Tech in 1949.

Cardinals Lick Browns in Court

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Feb. 16—(AP)—The Missouri Supreme Court ruled the St. Louis Cardinals can still play ball at Sportsman's Park in St. Louis.

A subsidiary of the St. Louis Browns owns the park. It had sought to evict the Cardinals, charging they had violated the terms of their lease by forming a new company when Fred Saigh became the owner of the National League club in 1948.

But the St. Louis Circuit Court ruled against the Browns and the Supreme Court agreed with the lower court ruling.

Miller Quits At Niagara

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Feb. 16—(AP)—James H. (Jim) Miller, head football coach at Niagara University since 1949, resigned Friday.

Miller gave no specific reasons for his resignation and said he has no plans for the immediate future. The resignation is effective when his contract expires March 31.

The Niagara team under Miller won six and lost three last season, setting an all-time scoring record of 179 points for the University.

Miller, whose home is in Massillon, Ohio, began his football career as a player under Paul Brown, now coach of the Cleveland Browns, on the Massillon High school team.

He went to Purdue as a guard and was captain of the Purdue team in his senior year, 1942.

After serving in the Navy during World War II he coached at Wabash College, Wabash, Ohio, before coming to Niagara in 1949.

Indiana Signs K-State Coach

MANHATTAN, Kas., Feb. 16—(AP)—Bob White, former assistant football coach at Kansas State, has accepted the job of backfield mentor at Indiana University, at Bloomington.

White said Friday he will report at Indiana March 1. He left his job as K-State backfield coach when head coach Ralph Graham resigned last season. He came here last year from Catholic high school in Joliet, Ill. He played at Indiana under Bo McMillin.

Catcher Mueller Signs Buc Pact

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 16—(AP)—Ray Mueller, 38-year-old veteran National League catcher, signed a 1951 contract with the Pittsburgh Pirates Friday, the 20th Buc to sign.

Mueller batted .257 last year and caught in 67 games for the Pirates after coming from the New York Giants in midseason.

Right-handed pitcher Con Dempsey, who was purchased conditionally from the Pacific Coast League San Francisco Seals, also sent in his signed contract Friday. The Bucs have 30 days from the league-opening date to decide if it wants to keep Dempsey.

Ex-Cracker Reid Signs With Vols

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 16—(AP)—Bob Reid, slugging first baseman, formerly an Atlanta Cracker has signed as a free agent with the Southern Association Nashville Vols, General Manager Larry Gilbert said Friday.

Reid, 30, played most of last season with Richmond of the Piedmont League. In six years in the Southern, he clouted 75 homers and in two seasons exceeded 100 rbis.

VOTE DEADLOCKED

Griffith Predicts Chandler Victory

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—(AP)—Clark Griffith said Friday that if Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler isn't reelected "there won't be another commissioner for a long time."

The Washington Nats' president based his prediction on the belief that nobody other than Chandler will be able to get the necessary 12 votes from the major league owners at their March 12 meeting in Miami.

The leader of the pro-Chandler forces in baseball's squabble said "there are about 10 names on the list" for commissioner. "But," he added, "when the showdown comes there won't be anybody" but Chandler.

"I'm sticking by Chandler and I'm sure he's going to get at least the necessary 12 votes."

However, Griff added, if Happy doesn't neither will anybody else.

Griffith also labelled the current campaign to name Ex-Postmaster General Jim Farley to the post as a lot of "propaganda."

Reports that Farley was in line for the post followed those that had three-time Governor Frank Lausche of Ohio in the driver's seat.

"The fellow from Ohio and Farley are both on the list of prospects the committee to select candidates submitted," he said. He expressed the view that "somebody" is trotting the names out one by one "to try them out on the public."

"Propaganda," he glowered, "it's just propaganda."

He said he's convinced there isn't a "strong man" in the nation who would take the post as long as five "disgruntled" owners could kick him out of office.

Griff recalled that on more than one occasion most everybody was sore at the late Kenesaw Mountain Landis, Chandler's predecessor. "But we didn't try to fire him," Griff said.

Crowe Named Ottawa Coach

OTTAWA, Feb. 16—(AP)—Clem Crowe, former coach of the Baltimore Colts and Buffalo Bills and a one-time Notre Dame star, has been signed to coach the Ottawa Rough Riders for the 1951 Big Four football season.

The club said Crowe will visit Ottawa next week to discuss plans for the coming season. He then will return to the U. S. to scout talent. He is expected to sign at least seven Americans.

Cage Game Cancelled

BELOIT, Wis., Feb. 16—(AP)—The Midwest Conference basketball game between Beloit College and Cornell of Mt. Vernon, Iowa, scheduled for Friday night, has been postponed due to transportation difficulties.

That's Some Sugar, Ray

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 16—(AP). A group of Newark promoters Friday offered light heavyweight champion Joey Maxim and newly-crowned middle-weight champ Ray Robinson a joint purse of $125,000 for a light heavyweight title bout.

The fighters could split the guarantee any way they want, the promoters said. The bout would be staged in June at either the Newark or Jersey City ballpark of the former International League teams.

Willie Gilzenberg, spokesman for the group, also said he had a written pledge from Jack Kearns Maxim's manager to let Gilzenberg promote Maxim's first United States defense of the title he won from Freddie Mills in England last year.

The money would be guaranteed by a New York tax consultant, a neighbor of Gilzenberg's at rural Lake Hiawatha, N. J., who declined use of his name. The money man added, however, that he would back up any sums Gilzensberg announced.

Campbell, Seminary Score in 3-A Tourney

By ROSS STEMER

Campbell High and Washington Seminary took hard-earned victories Friday night to keep their hopes alive in the Region 3-A girls' basketball tournament at Druid Hills.

Tiny Georgia Mae Mowell led the Fairburn team to its 29-24 win over a scrappy Fulton sextette. The Bear forward had 16 points, eight of them coming in the last quarter when her team roared from a four-point deficit into the lead.

The Redbirds put up a game battle against the first-seeded team and led 23-22 midway in the last stanza.

Betty Black topped the losers' efforts with 13 points.

Washington Seminary topped Southwest DeKalb in a low scoring duel, 22-17. The Sems beat the Panthers, 36-27, in an earlier round of the tourney but the losers were in this one until the final whistle.

Louisa Allen looped in 11 points for the winners while Barbara Stubbs had nine for the losers.

The losses eliminate Southwest and Fulton, while once-beaten Seminary and Campbell will tangle Saturday at 7:30 p. m. to see who will remain

Defending champion Newton County will oppose Druid Hills, winners' bracket shrdlu e&hvdth winners of the DeKalb County tournament, in a winners' bracket game at 9 p. m. Saturday. Both these teams are still unbeaten in the tourney and a defeat will not eliminate them but will move them down to the losers' bracket.

Kukla Show Poll Lists Varied Views

By PAUL JONES

Kukla, Fran and Ollie always have impressed us as a subtle little show, designed to appeal to mature audiences—not children.

But, a man on the street poll, conducted the other day, showed conclusively that they have a general appeal among children.

Women, as a rule, do not follow the show as closely as do men. For, out of three women interviewed, not one could be classified as a K-F&O fan. Misses Betty Jo Holcomb said, "I have never seen it and from what I have heard I do not want to see it."

Miss Gwendlyn Herod: "That's too early for me. I don't care about seeing it anyway." And Miss Bette Deel said she "tried looking at it a couple of times, but turned it out after a few minutes."

E. H. Hood thinks it "is a pretty cute show." Fred Willis said he "had to look at it five days in a row" before he liked it. Willis said his child cried whenever he tuned out Kukla and his playmates. Austin Abbott, an avid teevee fan, said, "It's terrible."

C. B. Owen said "It is child stuff. My children look at it, but not me." and J. J. Owen remarked, "It's too young for me."

The fact that a national dairy which features ice cream pulled out as sponsor of this show should indicate it is not a children's program.

One way to enjoy Kukla, Fran and Ollie is to compare Oliver to Andy, of Amos and Andy—the blustering blow-hard who is constantly putting his foot in his mouth, and Kukla to Amos, the kind-hearted, busom pal who is constantly getting his big-mouth pal out of trouble.

But for me, I can't imagine anyone watching Mickey Mouse on the movie screen and then turning thumbs down on K-F&O.

3 Tax Hikes From 1949 On Way Out

Wine, Cigarette Beer Cuts Okayed

Three more "emergency" tax hikes of 1949 were on their way out Friday, as the Legislature adjourned.

The solons voted to cut the tax on domestic wine to 50 cents a gallon. They decided to let the two-cents a package tax on cigarettes and two-cents a bottle tax on beer die a natural death June 30—the date already set for their expiration.

The "emergency" increase had raised the wine tax $1. The Senate wanted to cut it to 25 cents, but the House stood firm to return it to its original tax of 50 cents.

The dispute over allowances for dealers to attach tax stamps on cigarettes tied this repeal bill up in conference committee, and the Legislature agreed to let it expire naturally in June.

PICK UP GRAPH BEGINNING THE HOUSE PASSED AND SENT TO GOVERNOR:

The House passed and sent to the Governor measures:

(1) Giving lifetime drivers licenses to veterans of the Korean fighting.

(2) Creating a merit system for the Comptrollers General Office.

(3) Amending Teacher Retirement Act.

(4) Affecting sinking fund of State Parks Authority.

(5) Affecting contracts of the State Parks department.

(6) Making communications to ministers privileged.

(7) Permitting the state to recover assistance paid old age recipients if children are able to support them.

(8) Allowing State to take liens on property of welfare recipients in excess of $250.

(9) Outlawing the placing of handbills in automobiles.

The House adopted a resolution creating a joint House-Senate committee to visit school systems in other states with a view of bettering Georgia's system.

The Senate passed and sent to the Governor measures:

(1) Creating a building authority with power to issue up to $3,000,000 in bonds for improvements at the State Academy for the Blind at Macon and the School for the Deaf at Cave Spring.

(2) Making penalty for voluntary manslaughter one to five years.

(3) Authorizing special automobile tags for ham radio operators.

(4) Giving tax collectors and commissioners a fee of 10 percent on the last 20 percent of taxes they collect instead of the last 10 percent.

(5) Paying court reporters for every day of criminal court session instead of days when felony cases are recorded.

(6) Prevent eating places from using cracked dishes.

(7) Putting $70-a-month salary floor on county school superintendents and authorizing them to employ office help.

(8) Pay clerks an extra $10 a day when they revise jury lists at the request of the grand juries.

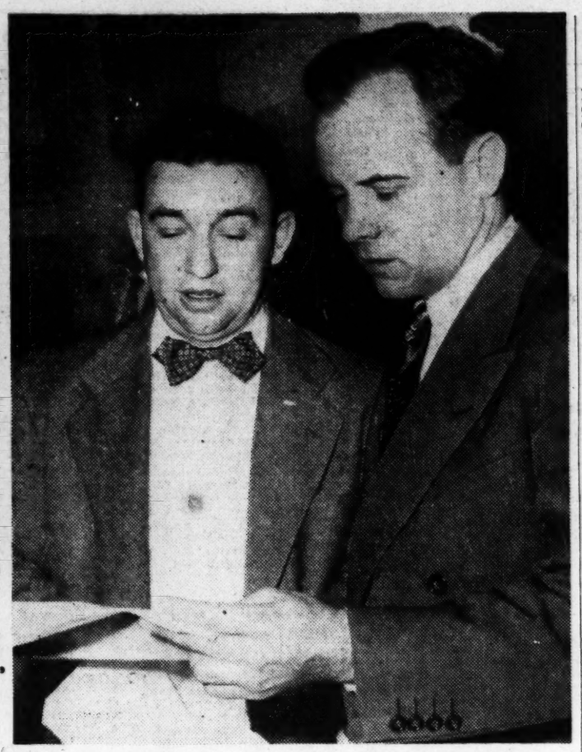

(9) Setting up an Agriculture Commodities Authority to do research and advertising for farm products.

(10) Empowering the Director of the State Forestry Commission to prevent the burning of land, woods, and marshes during droughts.

Senate and House as the 6 p. m. deadline neared. Shortly after the actual hour of 6 p. m. passed, the conferees reached an agreement. However, the House turned thumbs down on the trolley fare exemption.

Atlanta solons led the futile fight for the trolley fare exemptions. Sen. Everett Millican spoke for it in the Senate, and Reps. Muggsy Smith and Hoke Smith argued for it in the House. Rep. Harry Dicus of Columbus (home town of Leland Anderson, president of Atlanta Transit Company), and Rep. Charlie Gowen of Glynn County, successfully opposed it.

Obviously weary, the three Senators and three House members of the conference committee twice were reappointed to serve after the House and Senate failed to agree. Representing the House were Reps. Phil Campbell of Oconee County, Jack Ray of Warren, and William H. Key of Jasper. Senate conferees were Sens. Guy Connell of Valdosta, Spence Grayson of Savannah, and Grady Rawls of Albany.

The Senate went into executive session several times to consider the House's action. Finally, the Senate decided, 37 to 0, to recede from al disputed amendments. A cheer went up in the House when this was announced, and the House immediately adjourned. The Senate stayed in session a few minutes to present Lt. Gov. Marvin Griffin a gift.

Closing it work in 40 days, the Legislature saved back 30 days for its "hold-over" session next January.

CONFEREE—Rep. William Key, of Jasper County, was the third House member of the Senate-House conference committee on the sales tax.

TROOPS

supposing that the United States would not, in any event short of actual war, be asked to provide troops to serve in Europe. This was the year in which the Senate approved the North Atlantic "one for all and all for one" defensive treaty, under which troops are now to be sent.

Sec. Acheson conceded that his view of that period would have led him to predict that certainly no "substantial" troop requirement would be made of this country, and that in this he would have been "wrong." In the intervening time, he said, the Russians had become far more aggressive than forecast.

He asserted, however, that when, in 1949, he returned "a clear and absolute no" to a question on the point, he had thought the inquiry referred to the relatively narrow proposition as to whether the treaty laid an absolute troop obligation, or commitment, on the United States. This, he added, it did not do then, or now.

In giving this "clear and absolute no," he added, he had not thought he was answering a question as to whether the United States ever would in fact find it desirable and necessary to dispatch troops.

Speaking as the highest American military officer, Gen. Bradley indicated that if the time came when the commitment of "a few more" American divisions, together with forces raised in Europe, actually could create "a complete deterrent," he would not hesitate to recommend their dispatch.

He made it clear, however, that barring this hoped-far state of affairs, or alternatively a great turn for the worse, the present plan for sending four new divisions, to stand with two already in Europe, was firm for the foreseeable future.

Indeed, he said, he would in no case want to commit more than these four unless he thought the Europeans themselves were "doing enough" so that altogether the west was being "effective" in its one design—to stay the Russians from invasion.

He emphasized, too, that the American troop commitment to Europe conceivably could go down, as well as up, and that it was possible that conditions later would permit a withdrawal of some of the force rather than an addition to it.

Finally, he disclosed that even the movement of the four divisions—involving some 100,000 men with their supporting units—would not, so far as he was concerned, be undertaken in bulk and all at once.

Their assignment abroad should be on a "staggered" basis, he said, so that General of the Army Eisenhower, the supreme allied commander for Europe, would be able progressively to bring them into the field as the Europeans put in new detachments of their own.

Sec. Acheson and Gen. Bradley came out strongly, as General of the Army Marshall, the secretary of defense, had done, against any congressional limitation on the size of the ground forces that should be committed to Europe.

Anything of this sort, they asserted, would greatly handicap the whole enterprise by introducing a delay-making inflexibility.

STALIN

and that the threat of war has grown more dangerous in the more than two years since he made his January, 1949, statement in reply to questions submitted by British Correspondent Kingsbury Smith.

He declared his belief that in the United States, Britain and France "there are aggressive forces which are thirsting for a new world war," and he said that these forces were in control of the governments of those countries.

Premier Stalin struck hard at what he characterized as a campaign to "entangle peoples with a lie, to deceive them and to present a new war as a defensive war."

Despite this campaign, Stalin declared, "peace will be preserved and strengthened if the peoples take the cause of preservation of peace into their hands and defend it to the end."

In effect, Stalin presented an appeal to the peoples of the western world, particularly of the United States, Britain, France and members of the North Atlantic Pact to resist policies which, in his view, are leading toward war.

The generalissimo emphasized that the Soviet Union was placing great faith in the campaign, as he phrased it, to "expose the criminal machinations of the instigators of war." He said this campaign was "of primary importance," and in effect his Friday night's declaration was designed to exactly that end. He declared that the Soviet Union would continue "in the future too to conduct an unshakeable policy of prevention of war and preservation of peace."

Stalin's most bitter language was reserved for his discussion of the United Nations. He called the Chinese action "a disgraceful decision" and that "the United Nations, created as a bulwark for the preservation of peace, is being turned into a weapon of war, a means of starting a new world war."

WAGES

pressed by Johnston, and labor does not want to see that happen, either.

The withdrawal of the three labor members from the Wage Board was designed to dramatize dissatisfaction of major labor organizations with subordinate roles they have been given in mobilization and the "inequality of sacrifice," as they term it.

They declared in a manifesto that the protest against the wage formula "is not a question of an isolated incident. Our decision here cannot and must not be interpreted merely as a protest against an unfair and unworkable wage formula which is now being imposed. That formula culminated a whole series of shocking developments which we find insupportable."

The Wage Board was the only place in government where labor leaders could stage a walkout and dramatize it. They chose an issue which can command more rank-and-file support than any other on their list.

The United Labor Policy Committee's manifesto covered seven complaints, wages, prices, rent control, taxes, manpower, small business, and participation in government. The dagger-point relationship with Mobilization Director Wilson was expressed in the last.

"So far," said the statement, "virtually the entire defense mobilization program has been entrusted to the hands of a few men recruited from big business who believe they have a monopoly on experience, good ideas and patriotism. Not a single policy decision so far has reflected in any way the recommendations of labor or any other group except big business. In many decisions, the considered recommendations of labor have been totally and arbitrarily disregarded."

John L. Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers, bestowed praise on the other labor leaders "for the superb courage they have exhibited in resisting the proposed imposition upon free American labor of an unjustifiable and oppressive wage formula."

Lewis' gratuitous compliment added gall to the vexation of the United Labor Policy Committee members. They are convinced Wilson has been taking his labor policy advice from the miners' chief.

Lewis's statement blandly called attention to wage gains of his own united mine workers. "In equity and good conscience," he said, "all American workers are entitled to receive at least the same comparative wage improvements from the base of January, 1950, that have been negotiated and made effective in the anthracite and bituminous coal industry by the United Mine Workers of America in the same period.

"The attempt of the public and industry members of the Wage Stabilization Board to restrict American labor to a miserable 10 per cent increase in wages from the January, 1950, base is an unwise, arbitrary action which imposes injustice upon the majority segment of the populations, is destructive of confidence and disrupting to the productive economy."

Lewis obviously was saying that his miners have received increases of more than 20 per cent since the base period of January, 1950, a fact of which other labor leaders are painfully aware.

The public members of the wage board, however, have taken the position that the miners' increase in March, 1950, was an "abnormality" in that it was a long-delayed 1949 increase. By that reasoning, the miners' wage boost since the base period—$1.60 a day effective on Feb. 1—was a little less than 10 per cent. That calculation would be a vital point to the miners if their next wage increase required government approval.

Wilson was reported by associates to be deeply concerned and somewhat discouraged by the labor members' withdrawal from the Wage Board.

Johnston, who has a flair for the role of conciliator, has considerable room to move around in without disturbing the wage formula. The labor leaders, for example, want a Disputes Board established comparable to the old War Labor Board. Such a board would not only make wage policy but would rule on specific labor-management disputes involving not only wages but other issues.

Smyrna Vows Housing Aid For Lockheed

The mayor of Smyrna has notified the head of the Lockheed Aircraft Corporation that Smyrna already has taken steps to provide housing and other facilities for use of personnel at the Marietta bomber plant.

Mayor J. M. "Hoot" Gibson wrote a letter to Robert Gross, president of Lockheed Aircraft Corporation, assuring him of the city's "full co-operation in your new permanent manufacturing plant in Cobb County."

He wrote the letter in reply to a charge that real estate prices in the bomber plant area were being hiked unreasonably.

"At no time . . . has anyone connected with your organization approached me or any of the City officials," Gibson wrote, "with respect to the housing and other facilities which might be offered by the City of Smyrna."

Gibson said two pieces of property had been annexed to the city affording 742 houses.

TAX PRIMER

Farm Income Returns Need Special Care

This is the last in a series of articles on your U. S. income tax.

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 — (AP). Making out an income-tax return on a farm business is often complicated.

Many farmers will want the help of a person familiar with the law on taxing farm income. If the help of a collector's office is not readily available, then a county agent, banker of other reputable advisor may be able to assist.

Information about the farm business should be carefully collected in advance of filling out the return. This includes various kinds of farm income or profit, along with deductible farm expenses and other allowable deductions and exemptions.

Farmers have many expenses which can be deducted to reduce their taxable income. Among them are costs of purchased feed, farm machinery repairs, small tools which have a short life, fuel and oil used for farm work. Also deductible are costs of hiring laborers and machines, of board for laborers and of wages to domestic workers to the extent they are necessary to serve the farm laborers.

The farmer can deduct rent paid for pasture land, crop land and farm buildings. Also the cost of sprays and other materials for insect and disease control, various purchased seeds and plants, and insurance premiums on farm work buildings, livestock and crops.

The farmer can deduct fees paid for breeding, livestock registration and transfer, exhibition of animals and sheep shearing. He also can deduct farm organization dues, interest paid on notes and real estate mortages, various state and county taxes and the cost of travel on farm business.

The loss, in a storm or accident, of livestock purchased by the farmer can be deducted. The loss of livestock raised by the farmer is not allowed unless the farmer uses his inventories to show his income.

The tax law does not allow deduction for losses for raised livestock on the grounds that the taxpayer cannot claim a loss of profits that are only anticipated. For the same reason, deduction of the loss of crops is not allowed except as shown in the inventory method of reporting income.

Farmers who employ the cash method of accounting must use the special Form 1040-F, along with form 1040, in making out returns. On 1040-F they put down their various kinds of income and expenses and figure their net profit.

Then the amount of the net profit as shown on Form 1040-F is entered in Schedule C, page 2 of form 1040. Then Form 1040 is filled out and the amount of tax determined.

Farmers who use the inventory system of accounting may use either Form 1040-F or Scheduled C to show net profits or loss. However, 1040-F has a convenient schedule for reporting inventories and for listing deductions.

Many farmers will want to look into the special provisions for reporting income from the sale of timber, livestock, real estate and depreciable property. These are complicated and some farmers will want help in figuring them out.

N. C. Airfield To Open

Program for Handicapped Reports Good Progress

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—(UP)—The Federal Security Agency said Friday the mighty job of putting the nation's 2,000,000 physically handicapped persons on a self-supporting basis was making big strides, but not big enough.

Reporting to President Truman on vocational rehabilitation achievements in 1950, FSA Administrator Oscar Ewing said a record 71,543 handicapped were placed in jobs and 59,597 became self-sustaining. The other 11,946 are "under observation" and have a good chance of coming through.

The handicapped are men and women who have lost arms or legs, are blind or partially blind, or suffer other afflictions which, without a helping hand, might make them public charges.

Ewing said the 1950 record was the third in a row, but "only a fraction" of the number requiring help is getting it. He held out hope thousands more would find jobs in the defense program.

He said that in the past seven years 335,000 men and women had been trained and placed in self-supporting jobs as against only 210,000 in the preceding 23 years. As to the over-all task, he said it must be remembered that every year 250,000 others join the handicapped ranks.

He said surveys showed that during their working lives those rehabilitated will repay $10 in taxes for every Federal dollar spent on them and will be paying state and local taxes as well.

Two Pins Removed From 'Ailing' Child

LANCASTER, Pa., Feb. 16. (AP)—Doctors couldn't find what ailed seven-month-old Joseph Goss, of nearby Columbia, for two months—not until they ordered X-rays of him from head to toe.

The pictures showed two open safety pins—each an inch and a quarter long—lodged in Joseph's esophagus, the tube leading from the throat to the stomach.

Doctors removed both pins in an operation Thursday night. The child's parents had no idea how, where or when Joseph swallowed the pins. His condition is fair.

2-Term Limitation Asked for President

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 16. (AP)—The Tennessee House Friday adopted and sent to the Senate a resolution ratifying an amendment to the Federal Constitution to limit the President to two terms.

The vote was 64 to 14 after a hot, hour-long debate.

Civil Defense Volunteers Still Accepted

The four-day registration of volunteers for civil defense at schools in Atlanta, Fulton and DeKalb Counties ended Friday night—but civil defense leaders stressed individuals could continue to register at the main office on the Courtland Street side of the Municipal Auditorium.

"Registration at the schools was only the beginning," Mrs. Emmett Quinn, secretary of the volunteer office, pointed out.

Mrs. Quinn said civil defense headquarters would be open from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. each day for registration.

She said about 2,000 persons were known definitely to have registered during the past week—but she emphasized that many more cards still were unreported. Although response to the call for volunteers was not as great as expected, Mrs. Quinn expressed appreciation to those persons who did register. She said many of them were experienced and would be extremely valuable to the civil defense program.

Zone directors from four counties will meet at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday to make plans for training volunteers who registered.

Gain in Bank Clearings Here 5th in Nation

Business activity in the Atlanta area continues to roll along at a rate well in excess of the average for the country as a whole.

The latest indication of this situation is the weekly report of Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., on bank clearings.

SAFETY AWARD — Otis Elevator employees here have won a national safety award. J. Horacek (left), Atlanta Zone manager for Otis, hands plaque to T. E. Daniels, Otis Construction Manager.

For the week ended Thursday, this report shows bank clearings here reached a volume of $272,300,000, up 27.7 percent over the $213,200,000 volume of the same week of 1950. In the 25 leading cities of the United States, the rate of increase for the same period was only 19.4 percent.

During that week, Atlanta was fifth on the list of American cities. The four leading cities were: San Francisco, with 36.9 percent; Omaha, with 29.4 percent; Boston, with 29.3 percent, and Richmond, with 29.2 percent. New York City reported an increase of only 17.5 percent.

The same economic phenomenon prevailed in all the 13 major trade centers of Georgia during January, 1951, the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta also reported. In these cities for that month the volume of check withdrawals from individual bank accounts was 37 percent greater than for Jan., 1950.

The FRB says that these increases were distributed over the State as follows: Gainesville, 67 percent; Columbus, 42 percent; Albany, Augusta, Brunswick and Savannah, 39 percent each; Newnan, 38 percent; Atlanta, Macon and Rome, 37 percent each; Elberton, 28 percent; Griffin, 25 percent, and Valdosta, 20 percent.

The total volume of bank debits at these 13 Georgia trade centers during Jan., 1951, was $1,646,421,000. This is a 37 percent increase over the $1,199 584,000 volume reported for Jan., 1950.

Railway Progress

The Southern Railway System is spending millions of dollars to improve its yard and other facilities and also has contracted for 2,000 new boxcars, to cost $10,000,000, and 100 new Diesel locomotive units, to cost $17,000,000, Ernest E. Norris, of Washington, President of the System, said here Friday.

Norris came to Atlanta on an inspection trip and also to make calls of the Southern's friends and shippers. He was accompanied by Harry A. DeButts, Vice President in Charge of Operations, and B. E. Young, Assistant to the President, both of Washington.

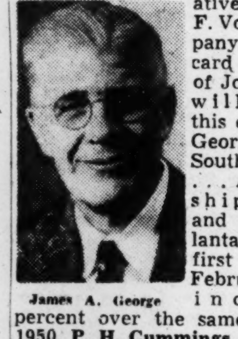

Housing Project

The Atomic Energy Commission announced Friday in Washington the Federal Government will lift credit restrictions so as to enable the building of 500 privately-financed housing units in the Savannah River atomic site area.

Walter J. Williams, AEC Deputy General Manager, told a Committee of Congress the Commission "is counting on free enterprise to supply housing for its personnel to the maximum feasible extent."

Contract Let At $600,000 By Pipe Line

Charles R. Younts of Atlanta, president of the Plantation Pipe Line Company, now engaged upon a $52,000,000 expansion program, announced Wednesday the award of a $600,000 contract to the Westinghouse Electric Corporation for electrical equipment necessary to the expansion of the system.

Under this contract, Westinghouse will provide for the switchgear, motor starters, control centers and ventilating fans for the Plantation Company, the world's largest pipe line for refined petroleum products.

Younts said the expansion, when completed, will boost the system capacity from 100,000 barrels to 167,000 barrels a day. It operates from Baton Rouge, La., to Greensboro, N. C. The expansion program is scheduled for completion late this year.

Plantation Pipe Line is a common carrier operating under regulations of the Interstate Commerce Commission and is jointly operated by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, the Standard Oil Company (Kentucky) and the Shell Oil Company.

Lower Interest Returns Hit Thrifty Man's Purse

By WELLINGTON WRIGHT

The man who saves his money for a rainy day is the "forgotten man" of our times, according to the latest record of the make-up of the personal income dollar in this country.

And from the record, based upon the latest official figures, the financial plight of this man, usually regarded as the "backbone" of any stable, economic society, is getting worse instead of better. In fact, if the present trend continues, economists fear that he stands in danger of a disaster which may gravely affect the economic welfare of the country.

All this is happening at a time when the main sectors of our $300-billion-a-year national economy is in the midst of a boom hitherto unknown in the history of the U. S. But the interest return on invested savings, the money laid aside for a rainy day and, incidentally, the money which is the base for most new capital expansion in the country, is still on the downgrade.

A table prepared by the Institute of Life Insurance tells the story of this "forgotten man" from 1929 through 1950. Thus, in 1929, the total dollar volume of the interest return on invested savings (which consists of rentals, dividends and personal interest income) was 22 percent of the total dollar volume of national personal income. In other words, out of a total national personal income of 85 billion dollars in 1929, more than 19 billion dollars represented the interest return on personal savings.

But the declining trend in interest rates since 1929 have written a different story for the "forgotten man" in 1950. For in that year, his interest return on his invested savings had dropped to only 12 percent of the total national personal income. In short, out of a national personal income investment of more than 222 billions of dollars, the interest return on invested savings amounted to only 26 billions of dollars, or 12 percent of the total.

And, meanwhile, what is happening to the purchasing power of these dollars? The National Industrial Conference Board, of New York City, has just completed a survey which answers that question:

"A married man with two children, or other dependents, who earned $2,000 in 1940 would have to earn 72 percent more today, or $3,437, to end up with purchasing power equal to $2,000 in 1940. The depreciation of the dollar accounted in good part for this rise, since the rise in income taxes is small in this case.

"Taxes take a bigger bite at the higher income levels. A man earning $5,000 in 1940 would have to earn 87 percent more today, or $9,367, to purchase the same amount of goods as in 1940. A man with a $25,000 salary in 1940 must in 1951 earn $59,126, or more than twice as much, to offset the current high tax rate and the inflation in prices."

What has happened to bring all this about?

All economists, and most bankers, say that the "forgotten man" is the victim of the policy of the U. S, Treasury Department to create an artifically low interest rate on U. S. Government bonds. At present that rate is 2½ percent and the Secretary of the Treasury has announced an intention to keep it at that for an indefinite time.

However, the Secretary of the Treasury is giving the holders of Series "E" Savings bonds a break by offering them an opportunity to hold on to them for another 10 years at the same 2.9 percent interest rate. These will begin to come due in May and in each month thereafter for the next 10 years.

Under the new plan a bond bought for $75 in May, 1941, will be worth $100 in May,-1951, and $133.33 in May, 1961.

But, until interest rates in this country follow the higher trends in every other line of business, the economists can see no hope for the "forgotten man." They say he is just out of luck!

Arnovitz Buys Store Center

M. Arnovitz, Atlanta investor, has bought the 13-story Twin Oaks Shopping Center, Inc., located near Avondale Estates, for a price estimated around $250,000.

The seller was Twin Oaks, Inc., which also owns the nearby $2,000,000 Twin Oaks apartment project. The shopping center was built two years ago to service the 244 families now occupying the Twin Oaks apartments.

Negotiations for the sale were handled by Joseph Kopp, representing Weyman & Company, realtors. Financing arrangements were by John S. Schneider, of the mortgage loan department of D. L. Stokes and Company.

The shopping center is at 3457-3495 East College avenue and occupies a space 230 by 410 feet.

U. S. Exchanges Close For Holiday Thursday

NEW YORK, Feb. 16—(AP)—Financial and Commodity Exchanges throughout the United States will be closed Thursday, Feb. 22, Washington's birthday. Livestock reports will be issued as usual by the Dept. of Agriculture.

The Winnipeg Grain Exchange and Canadian and London Stock markets will be open for trading.

Drygoods

NEW YORK, Feb. 16—(AP)—The cotton textile market was steady Friday. Most mills were still withdrawn and awaited action on the raw cotton ceiling. Scattered sales of print cloths, sheetings and other constructions were reported by one mill for third quarter delivery to regular customers.

The strike of woolen and worsted mill workers highlighted developments in the wool goods market. About 160 mills were affected by the strike over the question of wages. Dealers thought that if the strike continues very long the government will step in because of the large volume of military orders at stake.

Higher Phone Rates Sought In Mississippi

An Atlanta official of the Southern Bell Telephone Co., testifying in Jackson, Miss., in support of a petition by the company for a $2,400,000 raise in telephone rates, said Friday that deterioration of Bell System's credit since 1948 makes necessary a higher return on its investment in Mississippi.

R. R. Stubbs, assistant vice-president in the company's finance department, told the Mississippi Public Service Commission the firm now needs a 7.25 percent return on its total investment in the state. That investment is figured at $35,000,000.

The proposed increase in rates would bring the company's earnings in Mississippi to the 7.25 percent level. Stubbs said. He explained that credit deterioration and an increase in operating risks forced the company to raise its earnings rate from six and two-thirds percent—the figure requested when Southern Bell received its last rate increase in Mississippi in 1948.

Carter Readies Expansion

NEW YORK, Feb. 16—(AP)—The William Carter Company's program to double facilities at its Forsyth Ga.. plant will be completed next week, the company announced Friday.

And at nearby Barnesville, the size of the firm's wash and bleach house has been doubled and the testing laboratory enlarged.

The projects are included in the 86-year-old underwear concern's extensive improvement plan. Home offices are in Needham Heights, Mass.

Canadians Study Ways Of McNeel Memorials

R. C. A. Grant and E. N. Davis, of Toronto, owners of a Canadian monument company, visited Marietta to inspect the manufacturing and sales methods of McNeel Memorials.

The Canadian visitors said industry leaders both in the United States and in Canada recommended the Marietta firm to them for inspection and study.

Coffee Market

NEW YORK, Feb. 16—(AP)—Santos coffee futures were irregular in slow dealings Friday. Lack of activity in green coffee curbed interest in futures.

Only small sales were reported in green coffee, although the undertone was steady, partly on the fact that the Army bought about double the amount of coffee originally sought against its latest inquiry.

Coffee spot Santos No. 4 closed at 55.50n. Cost and freight offerings include Santos Bourbons 3s at 54.80-55.35a and 5s 53.55-54.10a.

Alexander Fund Rises To $1,453,000

Collection of $1,453,000 for the Alexander Memorial Fund was announced Friday as workers for the Alexander Memorial Building at Georgia Tech met for their final meeting the the Capital City Club.

Officials expressed belief the remaining $47,000 would be raised to complete the $1,500,000 goal by March 1.

Earlier this week Campaign Chairman John C. Koch said an additional $100,000 must be raised to allow for "shrinkage" and inflation, but this point was not discussed at Friday's meeting. Georgia Tech President Blake Van Leer expressed belief the Government would allow construction of the building as an aid to ROTC training at that institution.

The remaining $1,000,000 cost of the building will be defrayed by the Georgia Tech Athletic Association through self-liquidating bonds.

Policeman Hits Release Of Burglars

2 Served 30 Days Of 18-Month Term

An East Point police captain Saturday protested to the Fulton County Grand Jury the release of two men on probation after they allegedly served only 30 days of an 18 months sentence for burglary.

Capt. E. M. Blount made his protest in a letter addressed to Claude Mason, Jr., foreman of the grand jury and another to the editor of The Atlanta Constitution.

Blount said the two who pleaded guilty to charges of taking more than $3,800 from the King Jewelry Co. in East Point last December were sentenced Jan. 12. He added they were released Feb. 12.

The two—Buster Fulton and Joe Swann—were apprehended after three days of intense police work, Blount related. He said officers recovered $3,860 worth of jewelry following the arrests.

Swann was held for burglary, Blount said, while Fulton was charged as an accessory before and after the fact. He said both entered pleas of guilty when the charges were reduced from a felony to a misdemeanor and were sentenced to 12 months in prison and six months in jail.

Blount also said the man whose name appeared as reference on the release papers was indicted last year on charges of receiving stolen goods. He added the indictment later was dropped.

"This isn't the first time this has happened," Blount declared.

E. D. Ridley Gets 2 Years At Chatsworth

Constitution State News Service

CHATSWORTH, Feb. 16—E. D. Ridley, 26, was sentenced to two years in prison here Friday in the October 1949, death of Basil Cox, of Dalton. He was found guilty—for the second time—of involuntary manslaughter.

Ridley and his brother Murphey were tried in December of 1949 for the alleged beating death. Murphey was acquitted and E. D. drew a 5-10 sentence at the first trial.

Witnesses said Cox had been drinking when he got into an argument with Murphey Ridley at Ridley's Drive-In and that when the dispute developed into a fight, E. D. Ridley joined in to help his brother.

Witness Ed Quinton said he carried Cox, unconscious, to Dalton for medical attention and that a nurse pronounced Cox dead on arrival at a hospital.

Wood To Open Broad Probe For Red Cross

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—(U.P.)—Chairman John S. Wood, Democrat, Georgia, revealed Friday that the House un-American Activities Committee will begin extensive hearings next week in Communist attempts to infiltrate defense plants and the Hollywood movie industry.

The closed meeting Friday apparently was designed to restore harmony in the committee after a bitter partisan row that broke out on the floor of the House earlier this month when GOP members charged that the committee had lapsed into inactivity under Democratic leadership.

Reps. Charles T. Potter, Republican, Michigan, and Donald L. Jackson, Republican, Cal., also complained that the committee had gone out of its way to give an "implied" clearance to Movie Actor Edward G. Robinson, who is expected to be recalled.

Shell Hits Short, Kills 2 at Riley

FORT RILEY, Kans., Feb. 16.—(INS)—Two soldiers were killed Friday and nine wounded, one critically, when a 105-millimeter shell fell short and exploded in a group of members of the 85th Regiment at the Fort Riley artillery range.

The names of the victims were withheld pending notification of next to kin.

Brig. Gens. James E. Moore, 19th Division commander, and Marcus B. Bell, assistant division commander, said they will conduct a complete investigation.

German Eyesore Gets $101,050 Bid

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—(AP)—The German embassy, a scene of lively parties back in the Kaiser's time but in recent years an eyesore, Friday drew a high bid of only $101,050 in a government sale.

The bidder is Morris Cafritz, Washington real estate man whose wife probably is the town's No. 1 party giver. Cafritz was out of the city, but his office said he had bid on the old place with its 70 rooms and its 13 baths, as an investment.

Only five sealed bids were entered, and Cafritz beat the next highest by $15,950. The government, which took over the property after the war, has 45 days to accept or reject the bid.

Eventually the money will go to the War Claims Commission, which pays claims of American prisoners of war.

Senator Says Russia Gave IPR $2,500

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—(AP)—Evidence indicating that Moscow contributed $2,500 to the Institute of Pacific Relations was reported by Sen. Mundt, Republican, South Dakota Friday.

He said the evidence was in documents which were at one time part of those seized by Senate investigators in a raid on a Massachusetts farm.

IPR Secretary-General William Holland said in New York that such a contribution would be an "entirely logical" thing to find in the institute's records.

The $2,500, he added, was "undoubtedly" one of the yearly assessments paid by the Russian Council of the International Institute some time between 1934-39, when the Soviet Council was affiliated with the IPR.

Mundt based his statement on what he called "sample" institute papers he said he and Sen. McCarthy, Republican, Wisconsin, examined. This was before an agent of the Senate judiciary subcommittee investigating anti-subversive activities grabbed thousands of IPR documents last week from a barn near Lee, Mass.

The South Dakotan described the material he and McCarthy studied as "not necessarily significant, but it certainly could be."

Classical Athens Seeks Industrial Dollars Now

By BILL BORING

ATHENS, Feb. 16—This lavender and lace lady of the Old South dropped her handkerchief to Yankee industry Friday night.

Without so much as a lowering of the eyelids, she let it be known that from now on she'll be chasing the Union dollar.

What she'd like is about 10,000,000 of them, in payroll envelopes, to balance off the amount culture is now bringing in.

Ever since 1801, the year the university was founded, Athens has looked down her nose at the production man, particularly if he came from north of the Mason and Dixon Line. She preferred a genteel existence, dependent upon the university.

But changing times brought her around to a different view. "We still love the university as much as ever," said J. S. Wolfe, retiring president of the Athens Chamber of Commerce "We love its classic atmosphere, but we need more money than the $10,000,000 or $15,000,000, that the university brings in. We'd like to get about an equal amount from factory payrolls."

The reason is explained by Mayor Jack R. Wells. "An economy dependent almost wholly upon the university sometimes gets out of gear," he said. In Summer vacation months, business is pretty slow. Moreover, we've been giving our youth the finest in education, but once they finish school they usually have to look elsewhere for a job because of insufficient local industry."

World War II, with its slim university enrollments, emphasized Athens' need for additional industries. So once the boys got home, and had in mind sticking around a while, the town decided to go out after factories.

The Athens Development Corporation was organized for the purpose of working closely with the Chamber of Commerce in wooing industry. Comprised of business and professional men, the Development Corporation stood ready to provide the financing for industries which the Chamber of Commerce would "get on the string."

A year or so ago, the Chamber of Commerce got a nibble. Dairypak, Inc., owned jointly by the Champion Paper and Fibre Co., of Hamilton, O., and the Gardner Board and Carton Co., of Middletown, O., gave the town a nod.

Remembering Athens' past attitude toward outside industry, however, Dairypak sought an expression of its sincerity. The firm wanted to know if the collegiate town really meant business in seeking outside industry.

Athens demonstrated its sincerity by promising to help "foot" part of the bill for construction of a plant. It promised $75,000.

Friday night, at the 45th annual dinner of the Athens Chamber of Commerce, the completion of the plant—a half-million dollar structure—was celebrated and Dairypak, the town's first outside industry in 20 years, was honored.

G. A. Boothe, president of the Athens Development Corporation, presented Clarke Marion, president of Dairypak, Inc., a check in the amount of $75,000.

Marion promptly returned the check, replying that his company really didn't want the money. It only wanted to test Athens' sincerity.

So "The Classic City" is on its way industrially in a big way. Already, it has another outside industry on the hook. The Southeastern Rubber Manufacturing Company has broken ground for a plant.

Dairypak, once full employment is reached, will provide jobs for about 300 persons, distributing about $700,000 annually in payrolls. It manufactures paperboard milk cartons and its home office is Cleveland, Ohio.

Although Dairypak is the first outside industry to locate here in 20 years, Athens has the big Athens Manufacturing Co., and about 100 other local industries.

The town, leaders here say, turned down the magnificent Chicopee Manufacturing Co. plant located in Gainesville. They say Chicopee wanted to locate here, but at that time Athens preferred to remain strictly classical.

Lodge Move Faces Stiff Opposition

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Negro Elks and some nearby residents are at loggerheads over a proposal to move Elks Lodge No. 719 from Ashby St. to new quarters at 1099 Hunter St., S. W.

The Atlanta Board of Zoning Appeals Friday, after a lengthy hearing on a petition to extend business zoning to permit enlargement and renovation of an old building, deferred action until a special meeting which will be held sometime next week.

Petitioners are Issac F. Freeman, exalted ruler of the lodge, and W. H. Chivers, owner of the property.

Several Negro home owners in the area, including Asmus Lyons and J. C. Long, president of the Westside Voters' League, opposed the petition contending it would deteriorate their properties and would be a "bad moral influence."

Both sides were flanked by attorneys. Several weeks ago the City gave the lodge a permit to sell wine by the drink at the location. The session Friday was to pave the way for improvements needed.

At last Wednesday's Police Committee session objectors asked that the decision to permit wine sales for consumption on the premises be reviewed. The Committee postponed the issue until its Feb. 28 session.

In other actions, the zoning board authorized construction of an addition for Sunday School services at the Stewart Ave. Methodist Church, allowed religious services at 416 Decatur St., S. E., and approved a nursing home for 1137 Moreland Pl., S. E. It turned down a petition to convert an accessory building into living quarters at 882 Simpson St., N. W.

Dog Owners Warned

Dogs running Atlanta streets without tags will be impounded instantly, Stafford Graydon, City health engineer, warned Friday. He said if the dog has a tag, its owner is notified, but those without tags are considered strays. The statement came after Frank Crockett of 453 Calhoun St., N. W., complained his dog was picked up and no effort was made to determine the owner. Crockett said his dog was innoculated, but had lost his tag. Graydon asserted his department wants to be as cooperative as possible, but it would be impossible to try to find owners of the hundreds of dogs picked up annually.

Hospital Cases

Mrs. Paul Self of the City Personnel Department Friday was rushed to Crawford Long Hospital suffering from a heart ailment, but doctors indicated her condition was not considered immediately serious. . . . Robert Speer sanitary engineer in the City Health Department, is recovering from an eye operation at Emory Hospital. . . Jack Gray, Atlanta Municipal Airpor Manager, will address a joint meeting of civic organizations at Savannah Feb. 27.

Church Burglarized

Detectives Saturday were searching for two silver candle holders and a clock amplifier which disappeared from the Peachtree Christian Church at 1580 Peachtree St., N. E.

Dets. C. C. Hamby and H. J. Standridge said the items were taken from the chapel.

IN SOME JOBS
YOU are through at age 50 to 60. In some jobs materials get scarce in time of crisis, but in our field neither age nor shortages affect you. In fact our business is increasing due to the trend of times. We are a nationally known organization and have revised our entire line in such a way as to be in greater demand by the public. I need men in almost every county in the State of Georgia to locally represent our company. To qualify you should have a fair education, be able to meet the public, and own a serviceable automobile. This is not a door-knocking proposition. The average man in our organization earns from $500 to $800 per month. The job requires hard work and is of permanent nature. If interested in finding out more about this proposition, see H. D. Reagan between 9:30 a. m. and 12 noon, or write me at Grand Theater Building, Office 317-319, Atlanta, Georgia.

SALESMAN
SOUTHERN manufacturer offers a proposition for seasoned salesman. The man selected must have a car, be free to travel and be able to sell the retail trade a complete line of Extracts, Spices, Insecticides and Drugs. To the man who qualifies we offer field training and drawing account against liberal commissions and protected territory of approximately 60 Georgia counties. Call or write Sam T. Voorhies, Jr., Henry Grady Hotel, Atlanta, Georgia, February 22nd and 23rd.

WE HAVE a high-class selling job for 3 men who think they are worth $100 or more per week and who are not willing to work for less. We will start you out with a good salary and commission and the job will be permanent with opportunities for advancement if you have a reasonable amount of ambition, determination and ability. If you live in Atlanta, have a car and want to get started in a work where men are making from $5,000 to $10,000 per year, write us, giving experience and phone number for interview to B. C. 170, Journal-Constitution.

Nationally Known Corp.
WILL select one man for each of the following territories: Atlanta, Thomaston, Manchester, LaGrange, Cedartown and Rome. Due to the increasing demand for our equipment we are forced to expand. Prewar Debts Assumed By West German State

BONN, Germany, Feb. 16—(AP)—The West German Cabinet decided unanimously Friday to acknowledge responsibility for the prewar debts of the Reich as a step toward winning greater political and economic freedoms from the occupying powers.

No one is sure just what the public and private obligations total. The best unofficial estimate is 24,000,000,000 marks (about 5,600,000,000 dollars at current exchange rate). The principle creditors are the United States, the Netherlands, Britain, Switzerland and Sweden.

The situation is complicated by such factors as postwar currency revisions, chaos of defeat, differing conversion rates and Communist control over several important German banks in East Germany. Many of the debts were contracted by now-extinct authorities such as the Prussian State Government.

Straightening out this tangle and deciding what percentage West Germany should and could pay without wrecking her economy is to be the months-long task of a debts settlement commission on which the U. S., Britain, France, the Bonn Government and possibly others will be represented. A German spokesman said a conference of all creditor nations was suggested. He said the draft did not touch upon the matter of West German assets.

The Western big three foreign ministers decided in New York last September the occupation statute would be revised to give the West Germans further liberty when Bonn:

1—Acknowledged responsibility for the prewar debts of the Reich and postwar financial aid to West Germany from the occupying powers.

2—Assured equitable access to raw materials and goods needed for common defense.

The second assurance presented no difficulty.

The postwar aid angle also is reasonably clearcut. The U. S. has pumped in $2,992,000,000, including $887,000,000 in Marshall Plan aid. Britain paid out more than $800,000,000 in economic relief in the first three years of the occupation. France is owed about $25,000,000 for credits for her occupation zone. These figures do not include refugee organization expenditures or private help.

But the prewar debts recognition provision caused a political controversy among the Germans.

Now that has been settled by the decision of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government and a draft of the German acknowledgement, drawn up with the advice of Allied financial experts, is on its way to the Allied High Commissioners. Parliament's ratification is necessary, but was regarded as certain.

Cycle-Chasing Dog Earns Ride Home

An 11-year-old dog who likes to chase motorcycles is coming home to Atlanta again; but his owner says he probably will have to stay in the basement.

Biff, pet of Mr. and Mrs. M. Cook Barwick, of 1240 Fairview Rd., N. E., was picked up in Birmingham, Ala., by Humane Society officers as he apparently was trying to make his way home from exile in Alabama.

It was the second time Biff had been sent away from Atlanta to keep him from nipping at the heels of passing motorcyclists. Last summer he escaped from a farm near Winder and made it home on his own. This time, however, he is slated to ride back on a train with the Pullman porter—a friend of the Barwick's maid—who three weeks ago took the big sad-eyed dog to his farm in Alabama.

Arming Aim Is Peaceful, Franks Says

Strengthening of the Western powers is looked upon by the British people as a method of preserving world peace rather than as preparation to fight Russia, Sir Oliver Franks, Britain's Ambassador to the United States, declared Friday night.

"It's not easy to be optimistic today," Franks told an audience of approximately 600 persons at Emory University, "but the British are taking the hopeful view that war with Russia is not inevitable."

The ambassador, in Atlanta under the sponsorship of the local chapter of the English-Speaking Union and Emory University, outlined the three-point framework of British foreign policy.

He said it was the maintenance of collective security, making a "citadel of the west" in the Atlanta community, and keeping the free world free.

Franks said the British people looked with pride upon the United States when it took the leadership last Summer in opposing North Korean aggression.

Approximately 22,000 British troops are fighting in Korea, the ambassador continued, but others are opposing the spread of Communism in Southern Asia.

He said the British felt, however, that the most effective way of fighting Communism in that part of the world is to raise the standards of living of the millions of people there and the efforts are being made to carry out that policy.

Friday was Frank's 46th birthday and at the conclusion of the speech a group of students led the crowd in singing "Happy Birthday" to the British diplomat.

Among those on the stage with Franks were Sir Richard Livingston, of Oxford University in England, a visiting professor at Emory, Hugh G. Head, president of the Atlanta chapter of the English-Speaking Union, and Dr. Goodrich C. White, president of Emory.

Enlistments Open For Navy Nurses

Lieut. Elizabeth Keith, U. S. Navy Nurse Corps, will accept applications for commissions in the Corps from 2 to 5 p. m. Monday and from 8 to 10 a. m. Tuesday at the U. S. Navy Recruiting Station, Room 318, New Post Office Building.

Lieut. Keith also will visit various hospitals in the Atlanta area to encourage senior student nurses to apply for commissions upon graduation. She said candidates must be high school graduates, registered nurses, between the ages of 21 and 28 and "mentally, physically and moraly qualified" to be Navy officers.

18-Draft After Others Gains House Favor

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—(AP)—A plan which would authorize the drafting of 18-year-olds but might delay their actual induction almost indefinitely was reported gaining strength Friday in the House Armed Services Committee.

The proposal was put before a closed-door meeting of the group by Rep. Paul J. Kilday, Democrat, Texas. Several influential committee members told reporters afterward that they spoke out strongly for the plan although Chairman Carl Vinson, Democrat, Georgia, reportedly was opposed.

It would prohibit draft boards from inducting 18-year-olds until their states completely exhausted their supply of men 19-through-25. Under a pending Senate bill, local boards could call the youngsters when their lists of older men are exhausted.

By putting the prohibition on a statewide basis, no board could induct 18-year-olds as long as any other board in the state still had older men available. This would tend to delay the induction of the younger men for some time.

Kilday said manpower figures supplied by the Defense Department indicate that no 18-year-olds could be called until the total strength of the Army, Navy and Air Force exceeds 4,000,000 men. He noted that the present goal is 3,500,000.

4 Schools Here Are Ransacked

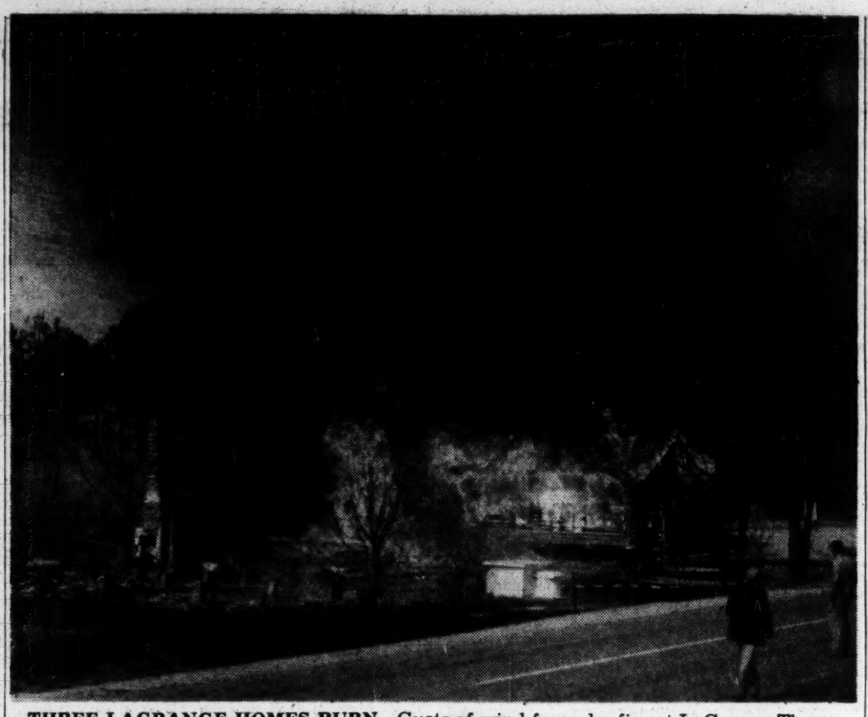

Vandals have looted four Atlanta system schools, causing considerable damage at one of them, police reported.

Most heavily hit was Booker T. Washington High School for Negroes, at Whitehouse Drive and West Hunter Street, S. W. Police said prowlers dumped out 10 gallons of ice cream malt, wrecked a candy machine, emptied fire extinguishers throughout the building and shattered 28 window panes.

Also hard hit was the Goldsmith School at Rice and Marietta Streets, N. W., where vandals broke through a window and smeared floors with food taken from the cafeteria.

The Samuel Inman School reported the theft of a pair of skates, a watch, an engraved gold football emblem and candy from the principal's office, and Crogman Grammar School for Negroes, at 1114 West Avenue, S. W., reported the theft of a radio.

Meanwhile, police recovered part of more than $2,000 worth of musical instruments reported stolen from Fulton High School Tuesday night. The instruments were found in an auto parked at Peeples Street and Donally Ave., S. W.

THREE LAGRANGE HOMES BURN—Gusts of wind fanned a fire at LaGrange Thursday that quickly destroyed three suburban homes on the Whitesville Road. The homes destroyed were those of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Smith, who lost all their possessions; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Palmore and Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Ward.

Young Peanut Venders Victimized By Slickers Passing Stage Money

It may be peanuts but juvenile bogus money passers are giving Atlanta officers plenty of headaches.

Det. Jack Cain, in charge of juvenile investigations, described the bogus bills as stage money sold in novelty stores six for five cents.

One side of the money is marked "1 Dollar," Cain related, while the other bears the figure "1."

Carefully folded so that only the "1" shows, he said, the stage money could be mistaken for $1 bills.

Victims are youthful vendors of peanuts. Cain said the slickers, three of whom already are in the Juvenile Detention Home, work at night.

In each instance thus far the victims receive the bills and give 90 cents change.

COURT VERDICT DUE

Bride-Stealing Romeo To Learn Fate Saturday

CANEA, Crete, Feb. 16—(AP)—A five-man court announced it will hand down its verdict Saturday in the case of Costa Kephalcyannis, a mountain Romeo, accused of forming an armed band to kidnap his Juliet, Tassoula Petracogeorgi, member of a rival Cretan clan.

Chief Defense Atty. Anthony Maris said in a final appeal:

"Here in Crete, Sparta and the ancient Greek land it is a common practice and tradition for strong men to steal their brides."

Before the court adjourned, presiding judge Socrates Kaviadas asked the mustached defendant whether he had anything to say.

"Nothing," Costa replied.

Petro Gheoghellas, one of the prosecuting attorneys, conceded the state's witnesses failed to prove without doubt that Costa headed an armed band. He insisted, however, that Costa had kidnaped Tassoula and should be punished for the "crime committed."

Judge Kaviadas said the five-man court will deliberate on four points:

1. The question of forming an armed band, which calls for 15 to 20 years for participation and death to the leader.

2. If the evidence shows the armed band was not formed, he will be acquitted.

3. If it is proved he took the girl by force alone and armed, he can be sentenced to five to 10 years.

4. If convicted under the first and third conditions, he may get a light sentence, if the court finds he committed the crime when under emotional strain.

Costa and Tassoula were married in a chapel on legendary Mount Ida several days after he took her from a street in Herakleion last August.

Judge Kaviadas opened the session by reading a cable from Tassoula, who is ill with influenza in Athens, expressing annoyance at the prosecution's insistence she is not completely free. The cable said she could not attend the trial because of her illness, but enjoys complete freedom.

Tassoula, who is expecting Costa's baby, has vowed she will not give up her Romeo, despite the objection of her angry father.

"All I want is my husband back, to settle down to a quiet life with him," she told a reporter in Athens. "I want my father's blessing. I would like to see him. But he won't bless my marriage. I'm never going to leave Costa. That's that!"

Testimony that Costa had seduced her in a mountain cave in the presence of his men five days after the abduction drew an emphatic denial from Tassoula.

Costa has told reporters that "even the death penalty cannot get me down, so great is my love for Tassoula."

'World Agent' Fined For Part in Lottery

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 16 —(AP)—Gordon Rice Cowie of Fort Lauderdale and the Franklin Press of Miami were filen a total of $10,500 Friday for participation in a $2,000,000 international lottery.

Cowie, who was fined $5,000 of the total on a conspiracy count, also was given a suspended two-year prison sentence and placed on probation for three years. He was described as "world agent" for a lottery based on a Dec. 26 horse race at Knutsford Park, Kingston, Jamaica, B. W. I.

The printing firm was fined $500 on each of 11 counts of transporting lottery tickets in interstate commerce.

Cookie Bombardment Scores Hit in Korea

TOKYO, Feb. 16—(INS)—American troops on the western front in Korea were bombarded Thursday—with cookies!

A Far East Air Forces C-119 flying boxcar dropped 1,300 dozen cookies to the front line troops.

The cookies were baked by servicemen's wives in Japan and forwarded to the 315th Air Division combat cargo base by the Red Cross for transport by air to the infantrymen.

FBI Seizes Check Passer Rated One of 'Most Wanted'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—(AP)—The FBI Friday announced the arrest at Mobile, Ala., of Courtney Townsend Taylor, notorious check passer and one of the Bureau's 10 "most wanted men."

The arrest was made by FBI agents and local police officers after Taylor had cashed a check in a jewelry store.

The FBI said Taylor has passed more than $88,000 worth of bad checks during the last seven years.

Long sought, he was added last month to the "10 most wanted" criminals list.

The FBI said he was caught Friday as a result of his favorite device of making a substantial purchase in a store and offering a check in a larger amount in payment so as to retain the cash difference.

The Bureau said Taylor bought a $15 necklace in the Mobile jewelry store and tendered a check for $63.90.

The store owner, who had heard of Taylor's operations elsewhere over the country, had a clerk follow him down the street while the FBI was notified. The officers made the pickup promptly on the street.

The FBI has described Taylor as "perhaps the most ingenious check passer ever to operate in this country." Now 42 years of age, his police file goes back to childhood. He has served time in numerous state and Federal prisons. Taylor is a native of East Hartford, Conn.

Lensmen Set Meeting Here

Paul Linwood, of Houston, Texas, one of the country's outstanding portrait photographers, will be among the speakers at the three-day convention of the Southeastern Photographers Association opening at 10 a. m. Monday at the Biltmore Hotel

George Sanderson

George Sanderson, of West Palm Beach, Fla., president of the Association, will be in charge of the meeting. Nearly 600 portrait and commercial photographers from all over the Southeast are expected to attend.

Speakers will include Leo Stern, of Kansas City, Mo.; Mills Steele, of Greenville, S. C.; Harriet Sheppard, of Miami, Fla.; Victor Rahner, of St. Augustine, Fla., and Miss Agnes Sherwood, of Macon.

The photographers will have a buffet supper and square dance Monday night. The annual banquet and awarding of cups for excellence will be Tuesday night.

'Dog House' Tags Replace 'Hydrants'

AUGUSTA, Me., Feb. 16—(AP)—Hydrant-shaped dog license tags got the State Agriculture Department in the doghouse last year.

Sensitive dog lovers protested that the tags were a slur on man's best friend.

So the Department came out with a new style tag for 1951—shaped like doghouses.

CASES MADE

Two Hurt In Traffic Accidents

Four pedestrians were injured in automobile accidents Friday.

William Truman Stone, 61, of 214 Hendrix Ave., S. W., a deliveryman for a dental laboratory, sustained a possible fracture of the right leg when struck down at Cone and Poplar Sts., N. W., Ptl. E. F. McKillop and E. G. Cowan said. Stone was booked for jaywalking and the driver, William H. Ravan, 27, of Marietta, was charged with violating pedestrian rights.

Miss Mary Jane Latham, 23, of 122 Georgia Ave., S. W., was booked for jaywalking after she walked into the side of an auto in front of her home, Ptl. R. H. Anderson and J. C. Hopkins said. Patrolmen added the front wheel of the auto rolled over Miss Latham's right foot.

Mason W. Millwood, 75, Decatur, sustained injuries to his left leg and hip when he was hit by a car at College Ave. and Columbia Ave. in Decatur.

And another auto victim, Lt. Hossien Vodgdoni, 29, Ordnance Depot, Conley, sustained injuries to the right arm and leg when hit at Cain St. and Spring St., N. E.

In other accidents, Mrs. Maggie Emma Vaughn, 26, of 496 Formwalt St., S. W., went to Grady Hospital for the removal of a fish bone lodged in her throat. Samuel Craven, 68, of 632 Hoke St., N. W., Chief Engineer at the City Water Works, was bitten by a cat on the right thumb. Sammy Clonts, 14, of 862 Park St., S. W., fell, injuring her left arm. Sammy Charles Rose, three, of 1480 Ryan St., S. W., drank a quantity of antiseptic.

Wedding Eve Jilting Nets Jilted $3,500

AKRON, Ohio, Feb. 16—(INS) — An Ohioan had $3,500 Friday to compensate for being cast aside on the eve of his wedding.

An Akron jury awarded that amount in a breach of promise suit brought by William Hoffman against pretty Colleen Coyle, 23.

The $3,500 had been contributed jointly by Hoffman and Miss Coyle into a hope chest.

Hoffman told the jury Miss Coyle broke their engagement the night before they were to be married.

OPS Chief Hints Parity Modification

Special to The New York Times and The Atlanta Constitution

By WILLIAM M. BLAIR

DES MOINES, Iowa, Feb. 16—Michael V. DiSalle, chief of the Office of Price Stabilization, warned farmers Friday that "should the next two or three months indicate that the parity concept interferes with our effort to secure economy stability, we shall have no other course than to recommend its modification."

Furthermore, he said:

"If the general principle of escalation, whether with reference to business costs, farm prices, or wages, forms a substantial hindrance to the fight against inflation, we can do no less than point out to our legislative body (Congress) the dangers inherent in continued toleration of the practice which at this time has so many elements of justice to recommend it."

He did not spell out in an address to the annual two-day National Farm Institute what, if any, changes or modifications might be recommended in parity or escalator clauses in labor-management contracts.

Parity seeks to establish a fair relationship between prices received by the farmer and the cost of things he must buy. Escalator clauses are tied to the federal cost of living index to enable workers to meet rising costs.

Responding to brief questions from the predominantly farm audience in this "corn and hog capital," he said some thought was being given to price ceilings on livestock sold from the farm but at what level was yet to be determined. He told Oscar Henline, president of the Farmers Grain Dealers Association of Iowa, a cooperative that at present "we are allowing parity to follow its own natural course." He added with a grin that "I hope some day to understand it."

Cox Gets His Man

Det. Lt. W. M. Cox Saturday was recovering from a back injury sustained in the capture of a Negro burglary suspect.

Giving chase to the man on foot at Carter and Walnut Sts., Cox seized him in time to tumble down an embankment at the rear of the E. A. Ware School. The Lieutenant held onto his man but during the scuffle sustained an injury to the back.

Lawrence Press Institute Speaker for Constitution

Constitution State News Service

ATHENS, Feb. 16—William Lawrence, foreign correspondent for The New York Times, will address the 23d annual Georgia Press Institute on the University of Georgia campus Feb. 21-24.

Lawrence will speak at the final Institute session at noon Saturday, Feb. 24, under the sponsorship of The Atlanta Constitution.

Lawrence has had a varied journalistic career working in both Korea and Russia as Times correspondent. He is the co-author with General Bedell Smith of "My Three Years in Moscow."

Plans for this year's programs are being made by an Institute committee headed by Leo Aikman, Atlanta Constitution. Other members of the committee are Dyar Massey, Wrightsville Headlight, and Charles Hardy, Gainesville News.

Several hundred Georgia newspapermen are expected to attend the four-day Institute.

Lawrence will be the concluding speaker on the Institute program on Saturday, following The Constitution luncheon at the Georgian Hotel at 1:30 p. m.

London String Quartet Shows Right to Top

By HOWELL JONES

The London String Quartet Friday night established itself as the most popular chamber music group to play in Atlanta in many years in a Music Club concert at the Atlanta Woman's Club Auditorium.

Richard Farrell, 25-year-old New Zealand pianist, who assisted the group in two quintets, won two rousing ovations from the audience for his playing in two encores.

The Quartet, composed of four master musicians, played brilliantly in presenting a program of chamber music by Dvorak, Warner and Schumann. The group then gave in to thunderous applause and offered two encores—two more than the average chamber music group is asked to give.

John Pennington, a true virtuoso of the violin, headed the group which also included Laurent Halleux, second violin; Edgar Acosta, viola, and Warwick Evans, 'Cello. Evans also was outstanding.

Pennington's playing was highlighted in the encore, "Serenade," by Haydn. More beautiful music is seldom heard.

The top work on the long program was Schumann's "Quintet for Piano and Strings in E-Flat Major, Opus 44," which concluded the regular program. Here the Quartet was a unit that played with one purpose—a masterful performance of great score.

Right behind in overall excellence was Dvorak's "Quintet for Piano and Strings, Opus 81", the opening selection.

In between, the players presented "The Pixie Ring," Waldo Warner's miniature suite for 'string quartet; and a quartet arrangement of Foster's "Camptown Races," scored especially for the London Quartet.

Farrell played Chopin's "Waltz in C-Sharp Minor," and "Die Fledermaus Waltzes," by J. Strauss, both as encores. The Chopin score was played with charm and brilliance characteristic of a finished musician, but the Strauss score was done with a spectacular flair. His interpretation, filled with improvisations, proved more of a technical display than anything else.

2 Youths Jailed In 'Cycle Thefts

Two 16-year-old high school students Friday admitted taking a dozen motorcycles and motor-scooters valued at more than $3,000 "because we wanted to ride," Det. Harry Williams said.

Williams said the machines were taken from high school grounds over Atlanta. He added they were discovered—some of them dismantled—in the basement of a home on Washington, St., S. W.

The youths could give no reason for the thefts except "we wanted to ride and we wanted to work on motorcycles," Williams related.

He said neither youth has a previous arrest record. Both were lodged in city jail on charges of suspicion of larceny.
